Rackets Group Calls Hoffa To The Stand

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Rackets Committee called Teamster President James R. Hoffa back to its witness chair today to answer new charges of abuse of power by himself and wrongdoing by his associates.

Chief Counsel Robert Kennedy said Hoffa's testimony, lasting "at least today and tomorrow," would be the Teamster leader's final appearance before the committee.

His testimony will climax several weeks of sessions aimed largely at determining what, if anything, Hoffa has done to remove hoodlums and racketeers from office in the union. Kennedy maintains that practically nothing has been done.

Kennedy said that Hoffa would not testify until after another witness had been questioned about some new material on the Teamsters. He would not identify this witness or the subject matter.

Hoffa already has appeared three times before the committee—in July, 1957, and in September, 1958 and last month. On the second occasion, nine months after he took office as president, he insisted he was working to clean up the union and would accomplish the job if given a chance.

In addition to questioning him on this point, it seemed likely that the committee also would go into Hoffa's proposal for all of the nation's transportation unions to band together as one powerful force.

George King, chairman of the Aetherius Society of London, related to the delegates a transmission he said he received from space people described as "Mars, Section Six." He said the transmission lasted 25 minutes and contained advice on how earthlings should change their ways of life.

He said the space people told him the earth was capable of producing everything needed to make life ideal but that it would be necessary to do away with the various money systems. He said that with no money system and under an economy of plenty for everyone wars would cease to be even thought of and atomic weapons would fall by the wayside.
