Senate Assured Of Votes About Military Deals

WASHINGTON, July 28 (UP)—The senate, driving to a vote within a few hours on the United Nations charter, received presidential assurances today military agreements with the new world organization must be approved by congress.

A special message from President Truman, aimed at one of the few controversial points of the week-long debate, was laid before the senate by president pro tempore Kenneth D. McFarland, D. Tenn.

The charter provides in articles 43 that member nations shall make armed contingents available to the security council for use in suppressing future aggression. It provides that member nations shall negotiate special agreements with the security council on the amount and terms under which such forces shall be available.

GUADALCANAL REUNION PORTLAND, July 28 (UP)—A reunion for all members of the famed first marine division, which participated in the Guadalcanal landing of Aug. 7, 1942, will be held in Portland, Aug. 7, 1945. The historic occasion will be commemorated by a reunion dinner and other activities.

B-25 Explodes, Fire Traps Many 1,000 Feet High

The army said the bomber left Bedford, Mass., on "contact flying regulation." A control tower operator at the field said the ceiling was 1,100 feet over Manhattan at 9:50 a. m., the time of the crash. The Empire State building is 1,250 feet tall and on foggy days its peak usually is obscured.

Reporter Dies

The main foyer on the 34th street (uptown) side of the building was converted into an emergency station and was crowded with internees. One of the first dead to be identified was Paul Deering, 40, reporter for the Buffalo Courier-Express. Deering's body was recovered from a window ledge on the 72nd floor, and police believed he died trying to escape from an upper floor.

Roofs of several nearby buildings were set afire by the spray of blazing gasoline.

Stanley Lomax, sports announcer, who was driving past the scene at the time of the blast, said: "I heard the plane's engines. I looked up and then I knew it would crash. . . . Its course was straight down Fifth avenue and the pilot must have known when I saw the plane it would hit the building. He pulled up a little, but not enough."

Lomax said the plane struck at a point where there is a recess in the building, just below the observation tower.

"The left wing catapulted up into the fog, and then over toward Madison avenue, one block west," Lomax said.

What 'Shambles' Means Shown In Empire State

By JOAN YOUNGER SEVENTY-NINTH FLOOR, EMPIRE STATE BUILDING, NEW YORK, July 28 (UP)—This place is a shambles.

I've heard that phrase used many times before but never until now did I realize its meaning. The police have set up an emergency sub-station in the office of the war relief service of the national Catholic welfare council here, as a collection point for the dead.

Parts of Bodies

Parts of 11 charred bodies lie on a desk. There are the heads of two girls, mangled torsos and limbs still not mated. The hair on one girl's head was not even singed. One torso has an arm sticking up, the elbow bent.

As I stood in the doorway, momentarily aghast at the scene, a man approached carrying a brown paper bag.

"Where are you putting the bodies, lady?" he asked, I pointed toward the desk. He had picked up part of a body from the seventh floor parapet.

There normally were 40 persons working on the 78th floor, 25 of them in the Catholic welfare office. Only part of the staff was at work this Saturday morning and in the confusion, none could remember who had reported to work and who had not.

Sees Body

The Catholic office files, standing in the center of the room, had almost escaped damage. Near the files stood a coat rack, also undamaged. Four women's coats, a man's jacket, two women's hats and a woman's pocket book, dripping wet, hung from the rack. A pocket book and a comb lay on the floor.

From the gaping window, I can see a body lying on a parapet on the 65th floor. On the north side, where the plane struck, steel girders hang out like spaghetti over a gaping, 15-foot hole. On the south side a smaller hole showed where one engine of the plane shot through and out the building.

150 Square Miles Of Jap Cities Razed by B-29s

By EDWARD L. THOMAS GUAM, July 28 (UP)—Japanese cities of Fukui, Tsuruga and Kuwana suffered damage amounting from 65 to 85 percent of their total area as the result of Superfortress raids in recent weeks, reconnaissance photographs disclosed today.

The total raised to 150 the number of square miles damaged in 46 Japanese cities. The total urban and industrial damage is more than 41 percent of the total built-up area in those cities. Their population is estimated at more than 18,000,000 or approximately 25 percent of the home island.

Photographs revealed Fukui was 84.8 percent destroyed, Kuwana was 84 percent destroyed and Tsuruga suffered 66 percent damage.

Damage was "scattered quite widely" through the sprawling installations at the Ube coal and locomotive company plant on the southwest tip of Honshu, it was announced. That plant is one of Japan's leading producers of Synthetic oil. It was hit with moderate results in a Superfortress pinpoint attack July 22 and 23.

Tsuruga was hit in a pre-dawn incendiary attack July 13 by 29 to 100 Superfortresses. Heavy damage was caused to harbor facilities, including complete destruction of an electric substation.

Kuwana was attacked in two pre-dawn incendiary attacks July 17 and in daytime demolition attacks July 20 to July 24. Fukui was destroyed July 20 in an incendiary pre-dawn strike. Only one Jap city has been blasted more than Fukui. It is Numazu which has been 89.5 percent gutted by Superfortresses.

Sen. Morse Would Recognize Korea

WASHINGTON, July 28 (UP)—Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon, today demanded United States recognition of the Korean provisional government.

"If we abandon Korea she can scarcely fail to drop like a ripe plum into Russia's lap," he told the senate.

Morse said recognition of the provisional government should be followed by an offer to supervise elections in which Koreans "could select a government themselves."

"And then we should stand behind them and beside them with a real pledge of support."

Agencies Will Aid In Traffic Program

SALEM, July 28 (UP)—Three state agencies and the national safety council will cooperate in giving assistance to Oregon cities outside Portland in developing modern programs of traffic management and accident prevention, Secretary of State Robert S. Farrel, jr., said today.

This is the first time such aid has been offered cities of less than 30,000 population, according to Harry Porter, jr., traffic engineer with the national council. Porter is here to confer with state agencies in connection with the program.

PENCILS TO BOMB PARTS

Bomb parts and precision items for aircraft are being made by one of the largest manufacturers of mechanical pencils in the United States.

Seat is pillow, floor is "bed" for sailor in background.

Three on a seat isn't too bad.

A newspaper shades her tired eyes.

A modern Madonna and her child.

SO YOU'RE THINKING OF TAKING A TRAIN TRIP, EH?—Instead of counting sheep, to induce sleep, folk who insist on taking night train trips these Pullmanless days might try repeating Hamlet's soliloquy. Remember? . . . to sleep, perchance to dream—'tis a consummation devoutly to be wished.' The photos above will give you an idea of what train travel is like, just in case you are planning to make your usual annual visit to Aunt Susie, this year.

Fire Out of Control In Tillamook Area

The watersheds of Forest Grove and Hillsboro were endangered in Clear creek and Seine creeks. Sprinklers were put over the big wooden pipes and a crew of soldiers battled the new flames, which encroached during the night. The fire was within 10 miles of Forest Grove, a town of 2750 population. All water use except for drinking was stopped.

Residents on Portland's west side hills and east of Beaverton could see flames flickering in the distance about 30 airline miles away.
