MUCH BALLYHOED FIGHT MAY BRING IN ONLY $75,000

By Edward J. Nell
MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 27 (AP)—The artistic success of Primo Carnera's heavyweight title defense against Tommy Loughran amid a background of palms seemed assured, regardless of the outcome, but from a financial standpoint the receipts tomorrow night probably will fade all the way back to the low records of boxing's dark ages.

As the huge champion from Italy and Loughran, his veteran challenger, were content today with light exercise and rest, the trainer campaigner, it became apparent from lack of interest at the box office that the match will not draw more than $75,000 in gate receipts.

Odds on Carnera to retain his championship, perhaps by an early knockout, still hold at 3 to 1 and a few wagers have been made with the titleholder a favorite as high as 5 to 1.

As the athletes finished hard training yesterday, the Miami boxing commission named Colin McLochlan and Roy Latham to judge the fight with Leo Shea previously appointed referee. The match is scheduled for 10 p. m. (E. S. T.) and will not be broadcast.

CLOSING FAIRLY FIRM IN MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 27 (AP)—Stocks closed in a creeping rally today, but the majority of the leaders were unable to recover all of yesterday's declines. Caution was the watchword of most traders and activity was the dullest since the first few days of January. Transfers approximated only 1,350,000 shares. The close was fairly firm.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 26 (AP)—Another championship contender was the prediction of President Thomas L. Turner whose Portland baseball club today prepared to open spring training at Ventura, Cal., March 1.

AFFECTS US ALL

Suppose that you are a business man and that you run a little garage just around the corner off the main street. You happen to need money to build an addition to your garage, or to install new equipment; so you go to your bank and ask for a loan. Your business is doing well enough and your reputation is good, and as far as your own condition goes there's no reason why you shouldn't get your money.

Now suppose that down in New York certain clever gentlemen have banded together to conduct a raid on the stock market. They have formed a pool, hired a specialist to act for them, and by the various devices available have set to work to rig the market and make a killing. It's part of their game, let us say, to beat down the price of a certain stock. They have plenty of money and they know the ropes, so they succeed. The stock slides off some 15 or 20 points. Other stocks dip more or less in sympathy.

Your banker, meditating on his outstanding loans, which rest on collateral, which in turn is affected by the day's trading, decides—sensibly enough—that he must tighten up. So you don't get your loan, and the money which you would have put into the channels of trade goes unspent, and the improvements you had planned for your business don't get made.

And that is how you have a direct interest in what happens in the stock market, even though you never bought a dime's worth of securities in your life. Which, in turn, is why the proposed federal regulation of stock exchanges is not merely a thing which affects brokers, investors and speculators.

A capitalistic society cannot function without some sort of securities market where there can be a free flow of available capital. But the forces set in motion by the operation of such market are so complex and reach so far that it is essential to society as a whole that that flow of capital be truly free. Men who pervert the exchange into a gambling hall and manipulate stock levels arbitrarily for their own enrichment, are not simply spearing suckers; they are attacking the daily business of people who have no direct connection with the stock market at all.

They are standing between industry and that free flow of capital essential to industry's well-being. That is the point to keep in mind in this matter of stock exchange regulation.

LONG'S PLAN SWAMPED BY 64-24 VOTE

by Senator Long (D., La.). The action brought a halt to the rapid fire approval of new veterans' benefits.

Many bonus advocates opposed the Long amendment on the ground it should not be incorporated in a disability relief measure which they regarded as the primary purpose of the pending legislation.

The senate coalition of Republicans and Democrats put through three liberalizing amendments for former service men to add to the $50,000,000 given Spanish war veterans yesterday and the $100,000,000 additional for the next fiscal year voted a week ago for federal workers' salaries.

Democratic leaders stood by apathetically and did not utter a word of opposition. Hence, the liberalizations shot through without roll calls.

The lack of administration opposition led to speculation of some understanding about a veto, but leaders were silent for the time being.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the majority leader, said "It was apparent that a majority favored modification if not repeal of the economy act."

He added if the Stetson-McCurran amendments remain in the bill "the bill more than probably will encounter an executive veto."
