

Keating Woman Commits Suicide On Valentine Day

BAKER, Ore., Feb. 15 (Special) — Mrs. Fred Brown, 37, committed suicide yesterday at her farm home near Keating by shooting herself with a pistol. Mrs. Brown was alone on the farm, her husband two oldest children being in Baker. Her body was found lying beside the house by her 10-year-old son, Frank, on his return home from a St. Valentine's school picnic. Two other children, Fred, 17, and Millie, 15, attend high school in Baker.

1933 APPLE SEASON ENDS OVER VALLEY

mestic market. At picking time dealers were convinced there would be little domestic demand and began making sales for export at a small margin above harvesting and packing expenses. Then down through Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas farmers began receiving federal money, and the consumers remembered that away back in other days they had enjoyed fancy apples. They didn't want fancy packs or high priced fruit, just good sound apples at a reasonable price and a lot of them. This development also made some discouraged growers of Imbler who had started to chop down their trees wonder if they hadn't better exchange the ax for the pruning shears.

The Rose Dehydrating Co., which operated its plant in La Grande for several years, was so discouraged that it moved the plant last summer. However, a good market developed abroad for its product and all available culls were bought here and shipped to the Payette plant. Growers were paid $3 a ton for the culls here and a freight rate of $5.00 a ton was paid to Payette. The company now is planning to either re-equip the La Grande plant or establish a small one in Imbler for this year's crop.

WATER RIGHTS CASE WILL BE TRIED MAR. 19

The trial of the case of the state of Washington vs. the state of Oregon involving the water rights of the Walla Walla river, will be held Mar.

19 before William W. Ray, of Salt Lake City, appointed by the U. S. supreme court to hear the case. George T. Cochran, one of the attorneys for the state of Oregon, met with Mr. Ray and the other attorneys in Portland on Tuesday.

Other attorneys in the case are Fred J. Cunningham, of Spokane, T. A. Paul, of Walla Walla, special counsel; and George G. Hannan, assistant attorney general for the state of Washington, representing the plaintiff; and C. Z. Randall, of Pendleton; and Attorney General I. H. Van Winkle, representing Oregon.

The case is one of importance because it marks one of the steps in the growth of the law that governs the relations existing between states, it is said.

This case will present an advanced theory asking the U. S. supreme court to adjudicate the individual rights of water users on the Walla Walla river.
