QUAINT BELIEFS

The people of Nepal, that mysterious Himalayan kingdom north of India, believe that the recent Indian earthquake was caused by the flight of three British aviators over Mount Everest last spring.

Yet we have our own troubles in straightening out matters of cause and effect, especially where great national disasters are concerned, and in some ways we don't seem to be much better at it than the skin-clad tribesmen of Asia.

Some of us blamed tariff and some of us blamed the war; some of us blamed the foreign debts and some of us blamed Wall Street; some of us blamed our lack of faith in God and some of us blamed the sun spots; some of us blamed Stalin and some of us blamed Andy Mellon.

And there is something rather frightening in all this confusion. It suggests, somehow, that we are, all of us, enlightened, at the mercy of forces which we can comprehend little better than the Himalayan peasants comprehend an earthquake.

The commission will take over liquor control as soon as the state supreme court rules on the constitutionality of the liquor law.

The city police forces will be the first line of attack on all illegal dealers. The sheriffs and their deputies will constitute the second line, working outside limits of municipalities, and the state police will serve as a flying squadron, operating in co-operation with the other branches of the service.

Samms said the state police will operate with both city and county officers if and when needed. The primary job of enforcement, he explained, rests with the city police.

Discuss Normal School Status at Rotary Club obtain traveling and living clear across the state in either of the two larger institutions of higher learning, stated Dr. Inlow. This is proven, he added, by the fact that there has been a 62 per cent increase in junior college students at the local institution in the past two years.

Further, he stated, the local institution is proud of the fact recently disclosed in survey that 83 per cent of its registrations are from the "upper half" or above average high school students and 53 per cent of that number are those who stood among the "first quarter" of students in their high school work.

In other words, the conduct and opportunities offered by the normal here are such as to attract a fine class of students.

Another important item that has attracted attention of students desiring normal education is the known fact that the local school has placed a higher percentage of its graduates into employment than any other like institution in the state.

Of last year's graduates here 76 per cent found employment, indicating a fine operation and recognition of this school by the school authorities of the state in giving preference to Eastern Oregon Normal graduates in teaching vacancies occurring.

Development here of a normal school and junior college to the extent that it will render adequate and complete services of higher education in those two branches for the 35,000 population represented in its area of five Eastern Oregon counties is the ambition of the local institution, said Dr. Inlow.

Need of the training school building and equipment here is immediate if the La Grande Normal is to be adequately equipped to give the utmost in educational service and facilities due this territory, said the speaker.

MISS WHALEY GIVES TALK ON ARCHITECTURE

"Modern Trends in American Architecture" was the subject of an illustrated lecture presented by Miss Thelma Whaley to the students of Eastern Oregon Normal school in assembly Tuesday. Miss Whaley traced the development of American architecture from the early beginnings when buildings were built for protection and shelter to the architecture of today as exemplified at the World's Fair and by Frank Lloyd Wright. She pointed out how American architecture has been influenced by the Classic, Gothic, and Romanesque.

A special music feature was furnished by the pep band under the direction of J. P. Lidwell. The band played "March for the Contest Winner," "Fidelity March," "Bells of St. Mary's" and the "E.O.N. Fight Song."

of Indian relics will find a varied display of arrow and spear heads from various parts of Eastern Oregon.

The forest office library contains about 1500 bulletins on forestry and allied subjects, as well as a number of books on forestry matters for perusal of the individuals inclined towards such subjects.

By reason of the fact that neither the construction work on the buildings is completed at this time nor the permanent arrangement of the books and equipment accomplished, the inspection of the forest service warehouse premises by the public will be delayed until some time in April, when it is hoped that the plant will be all in order.

TODAY IN BRIEF, IN AND AROUND OREGON

TEACHERS ON GRILL PORTLAND, Feb. 7 (AP)—About 40 teachers in grade and high schools in Portland, and at least two staff executives are under observation now and due for discharge if allegations of incompetency are sustained. It was revealed here by Superintendent Rice. His statement followed complaints that certain incompetents are on the teaching staff of Portland schools, reported by Directors Kenin and Sabin yesterday.

PROTEST GIRLS' FOOTBALL TOLEDO, O. (AP)—Although approving basketball contests for girls, the Toledo Council of Catholic Women has gone on record against football games for girls, or basketball games in which girls oppose boys.

Building permits issued in Miami, Fla., during 1933 represented an increase of $1,506,727 as compared with 1932.

PIONEER SLAVIDES WHEELER, Ore., Feb. 7 (AP)—Mrs. Isabel Grayson Hackman, descendant on her mother's side from an illustrious line of Indian leaders, and reputed princess of a now extinct line, died from poison she took in her 40th home on the Nehalem river Monday night. She was more than 60 years old, but her exact age was not known.

Mrs. Hackman was a descendant of Joseph Gervais, one of the earliest white settlers of Oregon. She was one of the few remaining Nehalem Indians.

FATALLY INJURED PORTLAND, Feb. 7 (AP)—Archie N. Edelman, 38, married and the father of four children, was fatally injured here late Tuesday while looking for employment. His brother's automobile, which he had borrowed, crashed into another car, killing him and injuring two persons in the other machine.

FURTHER BUTTER CODE CHANGES PORTLAND, Feb. 7 (AP)—Further changes in the Oregon butter code will be considered by several committees which were appointed last night at a closed meeting attended by representatives of the creamery trade and the Oregon butter committee. Other than the formal announcement that committees had been named, and code changes were to be considered, there was no statement from the executive session.

STILL STANDS BY 'PEP' NEW YORK (AP)—John McGraw still regards Ross (Pep) Young as the greatest outfielder who ever wore a Giants uniform. Young, a Texan, died in 1927 from a kidney ailment at the height of his career. His batting average was .323 over a nine-year period.

Here is water that makes beer as good as the beers of Burton and Munich THE DAILY OLYMPIAN —said Leopold Schmidt when he established the first Olympia brewery at Tumwater in 1896 ABOVE is a reproduction of the "Olympian," September 5, 1895. It announced that Leopold Schmidt was to build a brewery at Tumwater and that he had acquired the site because of the special brewing qualities of the water which came from pure, sparkling, subterranean springs. In 1896, he completed the brewery and marketed "Olympia Beer" with the famous slogan, "It's the Water." Thirty-seven years later—in 1933—the Schmidt family of brewmasters built the modern Olympia Brewery, one of the finest in America and now offer you Olympia Beer, made exactly as it was before prohibition. Delicious, Mellow Flavor The solvent quality of the subterranean spring water of Tumwater, used exclusively for Olympia Beer, performs four very important functions: 1. Extracts from the hops and grains hidden flavors. 2. Gives golden color and sparkling life to the beer. 3. Creates a more active fermentation of the yeast cells, thereby making the beer more digestible and of constant purity. 4. Prevents detrimental changes when the beer is bottled and chilled. Serve It in Your Home Olympia Beer is a wholesome, mildly stimulating beverage. Original imported yeast stock from Denmark guarantees complete fermentation; this means that Olympia Beer is predigested and, therefore, non-fattening. You can obtain it from your dealers. Olympia Brewing Co., Olympia, Wash. "It's the Water" IMPORTANT! Wherever you see the Authorized Draught Dispenser Certificate, you will know that this dispenser is fully equipped to serve you Olympia Draught Beer, properly kept and served as it should be served—bringing you the full-flavored goodness unchanged from the Brewery.
