A Grande Couple Wed in Walla Walla

Mrs. Alta G. Sparr and W. R. Hroy, both of La Grande, were married June 5, in a ceremony performed by a city judge in Walla Walla, Wash. They will make their home in La Grande where he is employed by the Union Pacific.

Morris-Ehrenburg Nuptial Rites Are Held in Church

Miss Della Geneva Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Morris of La Grande, became the bride of John Joseph Ehrenburg of Buffalo, N. Y., at a ceremony Saturday in Our Lady of the Valley Catholic church.

Father M. J. McMahon read the service and the couple exchanged vows before an altar decorated with white poinsettias.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white lace dress, white veiled hat, and other matching accessories, and had a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Wren Case, matron of honor, wore a dress of aqua colored net with gold accessories and a corsage of red and white gladioli. Wren Case, brother-in-law of the bride, was the groomsmen.

The bride's mother chose for the wedding a navy blue frock with white accessories and had a corsage of pink and white gladioli.

A reception followed in the Morris home for 25 relatives and intimate friends. The table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake and vases of red and white roses. The first slice of the cake was cut by the bride and groom and the remainder was served by Mrs. Frank Elmer. Mrs. Charles Beddingfield poured. Mrs. Ehrenburg attended La Grande high school and is known in La Grande and Pendleton, having been employed at the Pendleton air base for the past three years.

They left by automobile for Buffalo, where they will make their home and where Ehrenburg is employed by Bell aircraft.

Perfume Worn Like A Housefrock Loses Tantalizing Effect

LYNNE BAGGETT: Tantalizing.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Hold out your elegant perfume to use as a prelude to big moments, if you want it to fill its highest office—to create a new mood when you want to swing from day's grind to evening's glamor.

But shall you stop giving noses a tantalizing treat the remainder of the time?

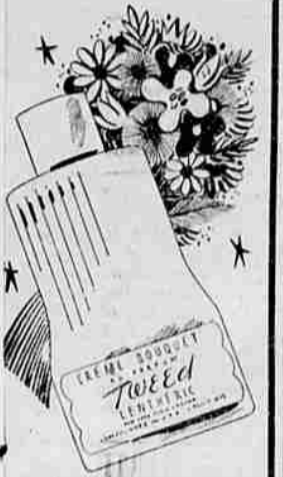

The screen's glamorous Lynne ("Mildred Pierce") Baggett, who thinks perfume loses some of its enchantment if it's worn like you wear a housefrock or a play suit, says "No." Use a perfume satellite, she suggests, such as sachet, toilet water or a minor essence as the other-occasion fragrance. It will make you feel bath-fresh and envelop you in a lovely aura.

Having saved your fine perfume to strike an important note when it's needed, says Lynne, it will do its job grandly, like a wonderful gown or a fabulous fur.

P. S. To give you the effects you want from perfume, remember—a little—which tantalizes—is more efficacious than a lot, which can make people head for the nearest exit before swooning.

The first playlet was entitled "Wild Nell of the Prairie" and the characters were portrayed by Mrs. Ed Hofmann, Mrs. Walter Swart, Mrs. Ed McManus, Mrs. Huff, Mrs. Roscoe Conklin, Mrs. Fred Grieves, Mrs. Guy Wetzel, Mrs. Carl Melsker, Mrs. Art Giltzow, Mrs. Violet Shirley and Mrs. Dolphe Clement. Musician for the play was Mrs. Wallace Cass. Directors were Mrs. C. W. Carroll and Mrs. Bessie Williams.

"The Colored Washer Woman" was enacted by Mrs. Arthur Huff and Mrs. Art Johnson. "Little Johnny at the Picture Show" was played by Mrs. Ray Swan and Mrs. Lester Courtney. Playing in the skit "School Days" were Mrs. Lyman Huff, Mrs. Carl Becker, Mrs. Lucille Berry, Mrs. Ernest Talbot, Mrs. Louella Weatherspoon, Mrs. Courtney, Mrs. Swan and Mrs. Edna O'Neil.

THE CROSSING OF THE RHINE

Bridgeway to Berlin

By the fall of 1944, the death rattle of Nazi-Super-Europe had begun to sound. Victorious Allied armies had marched through Normandy, Southern France, Paris and Luxembourg. By December the waters of the Rhine had begun to tremble as we inched our way closer to this water barrier to Berlin.

Then, on December 16th, the tide of battle turned, and our Allied armies faced a bitter, murderous setback in the wintry Ardennes plain. The Battle of the Bulge pressed us back into Belgium. But with our men dedicated to the great task of pushing ahead toward Berlin, we met our enemy, fought our enemy, defeated our enemy. Four weeks later Allied armies were again surging forward toward the Rhine.

Then, from Headquarters came the order—"Keep going . . . If you reach a river, try to establish a crossing and hold it!" To Brigadier General William M. Hoge and his men, these were words to remember forever. For on March 7th, 1945 they reached the German town of Remagen and sighted through the trees the Ludendorff bridgehead. Just a squat little tower in itself . . . nothing to write home about. But underneath the bridge flowed the water artery that would lead us to the heart of Nazi Germany. Underneath the bridge were the glittering, beckoning waters of the Rhine. Control this river . . . cross it . . . and the Nazi death rattle in Europe could be changed to the Nazi death knell.

There was only one direction for Hoge and his men. And that was forward, across the bridge at any cost. They ran toward it, seized the Germans, and by some miracle, captured the bridge intact! By some trick of fate (free men call it justice) the Americans burst into Remagen ten minutes before the German deadline for blowing up the bridge!

Now the "Watch on the Rhine" was over. Over that one bridgeway poured thousands upon thousands of our trucks. The pace of events became double-timed. Two weeks later the full tide of crossing was unleashed at Mannheim in the south and Bishel in the north. The Rhine became a river-road for the American 9th, 1st and 3rd armies.

Thus the current of history was changed. With the waters of the Rhine crossed, the hellish heart of Nazism had little time to beat. With no water barrier in our way, nothing could stem the force of our attack. We went on our way to Berlin and unconditional surrender of Nazi Germany.

THE SEVEN GREAT BATTLES highlighted here — and the many other, big and little that aren't mentioned — have brought us step by step closer to victory. The success of the SIX WAR LOAN DRIVES already completed has contributed immeasurably, too.

BUT TOTAL VICTORY is still not ours. There are still many battles ahead — unfought — unpaid for. You can help win them by buying WAR BONDS — MORE BONDS — in the 7th WAR LOAN.
