

ENLIST IN THE WAVES SERVE IN THE HOSPITAL CORPS

Ten thousand women between the ages of 20 and 36 are needed at once to reinforce the 13,000 Hospital Corps Waves now serving so valiantly by nursing sick and wounded fighting men back to health.

Frankly, this call for additional women is not addressed to ordinary women—rather to those who seek an opportunity to serve their Country, to participate in the greatest adventure of the day, the winning of the war.

As a Hospital Corps Wave, you will put on a Navy blue uniform that at once makes you an important part of this country's greatest Navy. Wherever you go you will be respected. Everyone who sees you will know that you volunteered to serve, to share the task.

On the more practical side, you will receive two months' indoctrination in New York City, with adequate time to permit seeing the many sights. Then, another two months of training at the Navy's great hospital at Bethesda, Maryland, outside Washington, and many sights to see in the nation's capital, too.

Finally, a week's leave and assignment to one of the Navy's many hospitals throughout the country. By this time, you talk, eat and think Navy and you like it. You are doing the job you're trained to do. You are learning all the time and have the opportunity for further specialization.
