WOMEN JOIN HUSBANDS AT CAMP SITKUM

CAMP SITKUM, Ore. (Special) — Mrs. Harold Earls, Mrs. Willard Houston and Mrs. Norman Phillips arrived here by automobile recently. Mrs. Earls is from Joseph and the other two women from La Grande. Mrs. Phillips is located at Coquille and the others in the valley near Camp Sitkum.

Mrs. Louis Greenough and Mrs. Virgil Streeter, arrived from Perry and were joyously welcomed by their husbands. They are at home now in cabins a short distance up the creek from the camp.

Camp Sitkum became the official name of this camp Nov. 10.

E. J. Whiteside, Walden Silvers and others were at Bandon on the coast during the weekend. The weather was warm and the visibility excellent.

Nearly one hundred men from camp attended the corn show at Coquille. The men from this and other C. C. C. camps were well entertained by the street sports, firemen's water fights, and have a better idea of Coos county resources after having viewed the agricultural and other exhibits.

Charles Carlow of Beaver, Utah, killed a doe deer this season which had horns but was accompanied by two fawns.

U. S. Planning To Build Seadrome In The Atlantic

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP) — Secretary Roper said Wednesday the public works administration had allotted $1,500,000 for building a seadrome a quarter the regular size, 500 miles off the Atlantic coast for experimental purposes.

If the experiment succeeds, Roper said full sized seadromes, 1,200 feet long, would be placed at 500 mile intervals across the ocean to Europe.

Roper estimated about four months would be required to build the demonstration section. The entire airway would cost $30,000,000.

CLEAN FOOTBALL by JOCK SUTHERLAND FAMOUS PITT COACH

THE rules state that a lineman may make use of his arms, if he keeps his hands together; if he does this he may legally use the projecting parts of his arms on offense.

This rule gives the linemen a great many opportunities for poor sportsmanship. The accompanying sketch shows why.

Here the offensive lineman at left is attempting to throw his opponent backward. His hands are joined together, which is intended to mislead the referee, but his arms are NOT close to his body. He has thrown them out and up, catching his opponent under the chin and delivering a blow that can break the defensive lineman's neck.

Officials cannot be too strict on this type of player. The penalty of half the distance to the goal line is hardly stiff enough.
