

Medford Records State's Hottest Weather at 101

PORTLAND, June 28 (UP) — The highest temperature for Oregon for the week ending June 26 was reported at 101 in Medford. Lowest maximum temperature of 73 was recorded at North Bend, and the lowest minimum temperature of 31 was at Madras, the U. S. weather bureau reported today.

Throughout the state, the week was notable for warm days and cool nights. A few local showers and thunderstorms occurred, but rainfall was generally too light to wet the soil.

Hot, dry weather has been unfavorable for spring rain locally, but the warmth has been good for corn. Some winter rye and barley are ready for harvest.

Wind damaged fruit trees in some areas, but most late fruits are developing well.

The weather has been generally favorable for haying and cutting of the first alfalfa crop is practically complete in many places.
