

118 Injured,
16 Dead In Plane Crash

NAHA, Okinawa (UPI)—Local authorities announced today an official casualty list of 16 dead and 118 injured in the crash of a disabled U.S. jet fighter into a crowded housing area.

Okinawa Police Commissioner Eizo Omine said that the injured included 105 school children, five infants and eight adults. Nineteen of the injured were in critical condition.

The U.S. military command here also announced an official death toll of 16, including 10 children, but said that 112 had been injured.

The plane, an F-100 Super Sabre, caught fire while passing over the town of Ishikawa Tuesday. Its pilot, Capt. John O. Schmitt of Chalmers, Ind., headed towards a non-populated area before bailing out. But his pilotless plane veered to the right, careened off the Miyamori primary school and then plowed into a group of houses nearby.

Eyewitnesses said the burning jet speeded flame over a 10-block area. An estimated 50 houses were destroyed and 200 persons left homeless.

Capt. Schmitt was unavailable for comment today. But an Air Force spokesman described him as "stunned and dazed" after learning of the destruction of his crippled plane had caused.

A policeman said the number of children killed might have been even greater but for the alertness of one student in the primary school.

Seeing the flaming plane streaking toward the school, he shouted "air raid!" The others had participated in drills for such an eventuality. They fell on the floor and covered their faces.

Harold D. Kuhn

Womack was born March 9, 1884 in Wallawa, son of John and Martha Womack, and had lived in Wallawa county all of his life. On January 1, 1912 he was married in Idaho to Nellie Pack who died in 1924.

Survivors include a son, Robert, and a daughter, Mrs. Wilma Hawkins, both of Wallawa; another daughter, Mrs. Wanda Kocor, Longview, Wash.; a brother, Osborne Womack, Klamath Falls; two sisters, Mrs. Bertha Mink, Enterprise, and Mrs. Fannie Gillesper, Medford; 11 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Jerry Lewis Film Opens At Granada

Paramount's release of "Don't Give Up the Ship" opens at the Granada Theatre today.

Starring Jerry Lewis, Hal Wallis' latest production has to do with the disappearance of a destroyer escort called the S.S. Kormblatt, missing since World War II. Since Lewis was the last man to sign out for the Kormblatt, he's responsible for producing it. Unfortunately, that responsibility devolves upon him just as he is about to take his honeymoon.

Lewis is assigned assistance in the person of Waco, Dina Merrill, which complicates his explanation to his impatient bride, Dina Spencer.

In this picture the comic plays his role a little straighter, but there is still plenty of his special kind of comedy.

CONGRESS

—He said he had no plans at the moment to go directly to the people about the fiscal situation facing the country at the start of the new fiscal year. His party leaders had urged that he speak publicly in the immediate future in behalf of his budgetary program before Congress.

—The United States at this point should not inject itself directly into threatened new difficulties in Cuba and the Dominican Republic, but should rely on the Organization of American States to deal with the situation.

—He ordered an immediate government study of the legal situation involved in the Supreme Court ruling against the industrial security clearance program.

The President's discussion of what he considers to be the shifting attitude of Congress in favor of budgetary balance was touched off by a reporter who noted that when he first proposed a balanced budget last January, his plan was received with more than a little skepticism.

The reporter also pointed out that it now seems likely that the Treasury would get more revenue in the year beginning today than originally expected and that Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson had said recently the Congress would appropriate less than the administration had requested.

Against this background Eisenhower was asked whether he could now look to a balanced budget in fiscal 1960 and even the possibility of a federal surplus.

He answered the question in several different ways but the total reply seemed to be—yes.

GRENADE KILLS CHILDREN (TARANTO, Italy (UPI)—Four children were killed and four wounded near here Tuesday when a hand grenade exploded in their midst. Officials said the children had come across the grenade — apparently of World War II vintage—while playing in a field. It went off as the youngsters attempted to take it apart.
