Chapter 12
INSINUATIONS

THE quietness at the press table reassured something important to come. And then Lampere arose. "Gentlemen of the jury, I have been given a most unpleasant task to perform. It is one I studied for some time before I could agree to take it. Gentlemen, in the forthcoming testimony, with which I propose to show you that the will in question is not the true will of the man who left it, I will be obliged to denigrate the name of a woman.

"It is a difficult thing for a southern man to do," he paused effectively, then resumed, "and only because there were other women involved, the beloved wife and the grieving daughter of the one who passed away, would I stoop to this... this unchristian conduct. Looking on them, having known them for years, and seeing their suffering I felt that in the very name of womanhood I would be forced to see that justice was done."

"Your honor," interposed Judge Morgan, easily, "I object to Judge Lampere's words. This is an opening statement, not an oratory contest."

Lampere bowed and smiled—"Knowing Judge Morgan's candor where the use of words are concerned, I concede him his objection."

He turned again to the jury. "Gentlemen, in this forthcoming trial of this will, I am going to show you that this defendant, one Judith Lane-Dale, has, from the moment she first met the late Tom Bevin, attempted to insinuate herself into his favor.

"In the beginning she sought to force her way into his home with the intention of becoming his legal adopted daughter. His wife forestalled that, but she could not keep her from becoming Mr. Bevin's stenographer. In that intimate position she took a more dangerous course. More of that later.

"I shall attempt to prove to you the impractical plans laid for the building of the dam which the defendant says will take all of the money involved. I shall then show you that the aged gentleman was of unsound mind at the time the dam survey was made, and at the time the old will was cancelled and the new one drawn up.

"Gentlemen, I am going to show you that behind all of this was the influence of that little lady who sits there. She who, eye on the millions behind the man for whom she worked, maintained a love-nest where the aged man spent hours of his spare time, a love-nest—"

Judith sat up straight, despite Conard's tug at her arm. Curiously she didn't feel indignant, she wanted to laugh. Cilia should tell them about that, her "attic with an underground."

"I AM going to prove to you that this new will was drawn up on the night of August 25th, the night, gentlemen of the jury, that this young woman spent alone with the man whose money she hoped to spend at his death.

"Judith Lane-Dale left the office at the time of her marriage, because her husband insisted—"

"Your Honor," interposed Judge Morgan, "If Mr. Lampere wishes to testify, may I suggest he be sworn first?"

"Mr. Lampere, kindly confine your remarks to what you propose to show."

"Certainly, Your Honor," another gently boy, "I proposed to show that after the young woman had found that she had succeeded in winning the millions through Mr. Bevin's will, she brushed aside all offers of advice from mature friends and allowed herself to be a frazzled, show of spending it as she pleased."

"I will show you how she deserted her beautiful home, her stately husband, I will show you how she went to the little cottage and carried on, bringing to her town a carnalizing with strange men, throwing expensive midnight parties for the men at the dam. I will show—"

There was a commotion in the gallery, Judith turned and looked up as did everyone else. A familiar figure in the colored section was extracting herself from the narrow way, one arm up-raised, voice a bel-lowing screech.

"Listen here, you Mass' Lampere, don't you go bringin' on none of that rascal talk." And here a scream, "Let go my arm," and the -manned Lampere, "I been with Miss Judy from the moment she left home and there ain't a word a truth

TODAY IN BRIEF, IN AND AROUND OREGON

AS CHRONICLED BY THE DAILY LEASED WIRE OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MAY CUT OREGON'S SHARE
SALEM, May 22 (AP)—Amendments to the Cartwright bill, appropriating $100,000,000 for regular federal aid as proposed by President Roosevelt, and leaving $300,000,000 to be appropriated by congress next year when contracts are completed, would reduce Oregon's 1934 share of this amount to $1,600,000, state highway department officials announced last night.

The announcement was made after a telegram had been received from Washington that such amendments had been introduced by Senator Hayden.

OREGON TO ASK REHEARING
PORTLAND, May 22 (AP)—On the contention that Oregon is not just in the "liquor business," but rather, in the "liquor control" business, this state may file a petition for a rehearing of the United States supreme court ruling that states which monopolize the sale of intoxicating liquor must pay federal taxes.

The supreme court ruling was handed down yesterday in the case of Ohio.

U. S. CHECK RECEIVED
SALEM, May 22 (AP)—The governor's office received a check today for $547,809 from the federal government to be used for general unemployment relief during the month of May, including rural rehabilitation and training relief.

TOWN OR LAKE?
CASCADE LOCKS, Ore., May 22 (AP)—There is strong agitation to change the name of this town from Cascade Locks to Cascade Lake, since the latter soon will be more appropriate.

The Columbia river locks which give the town its name will be near the bottom of a huge lake, to be formed by the $31,000,000 Bonneville

SALEM MAN KILLED
SALEM, May 22 (AP)—Harry Parks, about 70, of Salem, was struck down and fatally injured last night at the intersection of 12th and Perry streets here, by an automobile driven by Victor A. Wenzel, Salem.

Parks was rushed to a hospital but died within two hours. Death was attributed to a fractured skull.

TWO HUNTINGTON BOYS DROWNED

BAKER, May 22 (AP)—Clarence Petersen and his brother, Robert Petersen, of Huntington, were drowned in the Snake river Monday evening about 8 o'clock when Clarence stepped from a sandbar into a deep hole and the younger attempted to rescue him.

While the brothers were scrambling about in the water, a companion, Ralph Bone, attempted to rescue them. In the meantime another boy, Aha Gates, ran to Huntington nearby for help and the rescuers reached the scene of the tragedy in time to save the Bone boy.

Permits Needed Until Oct. 1 To Burn Brush, Etc.

May 15 to October 1 of each year is designated by Oregon forest laws as the closed fire season, reports L. C. Morehead, district fire warden.

During this period anyone wishing to do any burning in or near any forest or brush land will be required to get a burning permit before any such burning is done.

Burning permits may be obtained by calling a fire warden or ranger who will make an inspection of the area to be burned and if the burning can be safely done a permit will be issued without cost to the owner.

SUMMERVILLE C. E. SOCIETY STAGES PLAYS

The members of the Christian Endeavor society at Summerville presented two plays at a joint meeting Sunday evening of the Presbyterian and Christian Church Christian Endeavor societies, when about 60 were present. The meeting was held in the Presbyterian church.

The first play entitled "Claiming a New Member" was presented by the younger children of the society and the second by the older members of the group was entitled "A Missionary Clinic." Betty Tucker, of Summerville, presented an appropriate reading between the two plays.

Miss Hulda Anderson presided over the meeting and led in the singing of several songs, the remainder of the program being announced by Miss June Hug, of Summerville.

SEES SEALOCK NECESSARY TO BUILD EMPIRE

Bonneville and Grand Coulee projects, and asserted that the rights of the inland Empire territory, between these two points, for the possibility of development through cheaper power and cheaper transportation costs should not be denied it by the federal government. He estimated that approximately $8,000,000 more would be required to build adequate sealocks, which would allow ocean-going vessels to dock at The Dalles or further up the river.

Nelson also said that "were this to be realized, it would not doom the public utilities—railroads and power companies—but that it would require some adjustment, with the various factors complementary to each other in their services to their districts.

As a means of pointing out what canalization of the river for ocean-going vessels would mean, he said that the same rate now applying to shipments between Portland and Shanghai would be extended to river ports such as The Dalles.

He regards the Columbia river as the greatest resource of the inland Empire, and declared that this territory could not be developed to its potential greatness without cheap transportation and power.

Nelson was introduced by President George Walker, who also announced the recent resignations of Secretary Harold Bonte, and his stenographer, Miss Waldrott.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mixer entertained the assemblage with two numbers on the violin and accordion, and then Mixer played the theremin, accompanied at the piano by his wife. Their numbers were very well received.

ENTERTAINERS FEATURED AT GRANGE SHOW

Some groups of La Grande entertainers went to Cove last evening and put on the major features of an entertainment arranged by Mr. Pamie Grange in the Cove gymnasium. There was a splendid crowd and the program is reported to have proved a big hit.

A moderate dance was presented by the sophomore girls of the La Grande High school and the senior girl tumblers gave a series of tumbling acts. Mrs. R. L. Skeen presented two readings. These numbers were supplemented by two songs by Franklyn Wells and two violin numbers by Alvin Lee Miller both of Cove.

DAVIS TO GO TO ROSEBURG

O. B. Davis, who has been connected with the La Grande hotel since its opening about seven years ago, expects to leave next Sunday for Roseburg where he has accepted a position with W. O. Clinger, formerly manager of the La Grande hotel.

FOREST RANGER ON INSPECTION TOUR IN HILLS

Gerald Tucker, U. S. forest ranger, left today for the summit range station, and from there he will spend several days on an inspection tour of this district of which he has charge. He expects to be absent from his office for about a week.
