Coronation of "Queen Barbara" Feature of Annual Commencement Ball at E. O. N. Last Evening

The coronation of Miss Barbara Eter, of Eliot, Ore., "Queen of Evening" as a special feature of the Commencement Ball last evening at the Eastern Oregon Normal school, was a most beautiful and impressive ceremony. The approach of the queen-elect and her attendants was heralded by 10:30 o'clock by the trumpets, William Weise and Robert Dexter, who, leading the procession, were followed by the attendants — the Misses Beverly and Barbara Guye, of Pendleton; Bonnie Ruth Thompson, of Elsie; Azalea Bennett, of Enterprise; Dorothy Hill, of Baker and Ruth Geibel, of La Grande — and the queen, Miss Eter on the arm of the senior class president, Roy Conklin, of Union. At the throne Mr. Conklin presented Miss Eter to Harry Dawson, president of the student body, who crowned her "Queen of Evening."

Immediately the grand march was formed, led by Queen Barbara on the arm of President Inlow and President Dawson escorting Mrs. Inlow. Glenn Fox presided at the piano for the grand march.

Queen Barbara will reign at Evening on the grand staircase, Wednesday evening, June 6 and will officially light the Torch of Knowledge.

The commencement ball was largely attended and was an attractive party, the large auditorium being transformed to furnish the setting for a garden party. Punch was served during the affair.

Miss Hawksworth, Miss Horton, Are Feted at Dinner

Miss Mayne McCherter was hostess at a dinner Friday evening in the gold room of the La Grande hotel complimenting Miss Mildred Hawksworth and Miss Margerite Horton. Places were laid at a prettily appointed table, with sweet peas forming a gorgeous centerpiece. Guests included Miss Hawksworth, Miss Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Quinn, Wayne Lowell and William Mock, of Pullman. Following the dinner, the party attended the formal commencement ball.

Miss Horton has her plans made to attend school in the east at the close of the summer. Miss Hawksworth will leave La Grande June 9 for her home at Great Falls, Mont. After a ten-day visit there she will leave for Montreal to attend the American Library association conference, June 25 to 30. In company with about 25 librarians Miss Hawksworth sails from Quebec on June 30 for England, France, Switzerland, Germany and Italy, returning via the Mediterranean to New York, arriving in La Grande early in September. The company will visit libraries as they travel, study the history of printing and other things which is pertinent to their line.

Union Newlyweds Are Complimented

Inman, father of Mrs. Lay, Harold, Minnie, Joseph and Josephine Browning. From Baker were Mr. and Mrs. Marvyn Inman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowers and Master Alena Hansen. Those going from Payette were Mrs. Jean Inman, mother of the bride, and her two sisters, Nora and Rachael Inman.

The new officers of both societies were presented, including Miss Grace Scully and John Dunn, the two presidents.

President Inlow was the speaker of the evening who talked interestingly of present problems, stressing the fact that changes made by war have brought no advancement, but only those changes which come as a result of invention, science and thought, bring benefit and advancement. The Sunday School Lesson in Rhyme

JESUS IN THE SHADOW OF THE CROSS
Mat. 26:1-75.

The cross's shadow, dark and chill,
O'er Jesus' soul was cast;
He knew it was His Father's will
That He bear it at last.

The night in which He was betrayed,
More dark became the gloom,
While with the twelve He talked and prayed
Within the upper room.

From that sad meeting Jesus went
To that Gethsemane
And in His darkest gloom He spent
An hour in agony.

While He His lonely vigil kept
In agonizing prayer,
His sorrowful disciples slept,
Instead of watching there.

As on His face in darkness dense,
Alone, He prayed to God,
His agony was so intense
He sweat great drops of blood!

His consecration was complete;
"Thy will be done," He prayed;
God gave Him strength the cross to meet
And He was not dismayed.

Betrayed; arrested; and accused;
He answered not a word;
He was insulted and abused,
But no complaints was heard.

Choir Showers A Bride-Elect

Miss Ruth Smalley, whose marriage to Mr. Hagey is to be an event of next month, was honored at a party given last evening when Mrs. R. J.

Sermonette Edited by Harriet R. MacDonald

I have called you friends, John, 15-15.

The world of nature about a small child affords unusual opportunity for the parent. The animals, the birds, the flowers, the trees, the mountains, and the sea, the wind and the rain, the sun and the sunshine, the moon and the stars give an opportunity for a Christian parent to lead the child to love the gracious source of all beauty and goodness. Wise parents will consciously keep their children in the midst of these beauties. Frequent walks and vacation trips, stories and pictures will open up an orderly universe where the Father-God communes with His children.

Religion lifts. It does not force or coerce. If children are wooed and won to the Christian life they come to it naturally, interpreting religion after their own mothers and fathers. With the supplementing when given later by the church, the child should normally come to realize that Jesus Christ is his most intimate acquaintance. Jesus, with all His charm and beauty, will become the child's friend and comrade. C. H. E.
