Teacher Election Held at Cove; Are Still Vacancies

COVE (Special) — At a meeting of the school board Monday, a part of the teachers were elected, including J. R. Price, assistant in the high school, Mrs. J. E. Mills for the seventh and eighth grades, Mae Stella Bivalson for the fifth and sixth grades, Mrs. Eva W. Dinkins for the third and fourth grades, and Mrs. Hattie Powell for the first and second. These teachers have all been employed here a long time. Mrs. Mills is just completing her 11th consecutive year; Mrs. Dinkins has taught nearly as long, and was employed here before her marriage, then retired from teaching for several years, and when she returned to teaching, save for one year in Union, has been connected with the school here. Mr. Price has been connected with the Cove school for a long time, was assistant principal in the eighth grade, was principal but has served in other schools during the time. Mrs. Powell served an apprenticeship in the Cove school a long time ago and since her return, is completing her third year. H. O. Blank has been re-elected as janitor.

Five Taken Exams For Appointment Union Postmaster

UNION — Five Union citizens took the civil service examination at La Grande Saturday as applicants for the position of postmaster to succeed Tony D. Smith whose term has expired and who is not on the right side of the political fence for re-appointment.

The applicants are John Jacobs, W. C. Sherrill, Edred Hutchinson, Lee Chas. and Blinn Spores.

The suggestion is that a postmaster will be selected from among the three standing highest in the examination, although it is understood that this rule does not have to be rigidly followed when party politics enter into the calculations. It is also reported that Congressman Pierce does not intend to have an appointment made until after the May primary election.

Meanwhile Tony Smith is preparing to open an insurance and real estate office in his building on Beekman street.

Fingerprints Of Suspect Are Taken

May, noted criminologist, had before him the fingerprints of Harry Kimble, a self-assured professional gambler arrested at Cove d'Alene two days ago. May had also a large number of fingerprints taken from the death house, for comparison.

He has said he believed one of the slayers was seriously wounded in the terrible battling before the killings. At Cove d'Alene, Sheriff S. J. McMillan said that Kimble steadfastly denied any connection with the slaying of four men and two women, at the Frank Fluder home on Blain's Point a week ago tonight. He explained severe head injuries by saying he had been in a fight at Spokane.

Kimble claimed Everett in Westport, Washington, as his birthplace, and said he had been in Spokane the past several days at one hotel, but that he had also spent several days at another run by a Japanese. Some discrepancies in his story were being checked.
