CALVIN BOGAARD To Work With Church Here

C. Bogaard Accepts Church Call Here

Calvin Bogaard has accepted a call of the First Baptist Church of La Grande, as Christian Education director. He came to La Grande from the Western Baptist Seminary at Portland, where he was a graduate in May. This is his first appointment.

Bogaard was born in Iowa and attended grade school there, then attended high school and college in California. He is married and his wife's name is Ellen. They have a four-month-old daughter, Colleen. At present they are in the process of getting settled in their home here.

Duties for the new director will be organization and heading the educational program of the church, including Sunday School, youth work and visitation. He has been assisting with the Junior Boys camp at Camp Elkanah and plans to work with the Junior High and Senior boys the last two weeks of this month.

In answer to future plans Bogaard said "There have been some plans made to appeal not only to the young persons of the church but to be of interest to the teenage population throughout the city. The youth program of the church ranges from the Junior age child on through college. Each age will have a well rounded program to suit their own need. For instance, the high school youth folks will be having their own Youth Center in operation when school starts this fall. It will be open at convenient times for the teenager and also after ball games. Our purpose is to provide a program that will meet both the social and spiritual needs of the youth."

'Crown Prince' Often Strikes Out

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — The "promising young man" singled out for special training by his boss doesn't always live up to the promise, according to Moorhead Wright, operator manager of the General Electric Management Institute.

Wright said "experience shows how wrong these arbitrary 'crown prince' theories can be. You just can't pick a few bright young men and ignore the rest."

He cited the experience of one company which dug up its "promising young men" list of 10 years ago. There were 143 names on it but only 37 per cent of them had obtained the success predicted for them.

"There can be no dividing lines between 'promising young men' who will be developed and 'unpromising young men' who should be ignored," Wright said. "Opportunity must be available for everyone who is motivated to accept it and to work for it."

will have to take him again next month for further examination.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Our neighbors have two sons 11 and 12 years of age. Their parents caught them smoking so they gave them permission to smoke plus several packages of cigarettes. They said, "If the boys want to smoke we'd rather they do it in front of us than behind our backs." They also reasoned that the kids would probably tire of smoking and quit of their own accord.

Well, they aren't getting tired, and they aren't quitting. It's disgusting to see these two smart alecks puffing away on the street. And it's creating problems with our own children. They think they should be allowed to smoke, too. Our son who is 10 doesn't understand why he can't get the same deal. Please give us some help—Disgusted Parents.

Dear Disgusted Parents: These people have cornflakes where their brains belong. If their sons wanted to drink wood alcohol and carry a gun would they give them permission to do it "in front of them rather than behind their backs?" When parents don't know how (or haven't the courage) to say no to their children they are abdication their responsibilities. These dunderheads should have laid down the law, stated the reasons, then seen to it that the kids obeyed. Tell your 10-year-old that he can't smoke because it's not good for him and to quit nagging because the subject is closed for the next eight years.

Cooking Division Planned At Fair

The Cooking Division of the Union County Fair will prove to be a "Do-It-Yourself" show. The art of baking is not lost, at least in Union County. This is one place where prepared mixes are not allowed, and trained judges can immediately spot and disqualify a commercial mix. The breads with their marvelous odor and nut-like flavor, the delicately light cakes, the flaky, tender pie must bring many offers from the bakers-by to help the professional judges.

However, even inexpensive jewelry will last longer and look better if sudsed occasionally. Brush over crystal beads, for example, with lukewarm suds, rinse with clear water and dry. Never soak this jewelry or you will dissolve the paste that holds it together.

Airman third class Ina Garner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Garner of Doniphan, Mo., and S. J. W. J. Briggs, son of Col. and Mrs. E. J. Briggs of Burns, were united in marriage July 5. The double ring ceremony took place in the Emmanuel Baptist Church at Doniphan, Mo. The Rev. Morris Brock officiated.

The church altar was decorated with baskets of multi colored gladioli.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length white chiffon over taffeta trimmed with satin, gown. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a headband of pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and lily of the valley.

The bride's mother wore a navy crepe dress with white accessories. The groom's mother chose to wear a pink cotton dress with white accessories.

A reception was held following the ceremony, in the church basement. The wedding cake was decorated with white wedding bells and pink and white flowers and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Mary West of Bragg City and Mrs. Francis Perrin of Gary, Ind., sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Dean Ainley, served the cake and punch.

The newlyweds took a honeymoon trip to Gary, Ind. The groom is stationed at St. Paul, Minn., and the bride is stationed at Kansas City. They plan to make their home in St. Paul when she is discharged from the service in November.

FASHION PREVIEW—The edict from the House of Dior in Paris, France, that hems will go up, up and over the kneecap, is echoed in San Francisco, Calif., by designer Tamara Yohanan. Tamara assures American males that her fall collection will include not just a few, but some thirty of the new short fashions. "Of course," she said, "only the young will be able to wear my new short styles." But the attractive designer banked on her "young" and "young at heart" customers to pay between $100 and $300 to number among the smart set this fall.
