Virginia Boasts Handy Man in Eugene Wager

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—University of Virginia coaches are calling Eugene Wager their most versatile and obliging player.

He has played on the varsity football team three years and each season has found him with a new job in the line.

Back in high school days he was the star center at Elinburg, Wash., and he came to college bent on playing that position. He found too much competition, though, and switched to tackle, making the varsity in his sophomore year.

Last year the coaches needed an end and they asked Eugene to take the job. This season a center was needed and Wager was shifted back to his first love. Now the coaches are wondering why they didn't have him there all the time.

LOCAL BRIEFS

SENATE ACTS ON MEASURE FRIDAY 28-2

law rule of statutory construction has been adopted in the state as to questions arising thereafter.

Representative Beckman said he objected to the senate amendment striking out the clause directing the commission to stock the stores with any brand of liquor for which there is demand.

On reconsideration, the senate yesterday passed the grange power bill, similar to Rep. Lewis' bill passed in the house. Both provide creation of power commissions to supervise development of public power projects from Bonneville dam.

The $1,500,000 PWA program for state buildings was approved by the senate and will go to the governor for his signature. Rep. Dickson's bill to provide state co-operation in enforcing the NRA was reconsidered and passed.

All roadhouses, night clubs or similar places outside city limits where dancing is conducted, free or otherwise, are classed as dance halls by Rep. Martin's bill, which passed the house.

New tax collection bills had yet passed either house, although the senate passed a bill providing taxes could be paid any time in any amount.

Representative Hilton's bill to permit municipalities to borrow money from sinking funds lost in the house. Other house measures approved by the house were: To lower real estate agents' bonds, and a resolution authorizing an interim committee to study the bus and truck law.

An amendment to the law was indefinitely postponed and luxury and slot machine tax bills were tabled, pending the outcome in the senate of the sales tax.

The corporation excise tax bill was reconsidered and passed. It diminished property offsets for excise tax payments. The purpose was to equalize taxes and provide additional revenue.

'Special Nights' Planned to Lure Basketball Fans

NORTH MANCHESTER, Ind. (AP)—A wide assortment of special "nights" will tempt basketball fans to attend Manchester college's home games in the 1933-34 season.

There will be "family night," when a single admission will pass a whole family. Another "special" will allow the fans to pay whatever they think the game is worth—anything from a penny up.

"Regular fella's night" will bring the regular admission from all customers, while on another occasion women will be admitted free when accompanied by a paying man patron.

On "guest night" a friend will be admitted without cost on his host's ticket. Another game will be a bargain at a maximum fee of 10 cents.

The Chesters will play a half-dozen of the perennially powerful Indiana state quintets besides Kalamazoo college and Western State Normal of Michigan.

MAHONEY, OF KLAMATH, MAY ENTER RACE

Like Mahoney, Upton has not committed himself in public. At present Rep. Pierce is en route to Washington to attend the session of congress beginning next month.

CENTRAL TAX COLLECTIONS WINS FAVOR

ating not only double taxation of liquor but that of other commodities and articles.

The idea is not exactly original with this administration. Its principle was first invoked in estate taxes collected by the federal government, a large portion of which is returned to the states in which the collections are made.

With the growth of duplicating taxes by the federal, state, county and municipal governments, the question is being given serious consideration in both administrative and congressional quarters.

Since the federal government is financing out of its treasury thousands of state, municipal and county projects, the belief is growing here that the central government should collect the taxes.

To defeat the Alhambra, Cal., horseshoe team, the Culver City Varsity team was forced to set a new mark of ringers per man per stake, averaging 66.1 ringers per team member.
