By H. H. BUSHNELL
Observer Correspondent
WALLOWA (Special)—Forty men and women of Wallowa met at the Methodist church Sunday evening, August 16, to consider the school district reorganization plan which comes up for vote August 24. It was a panel discussion with Clifford Johnson as moderator.
Dick McDaniel said that while he did not believe the reorganization plan proposed by the legislature was the best possible one, he favored its acceptance in Wallowa county as better than what we have.
Tom Willett was opposed to the plan, although saying that present conditions are not ideal. He believed that the county was

Wagons Visit At Centennial

PORTLAND (UPI)—The mules and horses of the Centennial wagon train were hitched up for the last time Monday as they pulled the seven covered wagons of the caravan from Kenton park in north Portland to the Centennial Exposition.
Some 5,000 persons greeted the cavalcade.
The Conestogas covered some more than 2,000 miles from Independence, Mo., to Independence, Ore., as they retraced the route of early-day Oregon settlers.
The wagons were bathed in a light Oregon mist as they arrived at the exposition. They left Missouri in a driving rainstorm.

Portland Faces Tax Bills In Property Tax Bills

PORTLAND (UPI)—Portlanders face a six per cent boost in their property tax bills next November.
This was the statement issued Monday by County Assessor Joe Hawkins.
The tax boost compares with a 12.2 per cent jump last year.
Hawkins said the hike is the lowest here in the past three or four years. But he predicted a continued rise.
"With higher costs and higher needs, it's a foreman hope that taxes can be lowered," the assessor declared.

EARTHQUAKE

Idaho and Wyoming in the Rocky Mountains.
Jolting aftershocks followed at 12:50 a.m., 1:34 a.m., 3:06 a.m., and 8:28 a.m.
Crack Appears in Dam
Three hours after the first shock a 17-foot crack appeared in Hebgen Dam in Gallatin County. The Hebgen impounds the headwaters of Madison River which flows north into the Missouri River.
Hebgen Dam is only a few miles from the west entrance to Yellowstone Park where damage was reported light. However, rangers barred tourists from old Faithful Geyser.
United Press International reporter Paul Quinn said after a flight over the dam that "the entire side of a mountain was torn away, there were trees and rocks all over the top of the slide piled 200 to 300 feet above Highway 1.
Between the dam and the slide downriver sections of the highway were torn up.
"Cars were scattered all along the way with people standing outside," Quinn said. "Women and children were waving handkerchiefs and bananas. SOS signs made with white clothing showed up clearly."
About 30 cars were located next to the downriver side of the dam.
Slide Blocks Tourists
The series of quakes, first death-dealing tremors to strike this area since 1935, split open foothills as though they were eggshells. The north shore of the lake behind the dam was cropped off 6 to 15 feet, submerging the highway there. The south shore heaved up 6 to 15 feet as though the whole lake were tipped in a giant saucer.
Several homes floated crazily in the lake.
Telephones and electrical power were knocked out in West Yellowstone. Chimneys fell, gasoline pumps tipped over and buildings were shifted from their foundations.
Quinn said the giant slide looked from the air "as if it had been shoved off a mountain top by a huge hand. It blocked the highway and trapped the tourists between it and the dam seven miles away."
Only a mother and son survived in the Purley Bennett family. The dead were Bennett; daughters, Carol, 17, and Susan, 5 and son, Tom, 11.
"Suddenly there was a huge roar," Phil Bennett, 16, told UPI. "I looked up and saw the mountain cascading down us."
Highway Closed Down
Rescue teams who reported eight dead in the Reynolds Pass area in eastern Idaho said they were leaving the area after recovering six bodies. They said there was nothing more they could do.
Idaho State Police blocked off Highway 201 leading to West Yellowstone. Cracks and sinking were reported in the highway.
Hebgen Dam was built in 1915. The mountain-ringed lake it backs up is 20 miles long and one fourth of a mile to six miles wide. It has a capacity of 325,000 acre-feet of water. Elevation of the lake is 6,500 feet.

His brother, Donald, 5, made the discovery behind their home in this Los Angeles County community and called their mother, Ruth, 33. She said she earlier had refused to allow Robert to go swimming.
