

La Grande Girl To Take "Play" Course

Miss Marygene Bohnenkamp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Bohnenkamp, left La Grande last night for Washington, D. C. She will attend a six weeks course in recreation at American university, in preparation for Red Cross work.

She will spend two days in Chicago as a guest of Jean Stoddard Maughan, formerly of La Grande.

At the completion of her course, Miss Bohnenkamp will return to San Francisco for assignment to the west coast area.

United States Marines, under command of Col. Robert E. Lee, captured John Brown at Harper's Ferry in 1859.

Westway Club Will Attend "Wedding"

Members of the Westway club will assemble at the Neighborhood club house at 8 o'clock Friday evening to witness a "wedding" and participate in a reception following.

Other entertainment has been arranged and a short business meeting will be held.

On the committee are Mrs. Fred Leonard, chairman, Mrs. C. C. Lillie, Mrs. Albert Lilly and Mrs. L. J. Kays.

Collaborationists Indicted
ROME, June 20 (UP)—Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, former Italian chief of staff, and six other Italian generals were indicted today on collaboration charges.

Miss June Johnson Becomes Bride Of Dr. Elton Watkins in Portland

At an evening wedding June 15, in the Trinity chapel of the Episcopal church, Portland, Miss June Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Johnson of La Grande, became the bride of Dr. Elton Watkins, Jr., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Watkins of Portland.

The single ring service was read by Dr. Kempton, rector of the church, before the altar decorated with white spring flowers and lighted tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a wedding gown of white French organza, fashioned with a full length train, with a fingertip veil held in place with a seed pearl coronet. She carried a bride's bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. John B. Kidd, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of lime color silk jersey with a matching picture hat, and dark blue mitta. Her bouquet was of blue delphinium.

Watkins' father was the groomsmen. Ushers were Lt. Col. John B. Kidd, brother-in-law of the bride, Dr. Paul Curtis, and Midshipman Richard Johnson, the bride's brother.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Watkins home on Vista avenue.

Mrs. Paul Gilbert completed the cutting of the wedding cake, after the first piece was cut by the newly-married couple. Mrs. Frank A. Jones presided at the coffee urn, and Miss Marygene Bohnenkamp of La Grande at the punchbowl. Assisting were Mary Louise Vincent, Rhoda Harkson, Alice Gregory, and Mrs. William Gibbon, all sorority sisters of the bride.

The dining room was decorated with white snapdragons, white iris and calla lilies. Arrangements of pink and white flowers adorned the other rooms.

Dr. and Mrs. Watkins left for a trip to the Oregon beaches. Upon their return they will make their home at 2207 NW Flanders street in Portland. Mrs. Watkins chose for her traveling ensemble a black wool dressmaker suit with hat to match and white accessories.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Jones, Seattle, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Kidd, Las Vegas, Nev., and from La Grande were Capt. and Mrs. James Kisselbergh, Mrs. Lowell Williamson, Mrs. H. M. Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Johnson.

Mrs. Watkins graduated from La Grande high school, attended Eastern Oregon college two years and was graduated from the University of Oregon where she was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority and Phi Beta Kappa.

Dr. Watkins is a graduate of Reed college and the University of Oregon medical school. He is Multnomah hospital and has a now completing his internship at residency at the new tuberculosis hospital on Marquam hill. He is affiliated with Nu Sigma Uu, a medical fraternity.

IWO JIMA

Beachhead to Tokyo

The 20,000 Japs on Iwo Jima knew it was coming. For 72 straight days they quaked under the ferocious shelling of the great American Navy task force offshore. For 72 straight days they had somehow survived the repeated bombings of wide-winged U. S. planes. They knew it was coming — and prepared for it, with row upon row of pillboxes and machine gun nests, dotting the length and breadth of Iwo's 8 square miles of sultry volcanic ash.

It came. Dawn broke clear on the morning of February 19, 1945, as more than 800 landing craft led Admiral Richard Turner's fleet and headed for the forbidding shores. The Japs waited, silent in their caves, while 40,000 leathernecks of the 4th and 5th Marine Divisions drew up on the beaches. Then they opened up savagely, mowing down wave after wave of courageous Americans swarming upward from the boats. And still the Marines came on, reinforced by the 3rd Division.

Motoyama Air Field No. 1 was the immediate objective. To this strip the Marines, with their tanks and flame throwers, rapidly advanced, knocking out pillboxes on the way, riding hard over the charred bodies of dead Japs, and even dead comrades. Motoyama was taken, and made ready for our planes.

Greater struggles were ahead. Marine forces in the Mt. Suribachi area to the south were being whittled down constantly by Japs nested deep in the lava-made gullies of the extinct 500 foot volcano. Steadily the leathernecks inched up its hardened sides, under the most adverse fighting conditions. They slept, when they could, in foxholes fouled by volcanic vapors and the stench of dead Japs. They cooked their meals, when there was time, in tins held over steaming ground fissures. The going was tough, even for leathernecks, but after days of fighting and hardship, Suribachi, too, was theirs. And the dramatic radiophoto of Marines raising Old Glory on its craggy, lunar peak will live forever in our history as a high point in valor.

The remainder of the Iwo campaign was devoted to "mopping up" — taking the second air strip, wiping clean the last pockets of resistance. On March 17, 1945, the battle was officially over, with our dead numbering over the 4,000 mark, as compared to more than five times that many Japs.

This is how it was, on Iwo Jima. Tragic, brutal, unbelievably heroic is the story, an immortal tribute to the fighting, dying Marines who, with their life's blood, made secure this great little stepping stone to Tokyo—just 765 miles away.

La Grande's Better Store

THE SEVEN GREAT BATTLES highlighted here — and the many other, big and little that aren't mentioned — have brought us step by step closer to victory. The success of the SIX WAR LOAN DRIVES already completed has contributed immeasurably, too.

BUT TOTAL VICTORY is still not won. There are still many battles ahead — unfought — unpaid for. You can help win them by buying WAR BONDS — MORE BONDS — in the 7th WAR LOAN.
