Plentiful Pears

DID you know that the pear helped introduce a fork to the etiquette of eating? Our early ancestors, as you may know, ate entirely with hunting knives, their fingers, and crude spoons. But in the sixteenth century it was recorded that King Edward I had "sixty-nine knives and three little forks for eating pears."

The Pearl of the Entire Year

Our enjoyment of the pear is not confined to one season. All the year round, canned pears bring us pearls of the abundance of them—in all their perfections—that we may make such pearls of dishes as these: Pear Pastries: Cover oval or oblong tart tins with pastry and bake. For the filling, add one cup milk and add three-fourths tablespoon cornstarch, two tablespoons sugar and a few grains of salt blended together. Cook until creamy, stirring constantly. Add one slightly-beaten egg. Cook a few minutes more and add half teaspoon vanilla. Cook. Fill the tart shells half full of the creamy filling. Drain canned pears, and place half a pear in each tart. Sprinkle with chopped nuts and pour melted currant jelly over the pears.

Cut the Contents of an 8-ounce can of pears in lengthwise pieces, and one banana in long slim pieces. Arrange them like petals of a flower in cocktail glasses. Pile the contents of an 8-ounce can of pineapple tidbits in the center. Pour over them the combined fruit juices and two tablespoons lemon juice. Top with minted cherries. This makes four servings.

WALLOWA PERSONALS

Sidney Casteel returned Monday to Ponderosa after having spent the weekend at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Casteel. Sidney has been employed with the Standard Oil company at Condon for the past year. Miss Genevieve Renfrow, who has employment at Albee, was at home for Easter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Renfrow, of the Whiskey creek district. Mrs. Mary Murphy and daughter, Miss Margaret, were Easter guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wade in Enterprise and attended the Easter services at the Catholic church there. As has been their custom for several years, the young women of the M. E. church, known as the "Chi Chi Girls' club," served an Easter breakfast at the church for all members of the Sunday school and some invited guests. A profusion of daffodils added a springtime appearance to the dining room, and 63 persons were seated at the tables, Miss Vera Edleman, president of the club, was general chairman of the affair. Arthur Thompson is spending his spring vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Thompson. He arrived early in the week from Pullman, Wash., where he is a freshman at Washington State college. Among the Pythian Sisters in Wallowa who motored to La Grande Friday to attend the district convention of the order are Mesdames Bruce Cox, O. F. Campbell, J. O. Kiddie and the Misses Vera Edleman, Lottie and Mildred McCrae. Miss Arthene Gray is to furnish a social number for Wallowa's contribution to the program and Miss Genevieve Sulphren will play her accompaniment. It was reported here Wednesday that Leland Kiddie had purchased a warehouse in Joseph and was planning to move to that place and take charge of it in the near future. Leland is the son of J. O. Kiddie of Wallowa. Jackie Bill Evans, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ward Evans, was taken to the Hot Lake sanatorium last week, very ill of pneumonia. He is still a patient but is said to be improving. Ministry of commerce statisticians at Madrid announce that the 11,111 Spanish exporters registered in the ministry did an average gross business of 67,000 pesetas during 1933—the lowest in years.

ABOUT STAMPS

James A. Farley, postmaster general, has announced that the Mother's Day stamp will be the size of the current special delivery stamp and the initial order calls for two hundred million stamps. Color is not yet decided. Called "subject is portrait by Whistler entitled 'My Mother' and in lower left a vase of carnations. Across the top of the stamp will be the words 'U. S. Postage' and under them a line reading 'In memory and in honor of the Mothers of America.' Below this appears the words 'Three Cents.' A special NRA 3-cent stamp was issued by the postoffice department to direct attention and to arouse the support of the nation in the National Recovery Act. The stamp is purple in color and of the same size as the regular issue, is arranged horizontally. The principal design, contains figures representing a farmer, a business man, an industrial worker, and a woman employee. Near the upper left corner in dark gothic letters are words 'Three Cents' arranged in two lines, and below in dark gothic letters is the abbreviation 'NRA.' In a horizontal line near the bottom of the stamp are the words 'In a common determination.' The NRA stamp was first placed on sale August 15, 1933 at the postoffice, Washington, D. C. The first issue of the NRA stamp was 400,000. Later, there was more issued, bringing the number near a billion. This stamp has received much criticism from the public, some claiming that the business man is out of step with the other three people. There is no truth in the rumor that some of these stamps have been recalled and that the ones with the business man with one limb missing are worth more; as there was but the one variety issued.

JUDITH LANE

by JEANNE BOWMAN

SYNOPSIS: Big Tom Bevin, Judith Dale's old employer, has died and left her his fortune to be used for his dam, a reclamation project on the Rio Grande in West Texas. At the reading of the will she had a letter from Big Tom, arranged against her by Mrs. Bevin and Mathie, her former employer. Lampero is Judith's husband's lawyer. To complicate matters still more, Mathie is determined to get Judith's husband away from her.

Chapter 15 THE WILL

JUDITH Dale dried her eyes on a whisp of a handkerchief after reading the first lines written here by her former friend and employer, and then she looked about the room. It was a queer drama, this in which she was playing an unwilling leading role. Mrs. Bevin and Mathie, in heavy mourning, sat on one side and close beside them Norman Dale, her husband, representing his friends' interests against those of his wife.

Judge Morgan, to whom Big Tom had turned when he found Morton Lampero not trustworthy, motioned Judith to continue reading, and she bent her head again, above the letter. Your reading this note, said the ink, I have passed on, I have reason to believe they will rush the deed. I have passed on, I have reason to believe they will rush the deed. I have passed on, I have reason to believe they will rush the deed.

"I'm afraid we've pressed you a little too early," Lampero countered suddenly. "You go home, take time to get over this... or grief at your former employer's death and I am sure that such a competent little business woman you've allowed proven to be, you'll find something different to tell us."

"My decision is final," Judith's voice was clear as she spoke and her eyes rested on her husband, rather than the man who was addressing, as though she hoped he would understand.

"I have finished reading the instructions my former employer left for me, Judge Morgan. I am ready now to hear his will."

gummed and imperforate in compliance with the American Philatelic Society, for their exhibition held at the Century of Progress fair in Chicago. The last sheet being the Byrd un gummed, imperforate stamp in sheets of six stamps, in compliance with the National Stamp Exhibition at New York City February 10-18, 1934. The last three sheets are very popular with most collectors.

Walter Leale, one of our local collectors has arranged to dispose of his specialized stamp collection thru a general dealer. Since giving up collection, Mr. Leale has made a very fine collection of United States, South America, and British Colonies. Mr. Leale in the future will specialize only in United States mint blocks, of which he now has a nice collection. Mr. Leale did admit, with a smile, that he would be pleased to have a single inverted air mail stamp for his collection. I am wishing you good luck Walter.

There was more, much more. Mrs. Bevin asked certain clauses be repeated and Judith, listening, felt relieved to learn her former employer's wife would receive the rentals from the Bevin Building, averaging one thousand dollars a month, and the property on which the family home was located.

Mathie, received a like allowance from other sources, both Mrs. Bevin's and Mathie's bequests to be controlled and held to one thousand dollars a month each by Judge Morgan.

The will and the various documents pertaining to it were replaced on the desk. Judge Morgan had announced that was all, and had arisen as though expecting the others to leave, when Morton Lampero held up a restraining hand.

"A word with Mrs. Dale, please. Mrs. Dale you have heard the reading of the will and with your intelligence I know you have felt the injustice done the widow of our late friend, now Mrs. Dale. I wonder if you haven't something to say to us here before Judge Morgan?"

Judith regarded the man a long moment. She had been seeing him around the offices for years but never before had she sought to find the man beneath strikingly handsome features. Pleasant, suave, too pleasant she decided.

"Mr. Lampero, I have my instructions from Mr. Bevin and I shall respect and obey them to the best of my ability."

"Judith's" voice was clear as she spoke and her eyes rested on her husband, rather than the man who was addressing, as though she hoped he would understand.

"I have finished reading the instructions my former employer left for me, Judge Morgan. I am ready now to hear his will."

officials say, that the reservoir will not be just as full when summer begins in earnest. In addition, there are the two artesian deep wells, which in a pinch could supply La Grande with all the water necessary for its domestic uses, it is said. Pumping probably will be necessary during much of the summer, but this is usual, in that the gravity system requires some help during the drier months of the year.

"There is practically no snow in the Beaver Creek territory although four inches fell a week ago during the Easter Sunday storm. Much of the Beaver creek supply comes from springs, however, which may or may not be greatly affected by the lack of snow."

AT THE LIBERTY

Latest reports from Baker indicate that that city is expecting a real shortage in water this summer and fall unless heavy rains fall a little later in the year. Oregon, in general, is preparing for what it expects to be the worst water shortage in many years.

Few stories are said to offer a star a wider range of dramatic opportunities, or a more dazzling background than are afforded beautiful Kay Francis in "The House on 60th Street." Warner Bros.' plotterization of Joseph Santley's story, which will be shown next Sunday at the Liberty theatre.

As the orphaned daughter of a professional gambler, whose beauty wins her immediate success in Broadway's gayest musical shows, and makes her the toast of the town, as one of the "Floradora" girls, Kay Francis undertakes a role completely different from anything she has ever attempted before.
