A COOL HEAD AND A READY RIFLE

Much has been said in the press the last two days about Cliff McGinnis, who lives near the Grande Ronde river in the Promise district, and who captured the Wallowa bank robber suspects single handed. And of all that has been said, McGinnis is deserving, and is rightly cast in the hero role. Our Promise correspondent writes in simple words the story of the feat, and here it is:

"Cliff McGinnis, who lives near the Grande Ronde river about five miles below Promise, made a trip up the Poswacka ridge Thursday afternoon and stopped at the home of Ord Wortman and they were telling him about the bank robbery which had occurred at Wallowa Monday in which two men held up the bank and escaped with cash and valuable papers. The robbers entered their car and took of the Leap country road where the officers lost track of them, McGinnis was told.

"Cliff decided to himself that these men might have abandoned their car (which they had) and might be hiding in the Mud Creek canyon. He left the Wortman home at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and went directly to the canyon. He spied two men coming down the canyon side from the east. Cliff hurried on to his home and secured his rifle and field glasses and told his mother he thought he had located some deer. She insisted on accompanying him. Then he told her of the bank robbery at Wallowa and that he saw two men in the canyon just a short distance away. He went on and soon located the men and succeeded in getting close enough to get his gun trained them. Cliff yelled to them that he had them covered with his rifle and that they had better give themselves up. One of the men quickly complied with his request while the other one argued the case awhile and finally both threw down their guns and hid as he told them. He marched them ahead of him and made them wade the river as it was getting late and it was a mile to the bridge over a rough trail, and by wading the river they soon reached his house.

"In the meantime Mrs. McGinnis waited anxiously for Cliff's return. She saw him coming with the two men and loaded her own gun to be prepared to defend herself and Cliff in case they made any opposition. Cliff told her to prepare them some supper as they had not had food for several days. She prepared them food and gave them dry clothing.

"They then phoned to Troy for extra men to guard the prisoners while Cliff went back and got the money where the robbers had told him it was hidden. He obtained the money and phoned the sheriff."

It was as simple as that for Cliff McGinnis — just a cool head and a ready rifle and an abundance of what the slang world calls "sand." All honor to him — we need more men like Cliff; and we need more women like his mother, who was ready for any development, ready to defend her son and not standing in his way in what he saw as simple duty.

A few more people like the McGinnis mother and son over the nation and the crime wave would be just a little ripple.

COLLEGE FOR TEACHERS IS HELD NEEDED

tion and that the probable length of time of this pressure will make impossible any increase in support by taxation. Mrs. Pierce asked, "in the meantime shall the burden rest upon the student through fees, tuitions and debts? Shall those who cannot pay these fees be denied the campus or shall the campus be open to all highly qualified students without fees?"

Other topics calling for serious study were professional education, junior colleges, faculty councils, unification of the present system, and the relations with the press.

"Small Oregon educate for all professions freely and without fees at public expense or shall there be a comity in higher education which will distribute professional schools among the neighboring states of the Pacific Coast?" the board member asked. At this point Mrs. Pierce raised the question of teacher training for elementary schools. "Shall we continue to offer preparation of college or graduate grade for doctors, lawyers, dentists and architects and be content with two years of normal school work for the training of public school teachers? Can Oregon be content with its system of elementary teacher training? Does it not call for immediate revision and for establishment of a teacher's college?" it was asked.

Would Reduce Costs
Junior colleges in Oregon would reduce the student expense cost, make it possible for younger students to live at home, give educational opportunity to remote as well as thickly populated centers and would relieve the pressure on the larger schools. Mrs. Pierce stated, in bringing this question before the group.

"One of President Arnold Bennett Hall's major contributions to the Oregon educational program was undoubtedly the reorganization of the university into upper and lower divisions," she said. "Shall this be followed by junior colleges in the centers already established in La Grande, Ashland and possibly in Portland?"

Declaring that she did not assume in any way that the press of the state could be controlled or that it needs guidance, Mrs. Pierce threw out the suggestion that journalists might unite with the state editorial association in formulating a program that would remove from editorial and news columns some of the sectional and institutional partisanship and bitterness, and that would help the board to put before the public educational news and comment of real significance and importance.

"There must be further adjustment to hard years which are to come because public funds will be small," Mrs. Pierce said in conclusion. "Facilities must be called for continued sacrifice, students will find it difficult to support themselves and parents will find it often impossible to gratify the ambitions of their children. All our energies must be devoted to the effort to hold, if possible, the fullest opportunity for serious students and to give every encouragement to the development of special talents.

"The board needs the very definite and constructive help of your group in its effort toward the preservation of democracy and the finest spirit and the highest ideals of scholarship in Oregon's institutions of higher education."

F. R. PLANNING TO INITIATE NEW POLICY

The means of control was establishment of a government market for newly mined gold in the United States and the president's decision to buy or sell gold—"whenever necessary"—in the world markets.

Mr. Roosevelt announced the step as a definite policy, "to establish and maintain continuous control" looking toward a managed currency, in a talk to the country last night. He pledged specifically to boost price levels and eventually revalue the dollar.

"Government credit will be maintained," the president said, "and a sound currency will accompany a rise in the American commodity price level."

Reviewing his administration's recovery campaign, Mr. Roosevelt assured the people "we are on our way and we are headed in the right direction."

"When we have restored the price level," said the president, "we shall seek to establish and maintain a dollar which will not change its purchasing and debt paying power during the succeeding generation."

For the present, he said, it was important to tighten control over the dollar.

Along with this new monetary action, Mr. Roosevelt discussed generally the aims and achievements of the recovery drive, stressing the farm and NRA administrations as mounting columns in the new "edifice of recovery."

Dealing with the agriculture program, Mr. Roosevelt said he was not satisfied with the improvement in farm prices and would insist upon a further increase.

AT THE LIBERTY

Puget Sound tugboats, built to withstand the terrific storms of winter in the Northem port, cameras are strung from cables, or from their booms, to film them in churning seas a great liner, chartered for a picture, and placed in the center of a raging storm at sea — these are among the amazing technical feats accomplished in the filming of "Tugboat Annie." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's vivid drama, co-starring Mark Dresser and Wallace Beery for the first time since "Min and Bill," which is at the Liberty theatre.

The story, based on Norman Beltinger's Saturday Evening Post tales of the redoubtable feminine tugboat captain, was filmed at Seattle Harbor, original local of the tales, and in other water-front locations. Seagoing tug boats for weeks, there is an amazing engine room climax in which Beery invades a blazing firebox to plug boiler tubes and save a great liner, and hilarious comedy abounds between dramatic incidents.

Among the out-of-town hunters who arrived here this morning en route to Wallowa was District Attorney Ted Gillinger and a group of friends from Klamath Falls.

Elk Hunters in East Oregon Woods Today

weekend said a regular army of hunters would take the woods this morning. "Hotels in Enterprise have been packed for the past week and many have established camps. The hunters come from as far away as Iowa and it is estimated by some that there will be 1000 elk hunters out in the woods after the big animals in Wallowa county."

It is believed an equally large number of hunters went out in Union county, and probably more in Umatilla county. Baker reported much activity, with possible a 1000 to take the woods today.

"Slim" said they took the wrong road, and then there was nothing to do except keep on going and try to escape.

The prisoner told the state police officer that he never robbed an individual, although admitted he took part in several bank robberies. At present, he is an escaped convict from the Oklahoma penitentiary where he was serving a life term on a charge of killing an officer. "Slim" told Robertson that he was innocent of the murder, however.

Beware The Cough or Cold That Hangs On

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with a two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, and attacks the seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. One Cent a Day Brings $1 a Month

Over $670,000.00 Already Paid in Cash Benefits

One cent a day ($3.65 per year), invested in a National Protective Policy, will now buy more accident insurance benefits than can be secured from any other company for any amount up to $10 per year.

This new policy, paying accident benefits up to $100 each month or $1000 to $1500 at death, is now being sold to all men, women and children, between the ages of 7 and 80 years, whether employed or not.

More people in the U. S. were killed by auto accidents during the past 18 months than the entire number of American soldiers killed in action or died of wounds during the 18 months America was in the world war. Many people say that the National Protective benefits for auto accidents of $100 a month (instead of the usual $25 or $50 a month) is alone worth the entire cost of $3.65 a year. Yet this is but one of the many features of this new and unusual policy.

The National Protective is the largest and oldest company of its kind in the world. It has paid over $1,000,000,000 in cash to thousands of its policyholders when cash was most needed.
