La Grande Branch A. A. U. W. Allocates Funds To The Fellowship And Local Funds

Funds which have been accumulated during the year were allocated to the several projects in which the group is interested, at the April meeting of the La Grande branch of the American Association of University Women, held Saturday at the Scajawa Inn. These two latter funds are the purpose for which the general association exists, the making possible of advanced study for women after they have received their bachelor degree. The latter fellowship has recently been awarded to Miss Margaret Elaine Williams, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Williams, of Wallawa, formerly Presbyterian minister at Elgin.

Chats With Parents

SLEEPING LATE
By Brooke Peters, Church

In the Wilson household oversleeping in the morning meant extra work for the maid and endless confusion for the entire family. If Joan went to a party and slept late the next day, an extra breakfast was cooked and served to her in bed, and someone had to make her bed and clear her room after Joan had dressed.

This Joneses had a different scheme. Whoever wanted to sleep late was at liberty to do so, but must get his or her own breakfast, clear up the dishes, straighten up the bedroom and make the bed.

There come times in the lives of young people as of older ones when arrears of sleep must be made up. To allow these extra hours in bed, however, to upset an entire family or to put extra burdens on maids or other members of the household is quite unnecessary. That the convenience of one person should interfere with the routine and plans of several others is disproportionate. Generally the cause of the late rising is a social function. If it is a question of late work it is quite different. There allowance may well be made. But if the youngsters have been indulging in late parties they certainly can afford to pay something for their fun, and not demand the payment from those who did not share in it.

Parents tend to be very soft-hearted and lenient with their growing children who are having their first taste of social life. The result is often an assumption on the part of the young people that they deserve special consideration, with utter disregard of others.

A little indifference to their comfort and insistence on their taking the rough with the smooth would tend to give better focus to their point of view.

EARLY THOUGHTS OF BOUQUETS
A little discussion of the best means of producing beautiful effects with flower bouquets will not prove amiss at this time of the year when everyone is thinking of the garden they are to produce in the next few months.

Artistic expression, such as flower arrangement, is difficult to define, but fortunately there are certain general principles which, if followed, will produce delightful displays.

A reproduction of the conditions under which the flower grew is the aim to cope with. This cannot be done literally, of course, but by proper lighting flowers can be displayed in a color representation very similar to that of the garden. For instance, a bouquet of flowers in a dark corner of the room will not show up to advantage merely because of the unnatural lighting, or lack of it. They lose the lustre that made them so attractive in the garden. On the other hand, the same bouquet on the dining room table will show up admirably, principally because the adequate lighting from the top sets them off as would a bright sky outside.

In carrying out the idea of garden growth still farther, the correct position of the flowers in the vase or other receptacle should be as nearly like their natural stature as possible. This will help to preserve their grace and charm, and do away with the artificiality so apparent in the old-fashioned setup. The Japanese people are particularly adept in artistic arrangements. Being a flower loving, and even worshipping people, they have formulated a long list of intrinsic rules to follow. They are too complex to look into here, however, except to say that foliage plays an important part in making their bouquets more natural.

The many flowers and too many colors cause most of the failures. A few carefully selected for harmony of color will do much better, and although it is possible to make attractive bouquets from flowers of all colors when the colors are well balanced, simplicity of arrangement and hue will prove most satisfactory for the small home bouquet.

It is a mistaken notion that only those flowers that are fully bloomed should be picked for the bouquet. Try to have both blooming flowers and buds in your arrangement; it is more natural.

Oregon Men Win Promotion

M. D. Leh, A. E. Horn, Jr., and Clark G. Walker, Who Helped Establish General Mobilgas.

The new head of General Petroleum in Oregon is Albert E. Horn, Jr., promoted to succeed Marc D. Leh as manager of the Oregon Division with headquarters in Portland. Leh has been advanced to larger executive responsibilities in the company's home office at Los Angeles. In addition to the promotions of these two well known Portland men, Clark G. Walker, General's former district manager at Eugene, moves to Portland to succeed Horn as assistant division manager for Oregon. Elevation of these three Oregon men on April 1 resulted from their outstanding sales work and is in line with increased merchandising activities of General Petroleum, Pacific Coast affiliate of Socony-Vacuum, due to the introduction of the new gasoline, General Mobilgas, according to A. H. DeFries, vice-president of the company.

DON'T LET COMMON CONSTIPATION DULL THE JOY OF LIVING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation takes the sunshine out of your days. It may bring headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, sallow skins, pimples.

Fortunately, you can avoid this condition by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to help overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than dosing yourself with patent medicines. Two tablespoonsful of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If seriously ill, see your doctor—ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SPRING'S BRUIN!

This spring showing was a best—2nd then some. When spring-like rephers first permeated Sultana's rocky lair in a Milwaukee zoo, she emerged for a public appearance, bringing with her—yes, you've guessed it—the very newest thing in polar bears. The woolly newcomer, Sultana's 11th offspring born in captivity, first saw the Jim beam as he gave three months ago, but not until the first mild day did Sultana give her cub this peep at the outside world.
