N. Y. STOCKS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fears that a long steel strike may have an adverse effect on corporate earnings this year sent stocks lower today.
 Steels, aircrafts and railroads led the downside with individual losses running past 3 points. Some of the stocks outside the groups used to compile the averages countered with gains of a point or more.
 DuPont and Union Carbide were easier but Olin Mathieson rose a point and Thiokol was up around 2 at its high.
 The rails, which already are feeling the effects of the steel strike, were under constant pressure. Losses running to around a point or more appeared in Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, New York Central, Norfolk & Western, and Westery Maryland.
 Wheeling Steel lost more than 2 at its low and U.S. Steel around 2 at its worst.
 A poor first half earnings report and dividend omission for Douglas Aircraft sent it tumbling more than 3 points at its low. Bendix, General Dynamics and Martin were weak but Cessna spurted more than 3 at its high on a good earnings.
 Bell & Howell was weak but Polaroid was strong in the cameras. Texas Instruments lost 7 points before rallying.
 Chrysler lost around a point in the autos. Cities Service lost more than a point in the oils, along with Texas Gulf Producing.

Robert Bartos Reports Some Dogs Know Master's Weakness

United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—Bartos says on psychology if your dog occasionally wraps you around his furry paw.
 So says Robert Bartos, a student of dog psychology and manager of research kennels for a dog food firm.
 "Never underestimate the power of a pet, especially if that pet is a dog," said Bartos.
 "Some dogs know their masters better than the masters know the dogs. The dogs, therefore, take advantage of the masters' good nature to get away with all sorts of getdown dog tricks."
 A dog that is psychologically in the know, Bartos said, may feign tiredness when he wants to turn his snout up, spurning a walk in the rain or a ride in a convertible.
 Or, said the expert, he may head for the dog house when you want to show company how well he obeys commands — even though the dog knows perfectly well what is expected.
 "In these cases, praise doesn't work. For the more you praise, the more the dog will try to pull the wool over your eyes."
 "Only punishment or some other show of displeasure will make such an ornery fellow respond. A sharp reprimand or one or two hard taps on the back with a newspaper will work wonders. He'll know his master is wise to his bluffing."
 For the normally shy dog, however, this approach won't work when you want him to perform.
 "A soft voice and a great deal of praise and gentle handling will bring out the best of his shy nature. He may be people-batter from way back and you've got to convince him that people are nice."
 Bartos said the introvert or extrovert type is as common in the dog world as it is in the people world.
 Extrovert dogs, he said, resemble the salesman type. They like nothing better than to be on the go all day and prefer to be surrounded by people and doggie friends most of their waking hours.

Writer's Wife Wins Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Writer Peter Viertel, accused last year in a court suit of winning the affections of actress Deborah Kerr, was divorced Wednesday from his wife of 15 years, Mrs. Virginia Viertel, 43, was awarded an uncontested interlocutory decree on grounds of desertion. She testified that Viertel, 38, told her he "was in love with another girl."

 Miss Kerr, who divorced her husband, Anthony Bartley, last week, was not mentioned in the divorce proceedings. Bartley made the allegation of affections charge against Viertel.
 Mrs. Viertel said she will receive under a property settlement a minimum of $12,000 annually in alimony and child support payments for five years. After that she will get $7,200 a year. The
