Reed and Kunkle Win In Snappy Card Here

generally said the wrestling was the best exhibition of its kind staged here in many years. Thrill followed thrill as the four middleweights showed their wares in speedy fashion.

Harry Elliott, University of Oregon wrestling coach and a top-notch grappler himself, officiated in the ring and handled the matches very well, even though he had to tear into Bulldog Jackson several times in order to keep the match within the agreed rules.

Reed took the first fall from McGuire in 21 minutes 6 seconds on a rolling cradle, but McGuire came back to even the count in 13 minutes 23 seconds with his famous Indian death lock. Reed saved himself in the last part of the match by gaining the ropes when McGuire clamped on the same hold, and then won from McGuire with an airplane spin. The time on the third fall was 14 minutes 25 seconds.

Kunkle took the opening fall in 12 minutes and 22 seconds from the "old meany," Bulldog Jackson, with an inverted body slam, and the Portlander came back strong with a series of hammerlocks to pin Kunkle in 11 minutes 6 seconds. He used the hammerlocks consistently from then on, and appeared to have Kunkle thoroughly beaten, when the Salt Lake City boy surprised the crowd with a "body slam" that put Jackson down for the deciding fall in 14 minutes 15 seconds.

Winnie Myers, 150, of Union, won by a technical knockout over Ralph Dewey, of Pendleton, weighing 148, at the end of the second round in the first boxing match, and Gerald Butcher, 134, La Grande, put Harry Eagles, 135, Pendleton, to sleep in the second round of their bout. They carried Eagles from the ring, so completely he was knocked out. The first round of this match was about even but Butcher came back strong in the second round and was ahead on points at the time of the kayo punch.
