

COYOTES DEFEAT EASTERN OREGON QUINTET 40-21

Afflicted with some kind of a jinx that kept the basketball from going through the hoop, and making matters worse with too much rough stuff, the Eastern Oregon Normal school lost to College of Idaho here last night 40 to 21.

There wasn't so much superiority in floor work on the part of Coach Loren Baer's men, but they were carrying their shots much better, and endeavoring to play the game of basketball.

As an example of what the Mountaineers were mixing with their basketball, one might note the foul column in the summary which follows further down in this story.

Anyway, the showing of the E. O. N. quintet was quite disappointing. During the first half, the Mountaineers scored exactly three points, all on free throws. In the meantime the Coyotes counted five field goals and six free throws, Coach Bob Quinn, before the half ended, yanked his first team and put in the seconds in an attempt to stop unnecessary roughness.

Later in the game, he mixed 'em up, and for a few minutes in the second half, they looked like a basketball team, running their score from 3-19 to 12-19. But then Swan caged a field goal for Idaho, and the spell was broken never to knit again.

Peterson, who was off on his shooting, was the only Mountaineer who played much ball without fouling. All the others had personal. Zece and Crawford four each, except Woodell, who only played about two minutes.

Worthley turned an ankle early in the game and had to be replaced. Wednesday and Thursday nights Lewiston Normal school comes here for a two-game series.

Whitman Defeats Puget Sound Five In Third Overtime

TACOMA, Feb. 6 (AP) — In one of the most thrilling games seen here this season, Whitman college defeated College of Puget Sound 47 to 45 at the end of three 5-minute overtime periods.

At half-time the score was 15-15. At the end of the regular playing time the game was tied 33-33.

Alfred De Oro Wins 3-Cushion Billiard Crown

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP) — Alfredo De Oro, a grey haired man showing the signs of the wear and tear of 71 years of living, his white moustache still quivering from excitement but his hand as steady as the day he won his first pocket billiard nearly 60 years ago, was the toast of the three cushion billiard world today.

In one of the most dramatic games in the long history of the game, the "Grand Old Man" of billiards, who was declared "through" many years ago, administered a beating to 37 year old Welker Cochran, the defending champion from San Francisco, in the opening match of the championship last night. The score was 60 to 49.

Young Corbett In Comeback Battle

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6 (AP) — Young Corbett's colorful ring career lifted a successful comeback as a middleweight contender today. The Fresno left hander, former welterweight champion, hammered out an easy 10-round decision over Babe Marino, chunky San Francisco trial horse, here last night.

Bear Ranges From 3.3 To 4.2 Tests Of 104 Kinds Show

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 6 — According to announcement appearing in the Brewers' Bulletin, tests of 104 brands of beer made in the United States since the 3.2 per cent alcohol limit was removed in December, show that none has more than 4.2 per cent alcoholic content. The tests were made at the Siebel Institute of Technology.

HUSKIES TRIUMPH OVER OREGON IN OVERTIME GAME

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP) — Oregon became the third conference team to suffer five or more defeats. The Huskies tied the score with two zooming long shots in the last 51 seconds of regular play. Cook, a substitute guard, caged two short shots in the overtime period and the Huskies won, 34 to 32.

But Jones, Oregon guard, sank a long shot for the Webfoots' only tie in the overtime melee. Three missed free throws told the rest, as far as Oregon was concerned.

The Webfoots added to their 10 to 9 half-time lead and apparently had the game tucked away when Galer and Merrin scratched or die shots. The Huskies didn't die.

Galer added 14 more points to his season's total. Robertson scored 10 points for Oregon.

BLOND GODDESS A New Serial by Herbert Jensen

SYNOPSIS: Frank Grahame, explorer, is sailing down the coast of Yucatan in the launch of Don Raoul Ortega, who is, he suspects, the man who tried to kidnap Janice Kent, movie star a few weeks before in Hollywood. Grahame is conducting a one-man search for Bill Langston, aviator who crashed months ago on the Yucatan coast. Frank has proposed to Janice and been refused. Ortega just has explained why he dodged a Mexican gunboat.

Chapter 13 QUARREL

ORTEGA glanced toward the frimly battered hatch. The young man laughed again. "I knew the gunboat was in these waters. I have a friend in the customs."

Grahame watched the vessel head toward the distant horizon. It occurred to him that Ortega's explanation was rather weak; also that he did not seem anxious whether Grahame believed it or not. The attitude of the big Mexican and the previous day; today it seemed that they fell toward him a new familiarity.

Perhaps Grahame's indifference toward Ortega's inference that there was good reason for his wanting to evade civilization had some effect on him at all. If Ortega's operations were illegal, they did not concern him, and it was none of his business.

At dusk they continued their journey. Once in the night Grahame was awakened by the stopping of the engine. For a half hour they rocked motionlessly on the sea as the lights of a steamer passed a mile or two distant, in the opposite direction. Grahame shrewdly suspected it was the gunboat patrolling back the way they rounded Caba Catoche and sailed south. They passed several miles to their left a fruit liner overtook them and steamed on. It looked like a white hull hovering at horizon-level.

The day was uneventful. The crew took turns at the wheel, and Grahame and Ortega sat on the deck house and smoked. Grahame asked the big man when they would be at the island and was answered that it would be tomorrow, in the afternoon perhaps. Ortega seemed to be pondering.

"I was thinking," he said, "that your island would not be the place you want to go. It would be safer on the mainland."

Grahame smiled. "You told me it was unsafe on the mainland."

"But I have been thinking, I could use you at my hacienda. It would be hard work, often. And you could make some money."

"I have plenty of money," he caught Ortega looking at him appraisingly. "Still a man can always use more money."

Why not go with Ortega, he thought. After all, his idea was not to remain at the island, but to use it as a base at which he could make inquiries as to the mainland back of the coast.

Those that sailed along these barren beaches must be acquainted with many queer types that wanted nothing better than to go unrecognized and unquestioned.

"What a the interior like behind your place?" he asked.

Ortega shrugged his shoulders. "Nobody knows. No one has ever been there. Very dangerous."

GRAHAME made his decision. "I'll go with you to your hacienda," he said. "I won't promise to work for you, until I look it over. If I decide not to stay, I will pay for my lodging and leave. All right?"
