IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell the decay coming out of our mouth and our food breaks. We feel the poison of the decay all over our body. It makes us grow, groggy and no good for anything. Well, when we eat too much, our little body can't digest it. What is the cause? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get back and constipated and 1/2 of our food decays in our 23 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes. When our friends smell our bad breath that we don't and we feel like a shipped tomcat, don't get a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a salami (mercury) pill, which causes tooth, gum and scalding the rectum in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—24¢. DIXIE, C.M. & Co.

HARD WORK--NOT 'HEROICS' IN LIFE OF U. S. OFFICERS

By Alexander R. George

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sensational exploits such as the killing of Dillinger, the capture of "Machine Gun" Kelly and the smashing of kidnaping rings loom large in the public eye but there is usually more hard work than glamor or heroics in the life of a federal agent.

Some investigators, due to their positions as leaders of squads or because of individual feats in the capturing of notorious criminals, may be thrust temporarily into the limelight but most of the federal agents remain anonymous as a buck private in the infantry.

No "Aces" In Service
It is the policy of the division of investigation to have no recognized "aces" or "big shots." An agent is awarded, of course, for intelligent and courageous service but often exceptional achievements and self-sacrificing bravery are never known by the public, due to the organization's desire to pursue its activities under the protecting cloak of secrecy.

Director Hoover and his men were placed as the "taking" of Dillinger, being particularly pleased at the vindication of Agent Melvin H. Purvis, who had been severely criticized by some outsiders. But Hoover is anxious now that the noise and tumult die down in order that the men may return to their work in relative obscurity.

The collection of new information on "Baby Face" Nelson and his desperadoes still at large must go on. The wending bit of clues and evidence from a mass of conflicting data and "phony tips," the diplomatic handling of local police officials sometimes jealous of their authority and the matching of wits with underworld cunning frequently mean months of painstaking labor.

Many kinds of work
Thousands of other cases await final solution. Running down "bad men" of the Dillinger and Nelson type is only a small part of the division's work. Investigative functions range from getting data on violators of the migratory bird act to the collection of evidence of infraction of the anti-trust laws and the committing of trespass against the United States.

Chats With Parents
By Eloise Peters Church
Hugh's mother was a nagger. Morning, noon and night she was after the child for one thing and another, until the home seemed to resound to the tones of her rather, fretful voice. "Your hair isn't brushed." "You'll be late to school." "Have you your sweater?" "You've kept lunch waiting." "Why don't you do better in school?" "You've forgotten to mow the lawn."

Chats With Parents
The mother was unmerciful in her nagging. It had become habitual. How she been questioned she would have said that Hugh was a very difficult child who never did what he was told, and gave her endless trouble. Hugh himself did not realize the reason for his own feeling of utter discouragement. Apparently he could do nothing right, and was increasingly aware of his inadequacy in everything.

Chats With Parents
And such a feeling increases until it stifles the boy and make a potential failure of him. He becomes shy, awkward, shut in on himself, apologetic for all he does. He is cut out for failure from the start.

Chats With Parents
It is quite unnecessary and very cruel to use such negative means of training. Praise and encouragement are just as easy to give as blame. And might at least be used as a variation in child training. If an order has been given and disobeyed, let the child take the consequences of his own failure, rather than follow him up with futile reiterations.

Chats With Parents
If his hair is not brushed or his nails are dirty, scold him, schoolmate or teacher perhaps, will tell him. If he is late, let him be marked for it at school. Often if a mother looked at her motives honestly she would find that most of her nagging was done to save her own pride, not the child's.

Chats With Parents

MIDDLE WEST'S HOT SPELL REAL RECORD BREAKER

By F. B. Colton (Associated Press Science Writer)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Present-day grandfathers brag about "the old winters when I was a boy," but when boys of today become grandfathers they'll probably brag about "the hot summer we had back in 1934."

It's already a record-breaker, with August still to be reckoned with. The heat wave that started in the middle west and southwest closely paralleled the heat with comparable force was back in 1901.

Not since our weather records began more than 60 years ago has the heat in any one month (July) been so intense over so wide an area in this country, says J. B. Kinney of the weather bureau. "We have such abnormally high temperatures persisted day after day without a break."

The highest temperature recorded for July this year in the middle west and southwest closely paralleled, and in many places topped, the July 1901 record in the same area.

Hot Spots

Oklahoma City set an all-time record. The highest thermometer reading the better was in 1901, with 102 degrees, 11 above normal; Des Moines in 1901 registered 100, or 23 above normal.

The number of successive days when the thermometer registered 100 degrees or over puts July 1934, in a class by itself in the records of the weather bureau, says Kinney.

Des Moines reported 12 days with 100-degree and higher temperatures; 9 of these were successive. In 1901 there were the same number of high-temperature days at Des Moines, but only 8 were in succession. Columbia, Mo., had 21 such days, with 18 in succession, in July 1934, and 19 with seven in succession, in July 1901.

North Platte, Neb., had 16 with 10 in succession in 1934, against seven, with two in succession, in 1901. Oklahoma City had 30, with 19 in succession, in July 1934, and four with two in succession, in 1901. Fort Smith, Ark., had 24 with 17 in succession, in 1934, and 13, with five in succession, in 1901.

The average maximum temperature for the two successive hottest weeks in the heat waves of both 1934 and 1901 were uniformly higher this year. Here is the record:

Place	1934 av.	1901 av.
Des Moines	102	101
Columbia, Mo.	106	102
North Platte, Neb.	103	98
Concordia	100	102
Oklahoma City	102	102
Fort Smith, Ark.	104	101

The extreme heat was of longer duration this year than in 1901, with the high July temperatures preceded by great heat in June in the mid-west and southwest, which was not the case 33 years ago.

DAVIS' FOLLIES PLEASE CROWD AT LIBERTY

Presentation of Chas. Davis' Chicago Follies at the Liberty theatre yesterday marked the revival of vaudeville in La Grande for a period. It was announced that another vaudeville presentation has been booked for next Monday.

A stage band, the "10 Barbarians," plus a number of clever acts, including Patsy Patterson, banjo player, and Frank Starr, clever radio entertainer, made the show Wednesday a decided success, and won generous applause from the audience. The picture "Sisters Under the Skin," featuring Elsie Landi and Frank Morgan, also was shown.

Calf-Borners Successful
CANNON CITY — A calf-borning trial made on the Oliver Brothers ranch this spring by the use of a dehorning paste appears very successful, according to a recent report to R. G. Johnson, county agent by Herman Oliver. Approximately 400 head of calves were tested and not a single case of "scree-head" has developed, according to Mr. Oliver.

More than 2,200 homesteads were filed in California during the last fiscal year, leaving 2,298,275 acres of public lands available for entry.

of food from two stores in Sebringville, near Stratford, Ont., early today caused provincial police to make a thorough investigation of the theory supplies might have been desired by the kidnapers in their hideout.

Telephone contact was reported established in Toronto early today with the kidnapers and some sources expected his release on payment of $150,000 ransom before nightfall.

Arrival of the Ontario officers followed disclosure that "a man named Massey from Detroit" had been mentioned in connection with the kidnaping.
