

Cool Cottons for a City Summer

Designers Combine Rayon With Cotton To Stretch Supply

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—Cotton is going to war in vast quantities. Amounts may be stepped up even more to meet war demands in the Pacific theater, with the result that supplies of summer cotton fashions are limited, and may take further cuts.

When shopping for cotton fashions you'll find there is a scarcity in sheer fabrics such as organdies and dotted Swiss; in drills, twills and denims; also in bird's-eye pique and other novelty weaves.

The greatest selection of styles this season are made of pin-waist and waffle-weave pique, chambray, gingham, shirting and seersucker. But to make these classic weaves stretch as far as possible, designers often combine them with rayon.

Used as the important upper half of the suit, the cotton top appears as a peplum-pleated overblouse; as a Mandarin-styled coat of pique buttoned up one side; as a natty jacket teamed with a matching bandeau bra, which can step out to take its spot in the sun.

Example of this bra-teamed number—a last summer's fashion hit which has been encored back—is shown left in an Adele Simpson-designed suit with a top of blue chambray and skirt of black rayon crepe. All you see of the sun-inviting bra when worn with the jacket is its big butterfly bow edged with white lattice braid, an accent that is repeated on the snappy jacket which has the same expert cut and tailoring as you find in a wool or "silk" suit.

The same attention to good tailoring is found in the tunic top suit, shown right. Another Adele Simpson design, of spun cotton in bold black and white awning stripes, is tied in at the loose waistline with a silk-tasseled sash, and combined with a black rayon skirt.

But not all cotton suits divide fashion honors with rayon. The stylized beauties in one collection are made of chambray that shimmers from bottom to top like changeable taffeta. One of the season's sure-fire hits is the Charles Armour-designed model, center, with low-cut square neckline as extravagantly pleated as a petticoat flounce.

Eisenhower Sees Successful Allied Control of Reich

PARIS, June 15 (UP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today he is confident the four-power control council for Germany will be successful and that relations with Russia will be conducted on a friendly basis of understanding.

The supreme allied commander held a press conference here on the eve of his triumphal return to the United States.

"On my level I found the individual Russian the friendliest person in the world," Eisenhower said. "He likes to talk and laugh with us. He likes us as allies and is darned glad to see us. I talked with the British and they feel the same way."

Eisenhower told newsmen flatly that the complete destruction of German cities by bombing had been entirely justified.

Eisenhower was tanned and looking fit. He wore a battle-jacket with the left breast ablaze with campaign ribbons and decorations.

"Peace lies with all peoples—not with political leaders who may be trying to direct the destiny of peoples along this line or that," he said in typically outspoken style.

Asked if he were looking forward to returning to his home town, Abilene, Kans., Eisenhower answered:

"You bet. But when I think of facing the first five days' schedule in the United States I do it with fear and trembling."

Woodell Clan To Meet June 24 For Annual Reunion

The 33th annual reunion of the pioneer Woodell family today was announced for June 24 in the Pleasant Grove grange hall, with a prospective attendance of 75 or more descendants of the original family who settled in the Grande Ronde valley in 1864.

The reunion will start at 10:30 a. m., and will include a potluck dinner at 12:30 p. m., a business meeting, program and various games and sports.

J. D. Woodell of Imbler is president of the clan, and Iris Adler is secretary.

They announced ice cream and coffee will be served by the clan at the dinner.

The original Woodells who came to this area more than 80 years ago consisted of James, Doon, Joseph, and William, and their sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Wallsinger and Mrs. Margaret German.

In the early days of the family reunions it was not unusual for 105 or more of the descendants to get together for a three-day meeting, but as the younger generation grew up and married, many of them went to other parts of the country and the number remaining in the area convenient to the reunion place has decreased accordingly, reducing the attendance to approximately half its one time proportion.

Shipyard 'Loafing' Controversy Ends In Strike of 2,500

SEATTLE, June 15 (UP)—The Lake Washington shipyards were idle today following a walkout of 2,500 workers in protest against the suspension of several union members for quitting too early.

Simultaneously, the navy disclosed that it had requested on May 30 that "startling" conditions of loafing in the yard be corrected immediately.

The yard's 170 machinists left first in mid-afternoon yesterday after three union members had been suspended for leaving a ship five minutes before the quitting time whistle. Elections followed and 3 p. m. the entire yard personnel had checked out.

A three-day suspension of 10 machinists last Saturday caused a protest for those days of the 170 machinists in the yard, but they returned to work Wednesday.

The memorandum revealing the yard was written by Lieut. Comdr. S. V. Shephard, assistant supervisor of shipbuilding for the 13th naval district. It stated that men had been observed sleeping and reading newspapers and magazines on the job.

The union reply to this was a statement by M. E. McLaren, secretary of the Seattle metals trade council, AFL, that the yard had been short of materials, forcing men to loaf. He said the company hesitated to lay off men because the additional materials were expected shortly.

The men were suspended after the union advised them to ignore a new order prohibiting early quitting to put away tools.

AUDITED DISTRIBUTION for your Advertising

Good advertising copy and attractive layouts are, of course, essential to the success of your advertising. But from the standpoint of final results the answer depends upon the distribution of your advertising.

When you buy newspaper advertising you are paying for an opportunity to talk to people about your merchandise and service. What you get for your money, therefore, depends upon how many people there are in your audience, where they are, how this audience was obtained, and many other facts that indicate the value of the circulation as a market for what you have to sell.

In order that our advertisers may have this information and thus be able to invest in advertising space in this newspaper on the basis of known, verified facts, we are members of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

The Bureau is a national, cooperative association of publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies. Every year one of the trained auditors employed by the Bureau makes an audit of our circulation records. This audited information is issued in official A. B. C. reports covering each member publication. You avoid guesswork and speculation when you advertise in an A. B. C. newspaper.
