Legion Group Places Album In Library

The La Grande American Legion Auxiliary Unit 43 has placed a record album in the La Grande public library. The record album is titled "Ten Holy Days in Song and Story" and consists of 30 enchanting little stories in song and narration about 10 holy days. Each of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish religions, explaining the background and purpose of each of these days. These recordings have the approval of each of the Faiths to which they pertain. They have been approved by a special national committee of the American Legion Auxiliary, headed by the national chaplain, and were endorsed by the auxiliary's national executive committee at its January, 1959 meeting in Washington, D.C. These unusual records are intended to aid in an effort to strengthen the religious side of American life. They may be used in local organizations, church groups, schools, hospitals or any other groups in the community. They are available through the library.

If your draperies are too short for the windows when you move into a new home, you can get the needed length—plus a new, stylish look—by adding a box-pleated flounce of the same material. The July issue of Better Homes & Gardens magazine says to add a box valance at the top, too, for extra height.

Wedding Ceremony Unites Sharon Doles, Rex Pulliam

SUMMERVILLE (Special)—Sharon Doles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Doles, Summerville, became the bride of Rex Pulliam, son of Mrs. Catherine Pulliam and the late Clyde Pulliam of Richland, Wash. The Rev. F. Henahan performed the ceremony in the Christ the King, Catholic Church at Richland, Wash., June 27. Mrs. Karlene Muresco, Lansing, Mich. was soloist; she is a cousin of the groom. Mrs. Mary Clemmens was the organist. Decorations in the church included shasta daisies, blue delphiniums and calla lilies. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a full length white lace gown with long sleeves and a sequin-trimmed neckline. A seed pearl crown held her shoulder length veil. Her flowers were a corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Keith Pulliam was the honor attendant. She wore a pale blue raw silk, street length dress with white accessories. She carried a nosegay of blue and white carnations. Attendants to the bride were Pauline Lively, Mrs. Jerry Sauter and Mrs. Lee Vowels. They wore darker shades of street length dresses, nosegays and accessories same as honor attendants. Their three strand pearls were gifts of the bride. Karen and Carla Pulliam were flower girls, dressed in net over taffeta. They carried baskets of blue and white petals. Keith Pulliam, brother of the groom, acted as the best man. Ushers for the occasion were Malin Doles, Wayne Franssen, Jerry Sauter and Barney Keefe. The bride's mother chose to wear a tan two-piece afternoon dress and a corsage of yellow rosebuds and an orchid. The mother of the groom wore a rose two-piece afternoon dress and a corsage of white rosebuds and an orchid. The reception was held in the church audio-visual room, with same decorations as church. Mrs. John Hutchison, aunt of the bride, served the wedding cake. Mrs. Nellie McDaniel poured coffee and Mrs. Barney Keefe, aunt of the groom, presided at the punch bowl. Patty Lively was in charge of the guest book and the bride's attendants were in charge of gifts. The newlyweds honeymooned to Lake Tahoe. For her traveling, the bride wore a pink linen sheath and white accessories. She also wore sterling costume jewelry, a gift of the groom and her orchid corsage. The couple are now at home at Richland where they both are employed by General Electric. The bride is a graduate of Imbler High School and Kinman Business College. The groom attended Marquette High School at Yakima, Wash. Out of town guests were Mrs. Leonard Kozeal and children, La Rue, Randy, and Mickey of Burwell, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. John Bysong and daughter, Sharon Kay of Haywood, Calif.; Mrs. George Muresco, Lansing, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Buschke, Elgin; Mr. and Mrs. Otto Geddes, and Mrs. Nellie McDaniel of Imbler; Mr. and Mrs. John Hutchison and son of Seattle; and Mr. and Mrs. Malin Doles of La Grande.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann: Our son was engaged to a girl we all liked. The date was set, she had her picture in the paper and they bought furniture together. Several relatives gave her silverware and dishes and there was even a money shower. A week before the wedding, the girl told my son her family could not stand him and she had to choose between him and them. Well, she chose her parents. The girl's mother took charge of everything. She divided the furniture which our son helped pay for. He asked about the silverware and other expensive gifts. The girl's mother said "It all belongs to Mildred." She also said the woman who gave the money shower is supposed to return the money to the guests. We don't know what the rules are, and we wish you'd tell us. We are all so embarrassed we can't hold our heads up.—P. H.

Dear P. H.: When a wedding is called off the gifts should be returned. It's a whole of a job, but it's the only thing to do. I don't know how money showers work, but if the bride-to-be received the money in separate envelopes, with the name of the giver, then she should return the money, provided she still has the envelopes. This is not the responsibility of the woman who gave the shower. Of course this is embarrassing, but it's better than a divorce. Dear Ann: This will probably stop you. We bought a big old house and renovated it completely inside. We expect to attack the outside as soon as we move in. The people who live next door to our place are real slob. They have an old car on their lawn with fenders and wheels strewn all over the lot. Their grass grows wild and the bushes are unbelievable. It would be an ideal location to shoot a Tarzan film. The Mrs. hangs her laundry in the front yard when she could just as well hang it in the back. What shall I do—I hate to get on the wrong side of neighbors from the word go, but honestly, Ann, these people make our property look awful. Any hints?—M. T. D.

Dear M.T.D.: The best way to have a good neighbor is to be one. Start off by being pleasant. Don't criticize, scold, berate or even offer a suggestion until you get to know the people. Almost everyone (even slob) respond well to gentleness. It's usually ignorance, not cussedness, that makes people poor neighbors. If you win their confidence and friendship you can go on from there and show them how to enhance their property (and yours) by taking care of it.

Shortcake And Hot Coffee For Strawberry Festivities

WHAT could be more fun than an old-fashioned Strawberry Festival? On a warm, early-summer weekend, when the first roses are budding, the church lawn is spread with long tables bedecked with fresh, sweet strawberries, served a dozen delicious ways. And the most popular table of all is the one where homemade strawberry shortcake and fragrant hot coffee are served. One of the very best shortcake recipes to come along is easily adapted to the community festival or the Sunday dinner at home. The light-textured biscuits are quickly made from a biscuit mix and filled with sweetened strawberries while they're still hot from the oven. After each portion is generously smothered in whipped cream, there's only one thing left to do. Pour a cup of steaming coffee to go with each serving of luscious shortcake. After all, hot coffee is just as much a part of the tradition as the strawberry itself!

Strawberry Festival Shortcake
4 cups biscuit mix
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 eggs, beaten
1/2 cup light cream (about)
Sliced sweetened strawberries
Whipped cream
Combine biscuit mix and sugar. Cut in butter or margarine. Combine beaten eggs and light cream and stir in with a fork. (Add more cream if dough is not soft enough). Roll out 1/2-inch thick on lightly floured board. Cut with 3-inch round cutter. If a glazed top is desired, brush with slightly beaten egg yolk and sprinkle with a little sugar. Bake in hot oven 450°, 12 to 15 minutes. Split and butter while hot. Put together with sliced sweetened strawberries and whipped cream. Makes 10 to 12 individual shortcakes.

Parkdale Members Hold Social Meet

The Parkdale Club met Wednesday in the home of Pearl Lloyd. The place was changed from the Park due to inclement weather. Mrs. Lloyd, president, presided over the business meeting. Visiting and games were played for the afternoon. Mrs. Eva Shafer received high for games. Mrs. Bert Greiner second, and Mrs. Orin Howell, low. The next meeting will be held at the park with Mrs. Shafer as hostess, July 22.

Fitzgeralds Will Attend Wedding

ELGIN (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Larry Fitzgerald of California, who have been visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Harwood, left Thursday for Portland. There they will meet his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fitzgerald of Brookings. They all plan to go to Seattle to attend the wedding of his brother, Dennis, which is being held today. The bride is Emily Joanne Crain, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Richard W. Crain Sr. of Tacoma, Wash. The Fitzgeralds are former Elgin residents.

MRS. LOUISE ROGERS
Elected Head Of State Eagles Auxiliary

Mrs. Louise Rogers Elected State President Of Eagles

Mrs. Louise Rogers of La Grande was elected State President by the Fraternal Order of Eagles Auxiliary. The convention was held at Tillamook the last of June. Other state officers elected were Barbara Jacques, Nyssa, vice president; Mary Chapman, Salem, chaplain; Olive Fordham, Bend, inner guard; Alice Baker, Pendleton, outer guard; Irene Sipe, Salem, secretary; and Lois Kendall, Sheridan, treasurer. Trustees are, Irene Chastain, Sweet Home; Ruth Holland, Grants Pass; Ruth Mann, Gold Beach; Vera Chapman, Coos Bay; and Elsie Young, Astoria. Louise Edwards of Bend was named state musician, and Karol Christensen of Tillamook, state convention mother. The La Grande members expressed their fortune to have an auxiliary member as Madam State President for the coming year. This office grants her the privilege of visiting every auxiliary in the state. She may also attend the Grand National Convention at Toronto, Canada, the first of August. The following were delegates to the convention from La Grande: Rebah Hoff, auxiliary president; Beatrice Houle, vice president; and Fay Howell, Junior past president. Others were Lillian Hadden, Dorothy Pierce and Iva Kennedy. The delegates presented Mrs. Rogers with a corsage and gift at the convention.

Higher Education A Family Affair

DENVER (UPI)—Mrs. Maxine Pastine, a 33-year-old grandmother, recently completed her high school education. She plans to enter college this fall. She graduated this spring from Emily Griffith Opportunity School in Denver. At about the time her son, Jerry, Husky, 17, and her daughter, Mrs. Francine Pemberton, 20, were graduating from high school in Wheat Ridge, Colo. Mrs. Pastine will join her son this fall in enrolling at Colorado State College. The family made a pledge several years ago that they were all going to be educated. Mrs. Pemberton won't be able to go to college this year because she has an infant daughter to care for. But she says she will follow her mother and brother later.

Mrs. Titus Believes In Little 'Girl Talk'

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Martha Titus, a 35-year-old housewife, believes a little "girl talk" can go a long way toward bettering our relations with the Russians.

"We've tried the diplomat to diplomat and people to people approach," she said. "Why not refine things even further and try woman to woman?" In effect, this will be her job for six weeks at the United States exhibition opening in Moscow, July 25. But already she has run into the first Soviet "myet."

The Huntington, W. Va. woman is the "typical homemaker" who will help to demonstrate to Soviet women home-sewing, U. S. style, McCalls' Patterns, which is footing the bill for her trip, said she was representative of the 40 million American women who do some or all of their own family's clothes-making. Originally, Mrs. Titus and four professionals—two from McCalls' and two from Singer—planned to fit clothes to the Russian women who visited the exhibit.

Russian Refusal
The pattern company said that the Russians refused to let its women participate in such a demonstration. A letter last week from the U.S. State Department telling of the refusal did not explain the reasons.

But at least, Russian women will be able to see an American sewing machine perform, watch as Mrs. Titus cuts and fits clothes to any American women the company can locate in Moscow, leaf through catalogs showing the latest styles available to the home seamstress, inspect some of Mrs. Titus' handwork on garment racks, and talk to the demonstrators.

Mrs. Titus is the wife of a dentist and has two children, a girl, five, and a boy, two. She makes most of her own clothes and those of her daughter and figured she was selected for the Moscow trip for a couple of reasons.

"They wanted someone whose husband's income was average. Ours is that all right. And McCalls' knew about me from the Congress of Better Living. I was a delegate for two years."

"The annual congress in Washington gathers a batch of housewives who air their gripes and suggestions in the home-building and furnishings fields."

To prepare for her first trip abroad ("I've never been west of Ohio or east of New York before"), Mrs. Titus has been reading up on Russian history and customs, cooking borscht for the family, and listening to Russian language records. "So guess who's the best linguist in the house?" she said. "My daughter, Ansley... she's a born parrot."

The housewife will travel with a Summer-weight wardrobe, most of which she made, and with eight fall costumes the Pattern company made for her. She also will travel with several cartons of chewing gum. "I read that the Russian children clamor for gum," she said. "I imagine that's the only time I'll get really homesick, when I see the kids."
