

WASHINGTON AND OREGON TOP ALL IN LUMBER CUT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP) — Washington and Oregon, although production dropped off by millions of feet, held their places as the first and second lumber producing states of the nation in 1932. They were the only states reporting cuts of one billion feet or more.

This was disclosed in a report of the department of commerce which set the 1932 Washington production at 2,260,689,000 feet, and the Oregon at 1,603,892,000 feet.

Both states dropped off considerably from the 1931 cut, the report showed, and produced less than half the cut for 1930. In 1931 Washington produced 3,907,907,000 feet of lumber, while in 1930 the production was 5,562,120,000 feet.

The trend in Oregon production was similar. The 1931 cut was 2,623,038,000 feet, and in 1930 it was 3,654,075,000 feet.

Producing mills in Oregon dropped from 429 in 1930 to 327 in 1931, and 277 in 1932. In Oregon the drop was from 442 in 1930 to 365 in 1931, and 314 in 1932.

Crawford, Norma Shearer, Wallace Beery, Marion Davies. The one film he made on loan to another studio, "No Man of Her Own," starred him with Carol Lombard.

And co-starring is what Gable prefers. He said three years ago, when his star was rapidly rising, that he was not much of an actor and that he knew it.

"And that crack still goes," he said the other day.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. A. W. Leffel on Dec. 6.

Clark Gable Still Refuses to Regard Himself As "Star"

By Robbin Coons
HOLLYWOOD — Three years later — later than the day he made an inconspicuous entry to films only to start a new style in movie heroes — Clark Gable still has no ambitions in the direction of single-handed stardom.

"They're too smart to let me try to carry a picture alone," he says, referring to his studio bosses, "and I don't want to, because I know I can't."

In the minds of the fans, perhaps, Gable already is a star, and, in fact, he enjoys that rating at the studio. But all his successes have been scored in supporting or co-starring roles with the "big" names of the M-G-M lot—Helen Hayes, Greta Garbo, Joan

Hi-Lo Club Is Entertained

The Hi-Lo club was entertained Wednesday afternoon at a delightful party at the home of Mrs. Herbert Davies. Gay flowers decorated the rooms and a Halloween motif predominated.

Mrs. Raymond O. Williams was a guest. Prizes at bridge were awarded to Mrs. Clyde Peterson, high, and Mrs. Nolan Skiff, fourth.

The club will meet again in two weeks.

MRS. CUMMINGS CHOOSES PLAID CHIFFON DRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unusual evening dress of plaid chiffon in shades of pink and gray was worn by Mrs. Homer S. Cummings, wife of the attorney general, to a recent theatrical opening.

MEIER PLANS MESSAGE TO LEGISLATURE

inate any increased tax schedule other than liquor fees and possible exception of a gross tax on utilities.

The committee of 32 recommended a sum of $8,000,000 for the next 18 months as a minimum for relief needs. This would call for more than $5,000,000 from the state, the balance from the federal government in matched fund. But since that time, Governor Meier will point out, other proposals, if adopted, would bring the immediate need down to $3,000,000 as a minimum for the state. The other proposals include the requested $15,000,000 for highway work, virtual assurance of $5,100,000 for the five Oregon coast bridges, several millions at least for municipal and state projects in addition to the Bonneville dam.

Assuming the Knox liquor control plan, or a similar licensing provision be enacted it was estimated $1,500,000 would be collected by the state annually, the governor's message will point out.

The suggestion, recently made to the governor, to assess but one new tax—a gross tax on utilities estimated to bring in a return of another $1,500,000 annually—for relief purposes is being given consideration by the executive. It was not learned what his recommendation will be on additional utility taxes.

William Green, president of the federation, was reported out of the city as Swope explained the plan, but some of his friends said he was very likely to insist upon worker participation in the proposed new set-up.

The government would be represented on the board through presidential appointees; labor not at all, unless one of the presidential appointees, whom Johnson said would have absolute veto power, were a worker representative.

most of the states because of the few issues before the voters.

Reports to administration officials from the states indicate:

Pennsylvania, wet leading by substantial margin.

Kentucky, anti-prohibitionists confident of a majority.

Ohio, dries expect to force a close vote.

Utah, a tight squeeze for wets as dries pursue fight.

North Carolina, dries in western section along with complicated voting forecasts uncertain outcome.

South Carolina, wets forging ahead despite little interest.

A soup for economy and flavor.
SPLIT PEA SOUP

½ cup split peas
3 quarts water
1 medium size onion
1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons butter
Pepper and salt

Soak peas over night in the three quarts of water. Add the diced onion and cook until the peas can be pressed through a sieve.
