

La Grande Girl Is Bride of Airman at California Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wiess of La Grande today announced the marriage of their daughter, Jacqueline, to Lt. Arthur T. Kelley of Throckmorton, Texas.

The ceremony took place in the Baptist church in Merced, Calif., June 2nd, with the bride's mother and Flight Officer Robert Kaufman of Connecticut as the attendants of the bridal couple. The double ring ceremony was used.

The bride is a cadet nurse and the bridegroom is temporarily stationed at the army air base at Merced, where he is receiving pilot training. They spent a brief honeymoon in Merced.

The marriage was the culmination of a romance which began when Kelley was a member of the army aviation cadet corps here. The bride is a graduate of La Grande high school.

Today We Pay Tribute to—

Pfc. Orvan Charles Malone, 19, son of Mrs. William Malone, 708 M Ave., La Grande, who is with an infantry company at Camp Van Dorn, Miss.

He attended Riviera school and La Grande high school, and was inducted January 7, 1944.

New Bulletin Tells How To Use Syrup, Honey In Canning

Methods of using corn syrup to stretch canning sugar supplies, and different proportions necessary for the best results are the subject of a new extension service bulletin available at the office of the county agent.

The circular contains tables for guidance of homemakers in the use of both corn syrup and honey as sugar supplements, and it discusses various ways of obtaining maximum quantities of canned fruits with smaller amounts of sugar.

It says dark corn syrup, as well as the more popular light kind, may be used successfully in canning for all of the common fruits except pears. In making the thin type of syrup used in canning, neither the light nor dark corn syrup is recommended with cherries, although either can be used in making a medium or heavy syrup.

In general, the recommended proportions of corn syrup to sugar run a little less than one part to three, although for some fruits and some grades of canning syrup the proportion is either greater or less than that. For example, the recommended proportion in making a medium syrup for cherries is to use 1 1/3 cups corn syrup to 3/4 cups sugar with 5 2/3 cups water.

The government recommendation for using sugar alone in canning is one pound of sugar for each quart of finished product, which means one-half cup of sugar per quart of fruit or a 25 per cent syrup, the circular shows. The lowest amount of sugar used with any satisfaction in canning or freezing most fruits is about a sixth cup per quart. Fruit canned without sugar will keep but quality and flavor are poor.

Thrown Away Fades in Food Shortage Prejudice Against Game Fish Formerly

MONTELO, N. C., June 2 (NEA)—Here's a tip for the housewife: If hubby returns from a fishing trip with a weird conglomeration of amphibians—a string, of course—don't slam the door in his face. He may be the bearer of red point savers.

It may be delicious to eat, better than anything you can get at the market. That floppy looking object resembling a closed wet umbrella may be a sting-ray, the wings of which are utilized in a tasty New Orleans dish called rale au bourre noir.

Housewives have been throwing away tons of game fish every year rather than dress and prepare it. Much is precisely the fish they pay good money for at fish markets, perhaps under another name.

All Have Food Value
There is hardly a fish which is not considered delicious by someone somewhere, people who thrive on their diet. The bony carp is used to advantage. Take, for instance, the pigfish, caught frequently by sportsmen in warmer waters and all too often tossed back or cut up for bait. Actually in North Carolina the pigfish is called "sailor's choice," a tribute to its worth as a panfish. Then there's the dreaded barracuda, caught, photographed and dumped overboard, though rated delicious by some cooks.

Prejudice against a fish's appearance, habits, or some superstition have caused untold economic loss to American fishermen.

The ugly toadfish (oysterfish) has a disposition so mean that it jumps out of the water to snap at its captor with powerful jaws. This specimen makes a tasty tidbit, but few persons will knowingly eat it.

Scaling, Cleaning Simple
Such prejudices have been broken down somewhat and even more rapidly are disappearing under the exigencies of food shortages.

One reason why the sport fisherman frequently has to hawk his catch among the neighbors is the dread housewives have at the job of scaling and cleaning. Yet it is a simple job.

A dull knife scrapes off the scales. The fish is split open underside from head to tail, entrails drawn out, head and tail cut off, then washed and wiped with a cloth inside and out. Some fish should be skinned and boned. Both operations are equally simple.

Everyone knows the immense food value of shark's liver. But the shark itself, long considered edible only by South Sea natives, has also proved its worth at the table. When you buy grayfish at your meat market—you buy shark.

Untangle that tackle!

Membership pins were awarded to Mrs. Arthur Huff and Mrs. Kate Ferdinandsen, and plans were made for a potluck supper for members and their families at the meeting June 25. Each family will take bread, butter, sugar and dishes, and the lodge will provide the dessert.

Members also were reminded that they are to supply food for the Do-nut hut canteen June 21.

Following the meeting pinocle and bingo games were played with prizes going to Mrs. Walt Swart, high, and Mrs. Lyman Huff, fourth, in pinocle, and to Mrs. Luella Weatherspoon for bingo.

Refreshments were served by a committee comprised of Mrs. Dick McManus, chairman, Mrs. Ed Burnett, Mrs. Harry Sitter, Mrs. Rex Graves, and Mrs. Wallace Cass.

Choral Training Course Is Planned

Eastern Oregon college today announced that, due to many requests, an arrangement has been made for those women primarily interested in choir or choral singing and conducting to enroll for choral training only during the three-week vocal music institute, June 18 through July 7.

The chorus will be conducted by Charles Wilson Lawrence, guest instructor from the University of Washington in Seattle.

The course will include three hours of chorus rehearsal, and two hours optional observation of vocal and choral techniques, each week. The fee is $5 and registration must be made by June 18. Additional information can be obtained from Mrs. Florence Miller, phone 383W, or Lyle H. Johnson, registrar, phone 880.

Guild Meets With Mrs. Jack Hatmaker

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Lee Moser, June 28.

The Black Forest in Germany, famous locale of many supernatural and weird folk stories and fairy tales, was named for the preponderance of fir and pine trees which give the ranges a dark hue.

Mrs. Joseph S. Smith returned Sunday evening from a three months visit in Seattle. Mrs. Robert Lang accompanied Mrs. Smith on her return and will be the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Holman.

Women of St. Peter's Guild were reminded today that Saturday is their day to supply food for the Do-nut hut canteen at the Union Pacific station. Their contributions may be taken to the canteen after 2 p. m.
