Masons Here Have Largest Picnic In Many Years

The tenth annual Masonic picnic was held at Riverside park Sunday afternoon, with one of the largest gatherings ever to attend locally. Masons and members of the Eastern Star and their families were invited.

Family and group pot-luck dinners occupied the time following arrival, after which the picnickers gathered around the piano beneath the trees for the program.

August Stange, deputy grand master, made the preliminary announcements and introduced Dr. Roben J. Maaske as master of ceremonies. Carrie Jackson, Baker, past grand matron of the Eastern Star, and George T. Cochran, past grand patron of the Eastern Star and past grand master of Oregon Masons, were introduced. Other responses were made by Alex McKenzie of the Elgin lodge and Mrs. Lowell Stockman of Pendleton and Washington, D. C., and Richard Dixon of La Grande.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Congressman Lowell Stockman of Pendleton, who reviewed his observations upon a recent European trip in company with a congressional delegation. Stockman talked briefly on what he termed the three sixty-four dollar questions of the moment, namely: When will the war end? 2—President Truman; 3—The OPA.

Stockman asserted that anyone's guess is as good as his own on the first question and there are circumstances justifying almost any speculation. He spoke highly of President Truman and stated that those close to national affairs manifest increasing confidence in the president as they become better acquainted with him. Of the OPA it was stated that only praise could be accorded the paid and volunteer personnel on the home front in their respective communities. He reflected that it required genius to emerge from the multiplicity of directives and regulations emerging from the Washington offices of the OPA, and to interpret these orders in terms of daily living in any community.

The annual picnic is regarded as preliminary for the ensuing year of activity and will be followed by announcement of a resumption of regular activity in September. York rite Masons of this locality and Scottish rite Masons active at Baker, were apprised of the plans now contemplated for both rites.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. For her wedding ensemble she wore an afternoon dress of pastel pink with matching hat and gloves and carried an old-fashioned nosegay bouquet of rosebuds, sweetpeas and daisies with ribbon streamers.

Miss Ula Metsopoulos, La Grande, was maid of honor, attired in a two-piece afternoon dress of powder blue with white accessories and a corsage of roses. John Sager of Pondosa was best man for the groom.

Mrs. F. M. McGee, was soloist, singing "I Love You Truly," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Paul Walker, who also played Mendelssohn's wedding march and the recessional.

The church was decorated by Mrs. John Green and Mrs. Merlin Langford of Union and Mrs. Harry Johansen of La Grande.

The groom's father was host at a wedding supper served at his home in Union, with Mrs. Roy Hall, Mrs. Otto Taylor, Mrs. Whit Langford and Mrs. Merlin Langford as hostesses.

The first piece of the four-tiered wedding cake, which had been baked by Mrs. Whit Langford, was cut by the bride and groom, with Mrs. Langford cutting the remainder.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Garrison and daughter, Karen, and Mrs. Walter Dunker of Portland, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Smith and daughter, Donna Rae and Carol of Pondosa.

The young couple are spending a few days at Walolwa lake before returning to La Grande where the groom is employed by the state highway department.
