New York Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks snapped back with a vengeance today.
 The market's resurgence came on the heels of a sharp sell-off Monday which was attributed to technical reasons.

Individual gains in the list ran past 4 points in some of the leaders and gave the whole market a bright look.

Lukens Steel paced its group with a gain topping past 4 points. Other issues in the steel group generally added fractions. Maytag also added ground 4 at its best on a good earnings report. DuPont was up almost 4 in the chemicals.
 Motors met good support. American Motors, Ford, and General Motors all added a point or better. Nonferrous metals, enjoying a stronger price structure, had a number of issues up a point or more, including Alcoa, Anaconda, and Magma Copper.

The market's show of strength buoyed spirits in Wall Street and followed the predictions of the experts. They felt that the recent decline was only of a technical nature and that the market would rebound.

Rails scored gains ranging past a point in some of the leaders. Chemicals boasted a number of stocks up a point or more. Electronics and appliance issues got a whirl, with Zenith up more than 2 points at its high.

U.S. Chamber Of Commerce Calls For Spending Reduction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U. S. Chamber of Commerce has called for a cut in federal spending but the AFL-CIO said the nation's needs must be put ahead of costs on budget balancing.

The conflicting views on the nation's fiscal program were contained in statements prepared for a hearing by the Joint Congressional Economic Committee.

Walter Fackler, assistant economic research director for the chamber, said the government spending was the greatest single cause of inflation.

He said possible inflationary effects of business or labor were insignificant when compared with the "inflation generated by government spending, taxing and debt policies" and subsidy programs.

Fackler also urged a major overhauling of the federal tax structure. He said the present tax system "penalizes success, discourages initiative and restricts investment."

AFL-CIO Vice President Walter P. Reuther, on the other hand, proposed a heavy federal spending program to assure full employment and economic growth.

"A decisive change in attitude and direction is needed in regards to federal expenditures and programs," he said. "The major test as to whether or not they are worthwhile should not be cost or budget balancing, but their need."

Reuther, chairman of the AFL-CIO Economic Policy Committee, called for wage and price increases, a boost in the minimum wage, federal aid to depressed areas, higher unemployment compensation benefits, stepped up defense expenditures where necessary, foreign aid, aid to education, a big housing program and other spending.

The labor leader urged Congress to close loopholes in the tax structure "to raise as much as an additional nine billion dollars in revenue" for the government.

Poorly Nourished Mothers Less Likely To Have Fraternal Twins

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Science can now show that poorly nourished women have less chance of becoming mothers of fraternal twins than well-nourished women. But it can't yet detail a mother-to-be diet which would increase a woman's chances of being doubly blessed.

Tax Group Says Plan Boosts Taxes

SALEM (UPI)—The State Tax Commission has estimated that the average Oregon citizen would pay slightly higher taxes under the plan revealed by Gov. Mark Hatfield than he would have under the budget proposed by ex-Gov. Robert D. Holmes.

Compared to present taxes, some Oregonians will pay more and some less under the Hatfield program.

A married man with two dependents and a $6,000 income now pays $91. He would have paid $96 under the Holmes plan and $112 under Hatfield's.

A single man earning $6,000 who now pays $217 would pay $162 under the Hatfield plan, and $138 under Holmes' plan.
 A single man with a $3,000 income now pays $72. Under the Holmes budget he would pay $48 and under Hatfield's recommendations, $55.

World's Best Bridge Players In Contest

By JACK V. FOX

NEW YORK (UPI)—The world's best bridge players are at their favorite sport this week so we went over to the Statler Hilton to check these rumors that sometimes they cheat.

Last year there was a ruckus in Rome when Italy beat America for the world championship.

A couple of losers noised it around that the winners used a sly trick—they held their fine Italian hands up high in the air for good cards and down low when they got a stinker.

Well, we can report that if there is skulduggery it's a lot more subtle than a kick under the table. The games are played in a glass "fishbowl" before 500 spectators. We personally saw the Italians keep their hands low all afternoon and still draw good cards.

Sunday's match pitted Harry

Fishbein, owner of a New York bridge club, and Lee Hazen, a lawyer, against Walter Avarelli, an Italian magistrate, and Giorgio Belladonna, young Roman public utilities worker with a charming smile.

We watched their mannerisms with unwavering intensity. Here are what our notes show:

"Fishbein startles spectators by drawing plaid-tam-o-shanter on head. Italians do not protest."

"Playing in glassed box, 10 by 10 feet, soundproof. Equipped with table, chairs, four ashtrays, jug ice water, glasses, box Kleenex, microphone. Referee and commentator also in booth. Draped with American, Italian, Argentine flags."

(Argentina is also in the tournament representing South America against champions of North America and Europe.)

"Players never say 'pass.' Say

"no bid." Italians speak English. Must wait three to five seconds before making any bid lest hasty "no bid" indicate very weak hand."
 "Afternoon round of play ends. Americans win. Tournament goes on all week. No cheating observed."
