

LASKY, PROCESS SERVERS BELABOR KINGFISH LEVINSKY

By Paul Zimmerman
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES, June 13 (AP)—King Levinsky, nursed a badly battered body and pocketbook today, the results of wild but losing bouts at the Olympic here last night with Art Lasky, Minneapolis heavyweight and process server.

The 198-pound Minneapolis mauler outpointed the Kingfish from start to finish in their ten round bout, which had the crowd of 11,000 cheering and jeering madly. He won seven rounds on Referee George Blake's count, two to the Chicago fish peddler and the odd one even.

Harassed by taunts from the ring-side, Levinsky carried on a verbal tiff with opponents out of reach and once paused to thumb a bloody nose at Lupe Velez, screen actress, who kept up a relentless chant: "Geeve it to heem! Geeve it to heem!"

Lasky took her at her word.

There was little left of the fish monger's $4,975 share of the $10,589 net gate when the creditors had finished with him. After private detectives stopped the Levinsky automobile on the outskirts of the city before the fight, the Kingfish was brought back to the Olympic office where $3,500 was counted out in a bag to satisfy the demands of Mrs. Lena Levinsky, his sister and co-manager, and subsequently impounded by the sheriff.

Federal officers also attached on the basis of a $1880 claim against Mrs. Levy over income tax difficulties.

DOG'S BARKING SAVES 4 LIVES

KANSAS CITY, Kas., June 13 (AP)—Buster, a spitz dog, saved the lives of four persons last night despite a reprimand from his master to cease his barking.

Ed C. Zane, a farmer near Wolcott, heard the dog bark about 10:30 p. m. He commanded the animal to be quiet. A few minutes the dog barked again and scratched on the outside of the house beneath Zane's window. Zane arose and found the roof and ceiling ablaze. Zane, his housekeeper and her two children fled to safety. The cottage was destroyed.

100 Registered At Ascension Park Summer School

The Ascension summer school for young people of the Episcopal church throughout the state of Oregon, opened up auspiciously Tuesday at the Ascension park at Cove. It is reported by Rev. Clarence A. Kopp, local rector, who is dean of the school. Preliminary enrollment on Monday, the day prior to the formal beginning, was well past the 100 mark with additional registrations each day since. The conference will continue through Friday, June 22.

In addition to Dean Kopp, local rector, the officery for the project includes Bishop W. P. Remington, Pendleton, chaplain; dean of women, Mrs. W. P. Remington; director of young people's work, Rev. George Foster, Baker; registrar, Rev. R. L. Baird, Klamath Falls; counselor for girls, Miss Catherine Peterson, Pendleton; counselor for boys, Rev. Ralph Hinkle, Pendleton; camp nurse, Miss Ruth Hingardner, Pendleton; Mr. Moore and Mr. Taylor, directors of recreation, Mr. Pickells and Mr. Hayes, in charge of evening programs.

The daily routine includes class and discussion occupying the morning. Recreation including hiking, swimming and horse-back riding has been provided for the afternoon. There is entertainment for the evening hours, with invariably two hours of dancing and an informal hour before the fireplace in Morris hall in the evening.

While the faculty consists of 12 instructors including the dean, there are some who might be mentioned particularly in an initial story. Mrs. Charles Carver Jr., of Portland, has recently returned from an extended stay in the Orient, and she is presenting a course on her findings and observations there. Alex Hayes, of Hood River, has a splendid course in religious drama, while Rev. C. S. Mook, of Seattle, has a class in personal religion for boys which is proving quite attractive. Rev. Stanley T. Boggs, who has been having a leave from his duties as rector of St. Paul's at Walla Walla, will be here during the last of the week for some special presentations. The remaining instructors are all men and women prominent in the denomination and very capable in their several fields of instruction.
