

Child Labor Is Taboo Under The Blue Eagle Code

PORTLAND (Special)—Local compliance boards must grant no exceptions approving the use of child labor, Washington advises informed Oregon-Idaho district NRA headquarters here today.

Dr. Leo Wolman, head of the Labor Advisory Board, declared that child labor must not be authorized under any circumstances.

"This ruling from Washington has no general application in the west where child labor is a rarity," said R. J. Hendricks, Salem, (Ore.) member of the district recovery board.

"However, any instance of child labor which comes to the attention of local compliance boards must be quickly scotched. It is the clear intent of the national recovery administration to prohibit child labor by children under 18, in order that this work may be re-distributed among adults, where it belongs."

The ruling received from Washington explained that wage standards are always lower where children are allowed to work, and that child labor is an evil not permitted under the NRA code. No approved code for any industry allows child labor.

"The abolition of child labor is one of the greatest achievements of the national recovery administration," declared Will Simons, Boise (Idaho) vice-chairman of the district recovery board. "Compliance boards must not authorize any exceptions to the president's re-employment agreement which would lead to the resumption of child labor."

STOCKS MOVE UP IN GRAIN'S PATH

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—Stocks moved upward today, following a rally in grains and, despite relatively quiet trading, market sentiment appeared to be considerably improved. Another advance in the domestic gold price seemingly was a minor factor. The close was firm, with gains of 1 to more than 2 points predominating. Transfers approximated 1,050,000 shares.

The Lindberghs slept until nearly nine o'clock and then had breakfast in their room. Then they received a visit from American embassy officials and planned what Lindbergh was said to have described as a "few days" visit.

Lindbergh himself arranged the secret flight to Paris to see the city where he became known as one of the world's outstanding fliers and where he was the hero of millions.

Some concern was felt in America and abroad last yesterday after the Lindberghs hopped off from Inverness, Scotland and for many hours were unreported. With a storm in progress, some fears were felt that all was not well with the American fliers.

The gain was less than the normal seasonal improvement, resulting in a decline in the seasonally adjusted index to 70 from 74 in August, and 73 in September 1932. The indexes are percentages of the 1923-35 average.

The seasonally adjusted index declined for all the cities surveyed except Seattle and Spokane, which held even. The actual indexes advanced in all cities but Oakland, which showed a decline wiping out most of the August gain.
