 as an additional appropriation for this work can be obtained. The work of dismantling the interior was begun sometime ago but work was halted because of lack of funds. The half million eastern brook eggs have been placed in outdoor tanks until the work is completed.
 Work began at the hatchery today with W. V. Stevens, of Union, as general overseer, and W. C. Kelly, of La Grande, as construction foreman. Another foreman will be selected to take charge of the common labor. Until Ralph Cowgill, game commission engineer, arrives to select the site of the new building, work will be centered on the removal of the old pipe lines and laying the new ones. The old lines will be used in other hatcheries in the state. Men for the work will be selected from Union county's quota of C. W. A. employees and will come from all parts of the county.
 Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Curi, who have been engaged at the Enterprise fish hatchery, have been transferred to Union and will help Supt. and Mrs. R. H. Bonney during the summer.

GOOD NEWS FOR SPORTSMEN
 Perhaps the most important development during the last month — in fact, during the last several years — from the sportsman's standpoint in this section, is the decision to turn the state fish hatchery at Union into a modern, high-capacity plant. The Observer's correspondent at Union today learned of the general plans for improvement, and a detailed story appears on the front page of this paper. Included in the announcement is the statement that a new building to be erected there will have a capacity of three million fish, and that at some future date the old building will be modernized.

Some time ago the state game commission, in connection with its announcement of plans for improvement work at Union, said that it was intended to grow more and larger fish at the hatchery for liberation. Despite the presence of the hatchery at Union during recent years, the fish in Eastern Oregon streams have been steadily depleted with each year's catch, and re-stocking has not been adequate. With the new hatchery operating, and with larger fish to be liberated — fish of a size that will enable a much larger percent of them to reach legal size for angling — fishermen in this section may hope to find renewed interest in the sport.

Streams, formerly favorites of anglers, but lately poor fishing grounds, may again become popular spots for fishing, and frying pans that only occasionally have been used to cook finny treasurers, may once again go into action at many of the old holes with something of the old time regularity.
 Three of Eastern Oregon's chief assets and attraction to tourists are its scenery, its fishing and its hunting, and the improvements at Union promise to greatly improve one of the trio which probably has suffered the greatest during recent years.

Letter Aimed At Shirtless Workers Is Filed Finally
 PORTLAND, Jan. 19 (AP) — What to do about those "hairy-chested ape men" who work shirtless on highway crews was discussed by the state highway commission at yesterday's meeting here.
 Honorable Van Vuyn's letter proclaiming the shirtless workers a rather disgusting sight was read.
 "They can't afford shirts," suggested the commission's legal advisor.
 "Another possible solution might be just rainy weather."
 "The more sunshine the men get, the better they'll work," ruled the commission chairman. "File the letter."

SHORTAGE OF MONEY CAUSE OF REDUCTION
 flood control project calls for deepening and widening of the channel through the canyon, and clearing of brush. Both projects will be held until such time as other projects are completed, and men can be transferred to the new jobs.
Working Hours Reduced
 Most important in the new curtailment order, effective today, was the lowering of working hours for all C. W. A. employees except those in administration offices. Per diem workers in cities of more than 2,500 will work 24 instead of 30 hours a week. In smaller communities 15 hours a week will be the maximum. In Union county, this means that La Grande men on the C. W. A. may work 24 hours a week but all others in this county are automatically reduced to 15 hours a week.
 Second of importance is the statement that no county quota may be increased, this order nullifying a recent order allowing hiring of additional men in smaller communities through cutting of hours to 15 a week. This does not affect Union county, however, since such a step has not been taken, and only 303 men — this county's quota — had been employed.
 Clerical, supervisory and professional workers will be allotted a maximum of 30 hours a week, the order said, but with proportionate wage adjustments. Status of administrative officers will remain unchanged.
 The only new men now that may come under the C. W. A. is for actual replacement of some men in the regular quota who is dismissed or who has quit.
F. R. To Push New Bill
 The sudden contraction in civil works activities was expected to add speed to a request President Roosevelt will send to Capitol Hill in Washington shortly for an additional $1,116,000,000 for the federal recovery units. Funds would be allotted from this to carry on civil works until May 1.
 Indications were given at C. W. A. headquarters in Washington today that had immediate retrenchments not been made, existing funds might have been exhausted within little more than a week.
 In Washington, it also was said that additional orders were expected to be made public today whereby, under a ruling by Comptroller General McCarl, all civil works administration employees having jobs similar to regular government positions would suffer the regular 15 per cent federal paycut. The number of employees thus affected would be comparatively small.

Holman and Meier In New Quarrel
 SALEM, Jan. 19 (AP) — Controversy between the governor and state treasurer was renewed here today when Treasurer Rufus C. Holman made public his reply to Governor Julius L. Meier's request that two bonds, each for $5,000 issued by the World War veterans' state aid commission, and the state highway commission, be retired.
 In refusing to comply with the request Holman wrote the executive he could give no "further consideration to your peevishness and your contemptible littleness."
