Central School To Have Musical Small Groups

Larry Brunette, music instructor at Central school, will have again this year, his musical groups, the Modernettes, Rancheros and La Grandoliers.

The groups have already started practice, and the groups will function the same as last year.

Replacements have been made for those who graduated from the group this spring. All new costumes are being designed for the three groups, who enjoyed success and popularity last year.

They will again this year present their own concerts, appear at clubs and other public functions and participate in national music week.

Brunette is a talented soloist and instructor and studied this summer in California and appeared in concert in Portland before returning to this city.
