ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann: Can you help two oldsters? My husband and I have discussed this problem dozens of times but we are no closer to a solution.

We raised six children and helped to put them all through college. Our three daughters married well. The two older sons are attorneys, and the youngest an engineer. My husband never made more than $4,800 a year in his life. All the boys make at least three times that amount.

We own a small home and just let by. My husband draws a railroad pension and we have no savings, just a few war bonds set aside for emergency. This is the problem:

Almost every night we have from 4 to 9 grandchildren at our dinner table. We love them dearly, Ann, but we can't afford to feed them. They can drink 4 quarts of milk with a meal.

Their parents take turns dropping them off when they go to parties, club meetings and so on. They say we are more reliable than sitters and we are "handy." What do you suggest?—Silver Threads.

Dear Threads: Since you have such a chummy relationship with your children that they feel comfortable dumping their kids on you for dinner several times a week, you ought to get REAL confidential with THEM. Suggest in the future when they drop off their youngsters that they should bring along some groceries. Your sons and daughters are thoughtless and they need only to be told.

Dear Ann: I'm 18 and going with an attractive boy 19. We've dated for two years. We're not engaged but we have an understanding. Something happened and I need help.

I work two evenings a week in a neighborhood gift shop. I usually call him when I'm through and he drives me home. This one night I worked until almost midnight and decided it was too late to phone his home so I asked the delivery boy to drive me.

When I got to the porch my boy friend was waiting — mad as a hornet. He said terrible things and accused me of flirting with the delivery boy. Then he slapped my face.

I went into the house and left him on the porch. He knocked for 10 minutes but I wouldn't answer. He has already called my sister and asked her to "fix things up." I really love him. Ann, but after seeing this side of his character I don't know if I should go with him again.

My parents hope I will find someone else. Please tell me what to do.—Miserable.

Dear Miserable: If you think you're miserable NOW—go ahead and marry a fellow who slaps your face during courtship. I'm with your folks. Find someone else.

Tiss' Visit Parents

Dr. and Mrs. George Tiss and son, Randy were visiting with Dr. Tiss' parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Tiss Sr.

Dr. Tiss is a pediatrician in the Visalia Medical Clinic at Visalia, Calif. He has just returned from Boston, Mass., where he attended a pediatric course at Harvard Medical school for two weeks. He also flew to Chicago where he visited with Everett Hills, and to New York for a visit with Roger Grummel a classmate.
