THE PLAN OF WORLD CONQUEST

VI

THE Japanese plans for conquering the world are by no means of recent origin. They go back to the "divinely sponsored" exploits of the legendary Empress Jingo, who is credited with the first attempt to conquer Korea, the only world outside the Japanese islands known to Japanese mythology. And they were carried forward in the 16th century by Taikun Hideyoshi, who did invade Korea and planned to roll up China "like a map." But the really serious plans and preparations for it began when, prompted by Commodore Perry's "black ships," Japan emerged from her century-long seclusion and opened her gates to the outside world. The plans were formulated by Lord Hotta, premier to the last Taikun, in a memorial to the Emperor Meiji, then a boy. In this memorial, Hotta laid down the fundamental principles which have guided Japanese policy ever since, namely:

Pearl Harbor—Dec. 7, 1941
"In the future, if we want to control China, we must first crush the United States."—Baron Tanaka, 1927.

morial to the throne submitted in 1927. When first published in 1931, this memorial was denounced by the Japanese as a forgery. Today, there is no reason to doubt its authenticity.

"FOR the sake of self-protection as well as protection of others, Japan cannot remove the difficulties in Eastern Asia unless she adopts a policy of 'blood and iron.' But in carrying out this policy we have to face the United States, which has been turned against us by China's policy of fighting poison with poison. In the future, if we want to control China, we must first crush the United States just as in the past we had to fight in the Russo-Japanese War. But in order to conquer China, we must first conquer Manchuria and Mongolia. In order to conquer the world, we must first conquer China. If we succeed in conquering China the rest of the Asiatic countries and the South Sea countries will fear us and surrender to us. Then the world will realize that Eastern Asia is ours and will not dare to violate our rights.

This is the plan left to us by Emperor Meiji, the success of which is essential to our national existence. The way to gain actual rights in Manchuria and Mongolia is to use this region as a base and under the pretense of trade and commerce penetrate the rest of China. Armed by the rights already secured we shall seize the resources all over the country. Having China's entire resources at our disposal we shall proceed to conquer India, the Archipelago, Asia Minor, Central Asia, and even Europe."—From The Tanaka Memorial, submitted to Emperor Hirohito by Premier Baron Giichi Tanaka, July 25, 1927.

Tomorrow the World

"In the Sino-Japanese and Russo-Japanese Wars we frustrated the treacherous schemes of England, checked the power of Russia, and struck a gigantic blow for the rebuilding of East Asia. Then in the Manchurian and China incidents, Japan's battles for a new Asia continued, and the movement expanded to all Asia. But this movement must progress to the concentrated union of all Asia with Japan as leader, and we must realize that for this Asia must return to her true self. But, based on the spirit of Haikoku Ichiu which is the foundation of our country, this must not be restricted to Asia but spread over the whole world. Therefore the future history of Asia, and of the world, must be the history of Japan and nothing more."—Establishment of a Japanese Era, by Hikaru Hakamura, Tokyo, 1939.

"We should not look furtively to the right or to the left, but go South without hesitation. To go South is the solution of all our problems—in respect to the United States, the Soviet Union, China, Europe and the domestic situation; we can kill five birds with one stone."—Admiral Gumppei Sekine, in magazine Total Riku, 1941.

"The Greater East Asia Co-prosperity Sphere will not be isolated from other parts of the world but, on the contrary, will be the center of the new World Order."—Finance Minister Okinobu Kaya, Jan. 27, 1942.
