Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him.—1 John 2: 15.

THE SPECIAL SESSION

From the standpoint of effecting legislation it was called to Salem in special session to do, our state lawmakers during the recent special event which closed at the state capitol Saturday night may be said to have accomplished much and to have performed a creditable job. A veritable truckload of small pernicious bills that threatened for a time to hold back the real purpose of the meeting were finally cast aside in the closing days and the session got down to and completed its intended work.

Whether or not the measures passed will prove the best answers to the problems faced remains to be seen. The two principal matters of liquor control and school aid were met—the former by the Knox plan of complete state licensing of wines and beers and state dispensaries of the harder liquors; the latter by a privilege or sales tax proposal to be placed before the voters next May.

Revenues from state operation of liquor dispensing are to go to fill badly depleted coffers for unemployment relief and other emergency relief needs. Whether or not the expected liquor revenue will reach proportions and profits expected in face of the tremendous cost of the setting up of the state dispensary system, this newspaper doubts. However, the Knox plan it is, and is entitled to a fair trial.

Also it seems doubtful that the voters of this state will next May reverse a 4 to 1 attitude expressed against a sales tax measure last July. The state legislature again has recommended this manner of procuring revenue as the only possible way in its judgment to replenish the sorry plight of our school funds. Whether the voters of the state will this time accept such argument as final and give a majority to trial of the sales tax plan will be more definitely known after its presentation next spring. More rigid collection of property taxes and a temporary income tax, as had been proposed, seemed more certain, in the belief of this newspaper to reach the goal of school relief needed and desired.

The bus and truck law that has created such a furor since its passage last spring and thereby one of the major necessities of the special session to straighten out, was handled well in that none of the teeth or basic principles of the law were removed but the desired liberalities were allowed to farmers and small truckers.

In addition to these answers to emergency legislation for which the session was called, time was found to care for several minor pieces of action and the 10-juror proposal was OK'd to place before public vote next May.

All in all, though there will be differences of opinion as to the merits of some of the legislation enacted, the fact remains that the special session did complete its job. And completed it in a creditable conduct of good sobriety and purpose. This in the face of an expected and attempted seige of lobbyism that was very ably and decisively set aside.

taking to better them, with conditions in Canada where I have been living, I am glad to be back here," says Mr. Sarvis.

Mr. Sarvis announces a plan of progressive operation to make his new I. G. A. store and self an "asset to the community."

Katheryn Moran New President of Union

decided to have this meeting at La Grande, with definite arrangements to be made as to place and time at a later date. This is expected to be a large affair with all societies in the union participating.

The resignation of Howard Carpenter as president was received, and Katheryn Moran, of La Grande was elected to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Carpenter who is at a CCC camp in Western Oregon. Miss Virginia Shepherd of La Grande, was appointed secretary of this organization, the office formerly held by Katheryn Moran.

Those present from La Grande were Dorothy Smutz, Mary Prees, Mrs. I. C. Bowser, Katheryn Moran and Eldridge Huffman and from Lower Cove were Mrs. Margaret Elmer, Vera Case and Harvey Elmer. All returned to their homes last night.

DOUGHERTY CONFIDENT

WALLOWA, Ore., Dec. 11 — Little Bobby Dougherty is confident he will triumph over Francis McClure in their junior flyweight title bout at La Grande Wednesday night. Jay McCray, too, feels victory will be his in the bantamweight championship match.

FIRE IN HOUSE AT 907 FIRST ST. ON SUNDAY

The house damaged by fire late Sunday belonged to Frank Cullen, it was learned this afternoon. Damage approximates $200.

The fire truck was called to 907 First street, near J avenue, to fight a blaze in an unoccupied house yesterday afternon at 4:50 p. m. The fire was controlled before it did heavy damage.

FLOOD CREST ON COWLITZ HAS PASSED

Longview — "Cowlitz highest since flood of 1896"; Auburn—"Worst in 21 years," and at Tacoma, by intercounty engineer B. P. Thomas, "The worst flood in the history of the Puyallup and White rivers."

Despite hundreds of families being marooned, however, or being forced to evacuate hurriedly or be carried to safety in boats, no verified reports of flood deaths had been obtained early today. Thousands of acres of land were under water, and virtually all main highways were closed.

The only two deaths indirectly attributed to the floods were those of John Corbett, 65, a watchman patrolling a washed-out highway near Renton, who suffered a paralytic stroke, and Miss Mary Berry, 16, of Seattle, victim of an automobile, in the rain.

SUNNYVALE, Cal., Dec. 11 (AP)—A projected two-day training flight of the navy dirigible Macon over the north coast area was postponed today until Wednesday because of unfavorable weather conditions in Oregon and Washington. This was the third postponement because of weather conditions in Oregon and Washington.

BUS, TRUCK LAW CHANGE IS APPROVED

also requested by the governor, was the last major issue to gain approval when the senate by a vote of 17 to 13 passed the house bill shortly before midnight. A referendum on the act was expected to get under way today by opponents of the bill. It could not become a law for 90 days.

The legislature refused to repeal the basic features of the 1933 truck and bus regulatory law, but did amend the present law to give relief in the matter of good faith bonds and compulsory insurance and eliminated many small truck owners from its jurisdiction, charging them instead a flat fee. The measure, now declared more satisfactory, was still being fought by the smaller truck owners and special carriers.

Relief for the unemployed was provided in various ways. First the appropriation of $3,000,000 for direct relief, certificates of indebtedness to be assessed against liquor revenue, was passed earlier last week. The legislature also provided for federal contract for the $1,500,000 state building program and authorized the construction of the five coast bridges to be paid from tolls.

Numerous tax delinquency measures were enacted, but none which would increase the penalty and interest rates.

State Sales Tax Is Approved By League

Charles Smith, of Heppner, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

In striking contrast to action of some other farm organizations, the wheat league declared against issuance of bonds to put the state in the power business or for building transmission lines, holding that such bonds probably would later be charged against property.

The warehousing, handling and production committee endorsed the principle of the agricultural adjustment act.

The transportation committee urged further development of open river navigation, including installation of navigation locks at the Bonneville dam of sufficient size to pass ocean-going ships.

False Teeth Not 'Property'

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — The loss of false teeth by violent accident is classed officially as personal injury, rather than property damage, by the North Carolina Industrial Commission.

EBERHARDS IN WEST OREGON

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Eberhard returned today from Western Oregon where they spent the weekend. Mr. Eberhard attended a meeting of the Oregon State board of bar examiners appointed by the supreme court. It was the final meeting for this years examinations and the preliminary meeting for the 1934 examinations.

Mr. Eberhard went to Salem Saturday evening and attended the closing hours of the legislature while Mrs. Eberhard remained in Portland.

BAND TO MEET IN ELKS LODGE

The La Grande band has been invited by the Elks lodge to use its lodge room for rehearsals again. Since reorganization the band has been meeting in the Church of Christ building, but the Elks building is more centrally located and the band has accepted the Elks' invitation with appreciation for their thoughtfulness. A full turn-out of the band is very much desired for tonight's rehearsal.

More Quail Preserves

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The Oklahoma game commission plans to establish 25 preserves of not less than 300 acres each for quail during the winter. "Oklahoma is already on the map as the best quail shooting in the country," said Bob Chandler, state game warden, "and we intend to keep her there."

AN OPEN LETTER TO BOXING PUBLIC

That the boxing public may know the truth in the matter, I am writing this to point out the reason why I asked that no referee be used in my match with Jimmy Chandler in La Grande next Wednesday night was because the same system is used in the Olympic Games. However, inasmuch as we are to have a referee in the ring by order of the boxing commission, it is okeh by me. Chandler is a fine clean-cut young fellow, a good boxer, but without boasting I feel I'll knock him out. If he does whip me I hope I am on the floor."

AT THE LIBERTY

A scene from the puppeteer stage show to be put on Tuesday at the Liberty theatre.

One of the most interesting of the winter attractions to be presented here in the Liberty is the Famous Olvera Puppeteers, stopping here for Tuesday performances on their first transcontinental tour direct from their Olvera street theatre, Los Angeles.

The Famous Olvera Puppeteers travel with their own stage, specially lighted and carrying sound amplifiers making it possible for everyone to hear as well as see in the largest auditoriums.

Portrait puppets of well known motion picture actors as well as other world celebrities appear in the plays.

The Marionette show includes all the features of the theatre embracing every art; acting, stagecraft, music, dancing, lighting, public speaking, costuming, designing and mechanics. A great deal of skill is required to operate a marionette. In France and Italy the marionettes have been used for centuries in drama and in satirical and political plays. In England the Punch and Judy show has always been popular. Recently in America there has been a tremendous revival of interest in marionettes. The Famous Olvera Puppeteers excel in this field. It is the only company that has played in one theatre every day for 8 years. It was there on Olvera street, that street of Old Mexico in Los Angeles, that people from all parts of the world see and praise them.

A special children's matinee "Jimmie's Adventure at the Circus," and in the evening a show for everybody "Puppet Gayeties of '33."

"Lone Cowboy," the story of a killer's regeneration through the love of a child, which has tow-headed Jackie Cooper of "Skippy" fame as the star and is coming on Tuesday to the Liberty theatre.

In addition to young Cooper, the picture features Lila Lee, Addison Richards, John Wray and Gavin Gordon.
