ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I think I'm in love with a man but I can't make myself say yes until I get a few of his faults cleared up—or learn how to overlook them.

He is a chain smoker and smells like a tobacco factory. His fingers are badly stained, also his teeth, and he has a little cough that irritates me. When I mentioned his cough casually several weeks ago he said, "What cough?" He isn't even aware he has it.

He bites his nails when watching TV or sitting in a movie. His partial plate creaks when he chews food, and his table manners are surprisingly bad. I'm sure my own list of faults would be much longer, but his annoying characteristics worry me. He wants me to marry him, but I'm stalling. Do you think I'll be able to change him after we marry, or am I flattering myself? — Old Maid.

Dear Old Maid: If you think you can remodel this man after marriage you are not only flattering yourself but you are kidding yourself, which is even more dangerous. If you are able to accept the whole man—and this means clicking plates, stained fingers, teeth, irritating cough, chewed nails and bad table manners—then go ahead and marry him. But don't think for one moment when the clergyman says "I now pronounce you man and wife," some miracle is going to take place and the guy will magically shed his unattractive habits. It won't happen and I'm giving it to you in writing.

Dear Ann Landers: So many people read your column. You have a tremendous opportunity to be an influence for good. Could you think of a few sentences which might stick in the minds of young married women who are toyed with the idea of playing around behind a husband's back? If these women would stop for a moment and think of how they will feel when they come home and look into trusting, innocent eyes, they might stop short of a heart-breaking mess.

The reason I'm writing this letter is because I fear someone very near and dear to me is heading for this kind of trouble. I can't let her know I'm aware of it, but I'm keeping my fingers crossed and hoping and praying she'll wake up before she steps over the line. She reads you religiously. Maybe you can save her by simply printing this letter and adding a few Landers-style words.—Anxious Granny.

Dear Granny: I'm printing it—but there's nothing I can add to your beautifully worded letter—except my thanks for having written it.

"Let's talk dry cleaning"

By Leonard Craig

COLOR plays one of the most important of all roles in clothing . . . even in a man's wardrobe today. Most of the beautiful colors we enjoy in wearing apparel and household textiles are produced by dyes.

The various types of dyes in use today are too many to go into here. As consumers our main concern about dyes is that they be durable and should not be changed by the action of light, acid and alkaline perspiration, and dry-cleaning. Unfortunately many dyes aren't that permanent. Light, smoke-filled air, gas fumes and fumes from industrial plants often fade or otherwise affect colors. In addition, fumes and smoke deposit a subtle film on the surface of the fabric that not only has a tendency to change the color, but can cause deterioration of the fibers as well. In some fabrics, particularly rayon acetates, this "fume fading" won't become visible until after cleaning . . . or when ever heat is applied, as in pressing. In such cases the fabric is at fault. Frequent and thorough cleaning will in most cases help to remove the dangers of color fading, will remove the film and keep colors clear and bright. Send us your colorful garments, and all your dry cleaning, with confidence in quick, dependable service. We pick-up and deliver.

REMEMBER

The garment after wearing—if it is too soiled for the next wearing, it is too soiled to hang back in the closet!
