HONOR ABOVE LIFE

Among the army pilots to die on the airmail routes was Lieut. Durward O. Lowry of Ann Arbor, Mich. The story of this young officer's death is something that all Americans profitably might read. It is a tragic tale, but it has the uplifting, heartening quality that only great stories possess.

Lieut. Lowry was flying the mail from Chicago to Cleveland when he ran into a blinding snowstorm near the town of Desher, O. Lost and unable to find a landing place he crashed and was killed. But read a newspaper article about the way in which he died:

"Pilot Lowry, flying alone in the snowstorm on an unfamiliar route, knew that a crash was inevitable, according to the mute testimony of sack after sack of mail which he had tossed from the cockpit to prevent its destruction in case of fire.

"He kept at this task too long and in death had lived up to the best traditions of the airmail service, which demand that the mail be saved. The bags were found intact along the countryside."

That's all there is to it—but somehow those two paragraphs speak volumes about the kind of man that this young army aviator was. One's imagination can fill in the picture easily enough... an airplane flying through a white, swirling emptiness, with death drawing nearer every second;

a tightlipped young man in the cockpit, resolutely putting out of his mind the thought that he could save himself, if he chose, by using those last few minutes to gain altitude and bail out, and devoting himself instead to tossing overboard those sacks of mail which had been put in his charge. What, after all, are a few bags of letters, compared with a young man's life? A sensible person would say that they are a small thing to die for.

But there are men to whom nothing is too small to die for, if a little private matter of honor is involved; and it is precisely such men who persuade us, in the end, that the human race is worth preserving, in this world and the next one. This young aviator, it seems, was one of them.

In Washington

By Herbert Plummer
WASHINGTON — The secrecy with which the administration has surrounded its famous two billion dollar stabilization fund set up under the President's most recent monetary move never ceases to be a marvel to energetic and inquisitive Washington observers.

They have been able to find out exactly nothing about it.

There have been few things under the New Deal which provoked so much discussion or were so widely publicized at the time of creation as this fund. It figured in the headlines for weeks.

Then almost overnight it dropped out of the picture. Newspapers turned to other things. It ceased to be a topic of conversation. No questions were asked about it at press conferences.

When will it be put to use? Has it been already? What's to be done with those billions of dollars?

Only the president and his secretary of the treasury can answer those questions and they won't. About the only thing known about the fund is that the administration still regards it as a powerful weapon—its ace in the hole.

Getting Into Print
One of the most successful members of congress from the standpoint of personal publicity is Indiana's woman member of the house, Mrs. Virginia Ellis Jenckes.

Mrs. Jenckes defeated Fred Purcell, one of the Republican Old Guard veterans and house leaders, in 1932.

The frequency indicates that the Jenckes method of dealing with the newspapers is not that of an amateur. Her statements are delivered to the press in a highly professional manner. They are marked "Immediate Release" and carry a "Note to the Desk."

Has Own Food Bill
Her latest campaign is directed against the Tugwell-Copeland pure food and drugs bill. She is supporting a substitute known as the McCarran - Jenckes bill, introduced in the senate by McCarran of Nevada and in the house by herself.

Over a recent weekend telegrams were dispatched to publishers of all newspapers having Washington correspondents "earnestly suggesting" that they wire their representatives here for complete details of the McCarran-Jenckes bill.

Centralia Robbery Attempt Is Failure

her at close range, but missed, the bullet going through a glass door. The robber then hit her over the head, apparently with a revolver butt, and he and his companion fled in a car parked at the side of the bank.

ST. CLOUD, Fla., Mar. 21 (AP)—Law officers extended a search over Florida today for three men who held up the Citizens State bank of this city yesterday and escaped with approximately $19,500 after warning their victims they were members of the John Dillinger gang.

CHICAGO, Mar. 22 (AP)—That man whose body they found full of lead in a Cicero, Ill., gutter Tuesday was identified today as a criminal long hunted for some of the nation's most sensational and cold-blooded crimes.

Except for his fingerprints the man might have concealed in death, as he so successfully did in life, his true identity—Fred Goetz, 37, college-educated gangster and "brains" of a deadly group of desperadoes as Chicago police men hunted.

Not long after "an equal distribution of wealth," we fear, the heavens would again be howling out the blues.

REFUSES TO JOIN SENATE IN REBELLION

In the next fiscal year beginning July 1.

The next step will be up to the senate. It can concur in the house action or again disagree.

In the meantime, the senate defeated the Dickinson amendment to the Philippine independence bill which would have reduced the transition period from ten to five years. Senator Huey Long supported the Dickinson amendment.

House Adopts Naval Bill
Also, the house adopted the conference report on the Vinson treaty naval bill. A little later it also was passed by the senate and now goes to the president.

It provides for a naval construction program of 102 warships and 1140 airplanes, estimated to cost about $980,000,000. Senate and house conferees were in accord on all points. This is the biggest naval program undertaken with administration approval since the World war and is designed to build the navy up to London treaty limitations by 1939.

In the third branch of the government in Washington today it was reported that President Roosevelt may decide to require industrial concerns to obtain a license to operate. This power is given him under section 48 of the national industrial recovery act.

Also, the president speeded work for return of air mail lines to private concerns at a conference today with officials of the post office and commerce departments and Attorney General Cummings.

The group was called in as efforts were made on Capitol Hill to hasten the new legislation for contract bidding.

TO WORK OUT LOCAL E. R. A. SET-UP SOON

experiences of the last nine months has shown that the problems of unemployment must be faced on more than one front, this morning's speakers at the round table discussion pointed out. Coincident with the plans for the demobilization of civil works has been the development of a program to meet the peculiar needs of three separate and distinct groups in need through no fault of their own. The three classes include distressed families in rural areas; those composing "stranded populations," i. e. those living in single-industry communities in which there is no hope of further re-employment; and the unemployed in large cities.

"Relief funds will be expended on behalf of rural families in a manner and to the extent to enable them to achieve self-support. Work for wages from relief funds is not an essential part of this phase of the program and will be provided only insofar as it is necessary to accomplish the primary objective of making them self-supporting," Mr. Carlson said.

It is pointed out that only a careful survey can determine the number of families included in "stranded populations," but there is sufficient data already collected to indicate a situation of substantial proportions, he said.

Mr. Carlson and Mr. White are meeting with various Eastern Oregon cities represented this afternoon and it is expected that specific program will soon be worked out.

Representatives from Baker were Mrs. Helen Hamilton and Miss Ruth Hill; from Pendleton, Judge C. S. Cheshire, Max Dudley, Mrs. Hilda Bent and Mrs. Mary Edmundsen; from La Grande, members of the Union county relief committee, C. W. A. representatives and Roscoe Neal, district engineer for the C. W. A.

INTEREST IN REVIVAL GAINS

The home force revival meetings at the Central Church, of Christ, in which Rev. Paul DeF. Mortimore is acting as evangelist, are increasing in interest. Last evening he discussed the subject, "One Law That Is Always Enforced," and made an excellent application of the text, "What a man soweth, so shall he also reap." His subject this evening is "What Became of the Carpenters that Helped Noah Build the Ark?"

The public is invited. The services begin each evening at 7:30, with the orchestra playing and the choir leading in the singing of familiar hymns.

We aren't sold on the proposed calendar of 13 months. It's hard enough to get by in 12.

TODAY IN BRIEF, IN AND AROUND OREGON

AS CHRONICLED BY THE DAILY LEASED WIRE OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOG HAULING CURTAILED — PORTLAND, Mar. 22 (AP)—No longer will the hauling of logs during weekends and holidays on the McKenzie river highway and Cannon Beach roads be permitted.

The state highway commission at a meeting here Wednesday issued an order forbidding such practice, and stated further that between June 15 and Sept. 15, during the tourist season, all log hauling on the Cannon Beach road must be suspended.

The commission also ordered that no article, whether timber, pling, or other material, longer than 75 feet may be hauled on highways of the state without a special permit.

MARKS NOT A CANDIDATE — SALEM, Ore., Mar. 22 (AP)— Because he feels that he could not afford the time nor expense required for a campaign, Willard Marks today is definitely out of the race for governorship of Oregon, according to his own declaration.

"I can not pay the price," he said in making his declaration late yesterday. He declared that had the vote so willed and he had been in a position to run, he would like to serve as governor of Oregon.

DECISION DISAPPOINTS — SALEM, Mar. 22 (AP)—The self-elimination of Willard L. Marks, of Albany, from the gubernatorial race was met with general disappointment at the state capitol where the former president of the senate has many friends. Among those who expressed regret that Marks would not seek the Republican nomination were many state officials who had predicted Marks would have been elected.

TWO KILLED IN CRASH — SOUTH BEND, Wash., Mar. 22 (AP)—Within three days after 19 planes had been ordered "grounded" by state authorities for failing to comply with federal aviation regulations, two men were dead here today, Gus Schling, 49, Long Beach town marshal, and Charles Strauhal, 35, a Pacific county deputy sheriff, victims of an air crash.

Strauhal's plane went into a side-slip when making a turn about 150 feet in the air here yesterday afternoon and plunged to earth.

Madame, you've undoubtedly already discovered that you can't pick quality by the prettiness of the package. Hills Bros. Coffee has maintained its quality. As a result, more people from Chicago to the Pacific buy Hills Bros. Coffee than any other brand. Hills Bros. Coffee may cost you a few cents more per pound. But you don't drink coffee by the pound. You drink it by the cup. Because the flavor is more abundant, Hills Bros. Coffee is actually more economical to use than "bargain counter" coffees. Order Hills Bros. Coffee today and look for the Arab trade mark on the can.
