Load of Russian Furs at Portland

PORTLAND, Aug. 23 (UP)—First cargo to be unloaded in this port from the soviet union since the Japanese surrender was unloaded today from the Russian ship Manich.

A small but expensive part of the cargo was ermine and blue fox furs. The furs were in two small cases and four bales and consisted of 4,480 ermine skins and 475 blue fox. Bales of goat hair made up the remainder of the 18-ton cargo.

Fur shipments from Siberia have arrived in Portland at infrequent intervals and sent immediately by rail to New York. None were under lend-lease.

The dead man, described as an elderly crippled tenant, couldn't be identified until the hotel register is checked, Fire Chief C. J. Eisenbacher said. He added a wall of flame apparently trapped the man in his room when he stopped to pull on his shoes before fleeing.

Fireman Jack Harkins and H. S. Coffey, a tenant, were cut by broken window glass.

Son Identifies Injured Father

PORTLAND, Aug. 23 (UP)—When Jack Schmidt, a motorcycle deliveryman, cut in front of a car on a Portland bridge Wednesday, he was hit by the auto and tossed into the air, suffering rather serious injuries.

Before Schmidt was taken to a hospital, police tried to ascertain his identity, but were unable to because of shock.

A driver on the bridge, stopped by the confusion, finally identified the bleeding cyclist. "Sure I know him," exclaimed the witness. "He's my father."

Young Carl Schmidt "just happened" to be driving along at the time of his father's accident.
