

C. C. C. Workers Arrive at Camp Restom, Sitkum

CAMP RESTOM, Sitkum, Ore. (Special)—The citizens conservation corps men from Frog Heaven camp in Eastern Oregon have arrived at Camp Restom, located on the north fork of Coquille river after an uneventful trip. Lumber barracks and mess halls are now under construction. The camp site is a beautiful meadow in a bend of the creek with a background of heavily timbered mountains.

Two cub bears have been presented to the camp for mascots and Leland H. Hudson is nursing a finger—bitten by one of the young bears. The bite is quite painful but not serious.

Willard Houston, Harold Eurl and Ralph Moore already have fallen in love with the country. They have arranged for lumber, obtained building sites and expect to move their families as soon as the cabins are ready.
