until it is three years old (from seed) should grow larger than a poppy which is sown in April and must produce its largest bloom in three months or so. But does it in favorable sections peony-flowered poppies have approached the peony so closely in size and beauty, it is beginning to be a question whether in another few years the poppies may not take the lead.

So the whole class of annual flowers is advancing, especially in color, variety of form and range of color, and each year they become more important in the garden display. They seem, indeed, to be gaining on the perennials, in spite of the advantage of longer life which the latter have always possessed.

Plant breeding is carried on among perennials just as much, and perhaps by a larger number of breeders; but the annuals have a great advantage here in the very point which is a handicap in their individual development. Every year there is a new generation of annuals, so that experimentation is speeded up. A check on last year's work is made each summer, and new experiments are prepared. With perennials it always takes two years, and sometimes three to five, before the merit of a hybrid seedling can be known, and further improvement upon it be attempted.

So look among the annuals this year for new colors, and new types, and try as many of the novelties as you have room for, in order to keep abreast of the great improvements which are being made by the plant breeders.

bers including several of the old negro spirituals by Noble Cain.

The A Cappella choir is composed of 30 picked voices from the various choirs and musical organizations of this city and has been rehearsing weekly under Mr. Loney's direction. Mr. Loney studied that type of direction last summer at Northwestern university and the program promises to be one of the outstanding musical events of the season.
