Liquor Board Will "Salvage Empties"
PORTLAND, July 18 (UP) - Chairman Paul Crooks, newly installed liquor control commission head today listed reasons why partially-used bottles of liquor left in night-spots should be salvaged by the commission. Crooks said it is the practice, under the service license law, for the cash customer to turn his bottle over to the bartender. If it is not emptied or taken away by the customer when he leaves, it will be kept subject to his return for another drink. However, most places have a rule that the management "will not be responsible" for half-empty bottles left over 30 days. A quantity accumulates in some places, Crooks said.

'Air-trail Inns' May Replace Roadside Taverns Before Long

Plane-Owners Drop In for Lunch Away From City's Clamor

By JAMES K. CHANDLER (NEA Correspondent)
CLEVELAND, July 17 - You might as well know now that your pre-war custom of driving to a roadside inn for dinner is definitely out-dated.

After the war, thousands of air-minded Americans will fly to "air-trail inns" especially designed for their convenience. Here is a preview of the new type of country inn, where you can get well-cooked meals away from the clangs, rattles and beeps of city traffic.

One of these inns already is in operation, serving private flyers who put their planes down upon a new landing strip that Park and Iva Ernsberger built upon their 120-acre farm, five miles south of Norwalk, O.

"Let's go to a quiet, cool place for lunch," C. W. Grove, president of a Cleveland savings and loan association, suggested when I met him on the street.

"There isn't any such place," I countered. I know better, now.

We left Cleveland airport in Mr. Grove's dual-control Rearwin "Cloudster" at 11:50 a. m. and we rolled smoothly down the north strip of the Ernsbergers' T-shaped landing field at 12:15 p. m.

The ride was cool and refreshing. The Ernsbergers' place was cool and quiet. We ate a home-cooked lunch on the farmhouse's wide, screened porch and talked flying to Mr. Ernsberger, a licensed pilot. Other patrons taxied up to the house as we ate.

"We just opened up June 15," Mr. Ernsberger said, "and we served 115 meals the first two weeks. A week ago last Sunday we had 11 planes in here at one time."

"They fly in from Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus and Sandusky. I expect they will come from other places after we have had a chance to advertise a little."

Mr. Grove and I lollied on the porch for a while after lunch (we were lucky enough to get steak), then went back to his plane.

Unfortunately, we were back in town in time to do a full afternoon's work midst the clangs, rattles and beeps of the city.

Jap Soldiers Jump Over Cliff When British Attack

CALCUTTA, July 18 (UP) - Twenty-six Japanese soldiers were killed outright, and many others died of their injuries, when entire units leaped over a cliff rather than be captured by British troops attacking their position, the southeast Asia command's communique announced today.

The attack occurred 44 miles east of Yamethin, which is 115 miles south of Mandalay, on the main Mandalay-Rangoon road and railway.

Japanese units attempted to ambush British troops 17 miles east of Toungoo, but met no success.

Other British units to the north drew fire from Japanese 75 millimeter guns located west of Tuanggyi, 110 miles southwest of Mandalay.

Number of Strikers Drops to 20,000

By United Press
The number of striking workers throughout the country dropped to approximately 20,000 today.

Ten thousand Illinois coal miners who struck last week in protest against the meat shortage began trickling back to the pits, after the OPA promised them 50 extra red ration points a month.

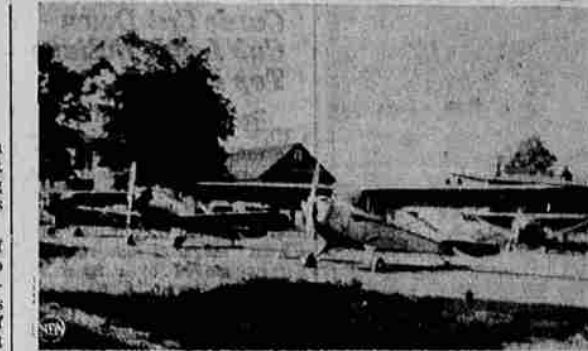

A six-week strike ended at R. R. Donnelly & Sons Lakeside press, Chicago.

Nearly 4,000 AFL shipyard workers voted to return to work on 21 ships being repaired at the General Engineering Co., Alameda, Calif. The war labor board ordered the men back to work yesterday in an effort to end the stoppage that began Friday as the result of a jurisdictional dispute.

Big Three Again Meet in Formal Conferences

POTSDAM, July 18 (UP) - The Big Three met in their second formal session this afternoon for what was believed to be further exploration of broad conference problems, among which President Truman was understood to have nominated the war in the Pacific for No. 1 priority.

Truman, Generalissimo Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill gathered at the conference table to carry on in the spirit of cooperation and cordiality with which the meeting began yesterday.

Chinks in the ironclad censorship permitted only skimpy glimpses of the conference. At mid-evening officials declined even to admit the actual fact the American, Russian and British leaders again had sat down face to face.

Before the second formal session, Truman talked and lunched two hours with Churchill at the prime minister's villa alongside a tiny Potsdam lake.

At the same time U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes went to Anthony Eden's neighboring villa for lunch with the British foreign secretary.

Truman was accompanied by his secretary, Charles Ross, and his military aides, Brig. Gen. Harry Vaughan and Capt. James Vardaman, Jr. They walked the short distance from the Little White House to Churchill's villa, where they were met by the prime minister and his daughter, Mary.

Nephew of Truman Visits Uncle at Potsdam Palace

POTSDAM, July 18 (UP) - Sgt. Harry A. Truman, 21-year-old nephew of the president, was taken off a homeward bound transport at the last minute yesterday and flown to Potsdam to spend the next week or 10 days in the big three compound as his uncle's guest.

The sergeant, who arrived in Europe in September, 1944, almost missed his chance to attend the historic meeting.

When Truman docked at Antwerp Sunday he told Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee, commander of service forces in the communications zone, he had a nephew somewhere in Europe and he would like to see him.

Lee found Sergeant Harry aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth to sail for home. On Lee's orders, the youth left the ship and was flown immediately to Potsdam.

Cannery Situation Improves Slightly

PORTLAND, July 18 (UP) - The situation at Libby, McNeill and Libby cannery in Portland, where workers have been on strike since last Friday, has "improved slightly," K. C. Hardwick, northwestern district superintendent said today.

Hardwick said a force of more than 200 workers, mostly new, is on hand today.

A statement of the cause of the strike, which was the dismissal of Kenneth Smith, former president of the cannery workers' local No. 20707, has been issued by the strikers.

A cat, on Stephen island, near New Zealand, is credited with both discovering and destroying a species of wren. All specimens of the bird ever seen by man were brought in by the cat, and every living wren on the island is thought to have become its victim.
