"Lilies of the Field" Presented By The Junior Class

PLAY SKIT WINS LOUD APPLAUSE; ADVERTISING MANAGEMENT BUSY

Publicity for the junior play, "Lilies of the Field," got well under way when the cast presented a skit to the student body Thursday, May 10.

LHS STUDENT BUYS VIOLIN 300 YEARS OLD

Anita Herrmann has recently acquired a French violin, supposedly three-hundred years old.

BACK STAGE CREW NOW BUSY GANG

Back stage preparations for "Lilies of the Field" are very complicated. Raymond Kelly can be seen there almost any time running around with one end of a wire in his hand and trying to discover where it might go.

Family Difficulties Cause Much Grief In Junior Play

Mary Ellen Stoddard and Lorraine Dodge play the twins in the play. Opposite them as admirers are Jean Piddock and Bob Webb, respectively.

Local Teachers Spend Day At Cornucopia

The annual Classroom Teachers' picnic was held Saturday, May 12, at Cornucopia, twelve miles north of Halfway, in Pine Valley.

and in some places over the track—but what's wading in water ankle deep, and having it run down over you every so often, when you can walk back under a mountain for 1200 feet?

Through The Keyhole

Between the track meet and the forthcoming Junior play we've managed to scrape together a few bits of nonsense that may interest you.

Our future president, the Great Gooderham, is in the limelight again. He absent-mindedly left his reporter's note-book at home and was forced to commandeer a bicycle and go back after it.

What a man-about-town Bob Webb turned out to be. Well, since his costume passes so well with the ladies we guess we'll have to take it, but oh! did you see that monocle.

During the skit Bill Gunn made himself useful as an errand boy for the ladies.

From what we hear Frankie Smith has acquired a bad habit of whispering. Could it be true Frankie?

Upon returning to daylight, which was a welcome sight for the warmth as well as being out in the open again, we left for Cornucopia to get arranged to start back the remaining 125 miles to La Grande.

We only hoped more had found it possible to go and enjoy rambling around in one of the beauty spots around Oregon, rich in love, at one time a thriving city, a typical mining frontier now in the memory of those of that day, and seen now only in pictures of the early West—Cornucopia.

STUDENT OFFICERS FOR 1935 INSTALLED

President Ralph Floberg called the assembly to order Friday morning. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved. Ralph read Article VIII, Section 6 of the constitution, the rules governing the installation of student body officers.

After the installation ceremony Jean Taylor presented the inter-class basketball awards.

Ralph on the spur of the moment called on all of the new officers to give a speech. Mr. Gralapp, after complimenting all of the outgoing officers on their splendid work of the past year, called on them for a short talk.
