Battalion Head Will Inspect Company E

Bates, He will inspect Company E at the armory this evening.

Major Ellensburg's visit actually is more of a pre-inspection in preparation for federal inspection next month and in addition to viewing the company at drill, etc., he will check over the property and records.

He began his trip yesterday at Pendleton, and in the evening was present at drill of Company G, which he found is making a very creditable showing. With him at Pendleton was Colonel Ralph Huron, of La Grande, commanding officer of the 180th regiment, Captain W. A. Bean, First Lieut. Jesse V. Andrews and Sergeant George D. Oliver and Edwin J. Briggs, of Company E, and Lieut. Adrian Goodbrod, commanding Headquarters Co. at Union.

The drill tonight, which begins at 7:30 o'clock, is open to the public and any one who wish to attend is welcome.

Captain Bean today announced that Company E will stand federal inspection here on March 14. The company will entrain for Camp Clatsop for the annual period of federal field training on the evening of June 11, it is announced.

was convinced there was no mandatory currency expansion provided in the new act.

"We are considering whether or not to provide for the mandatory issuance of currency based upon the surplus gold resulting from devaluation," Borah said, referring to independents.

On this basis, it was estimated an expansion of new money of about $5,000,000,000 would result.

Guy Lintner, state supervisor for Oregon, effective immediately. The committee consisted of Leo Adler, chairman; Fred H. Moss, J. Richard Smutthwaite and Bernard Mainwaring.

The resignation climaxed several days of unsettled conditions in the re-employment service here.

Donald G. Metcalf, manager of the Baker office, was removed by Lintner Monday after the supervisor at a hearing here last night had apparently sustained Metcalf's activities.
