Nelson Rockefeller, and his fiancée Anne Marie Rasmussen greet Mr. and Mrs. Robert Waldon (right), of Boston, Mass., after their arrival in Kristiansund, Norway. Waldon and three other former Princeton classmates of Steven arrived to serve as ushers at wedding of Rockefeller and Miss Rasmussen.

Among Valley Farmers

By County Agents Ted Sidor and Charles Gavin

Sheep ticks, or keds, can be controlled anytime it is convenient and the weather is mild, but one of the best times to apply control measures is during the early fall months. If ticks are eliminated from ewes now, they will not be present to go over onto young lambs next spring.

The owner of the small farm flock usually finds the fall treatment to his advantage.

Sheep ticks feed on blood, causing irritation and reducing the vitality of the animal. There may be loss of wool by rubbing. Lambs are most noticeably affected and when heavily infested, are retarded in their growth and don't gain normally.

Sheep ticks can be controlled by spraying, dipping, or dusting. Lindane, toxaphene, and DDT are recommended as sprays or dips. Follow the manufacturer's directions in preparing the spray or dip solution.

One of the simplest and cheapest methods of control, particularly for the owner of the small flock is the use of 1 1/2 per cent diethylzin dust. About 10 or 12 sheep may be placed in a small pen approximately 12 to 14 feet square and then dusted thoroughly using a rotary-type hand-duster. During a few head at a time and not crowding them too closely leads to more uniform coverage of the individual animals. About two ounces of dust per head is usually sufficient.

Eastern Oregon sheepmen who have large bands to treat have found powder dusting to be a simple, quick method of treatment.

Do not apply dust within 90 days of slaughter, or dip or spray animals within 30 days of slaughter.

The little time and the few cents per head spent for sheep dip control will more than repay the sheep owner in increased dividends.

The lawn probably would enjoy another feeding now while you are watering it quite heavily. Nitrogen seems to be the main food needed.

Be careful about giving shrubs and trees food in late summer or they will be tender when the cold weather comes. We have experienced this trouble several times in recent years and it was always the tender late-fed plants and trees that suffered most.

Don't overlook watering trees or ornamental shrubs during the dry days of late summer and early fall. It probably will take twice as much water as was used earlier in the summer.

Both commercial growers and home owners should be on the lookout for Botrytis leaf and flower spot. This disease is most common in cool, humid areas, often appearing on foliage and old flowers towards the end of the season. Brown discolored spots develop on the leaves and on the flower petals.

In addition to retarding growth, the fungus spores are washed down during early fall rains to the base of the plant where the fungus may infect the gladiolus corm. Infected corms rot in the soil or in storage.

Control: Control with ferbam at 7 to 14 days of the season. The recommended rate is 1 ounce in 3 gallons of water (2 pounds in 100 gallons). At digging time discard all infected corms. These show up as tan to light brown discolorations which may be either soft or wet and spongy. Home owners should dig corms as early as possible and dry thoroughly before storing. Commercial growers use specialized heat equipment for curing.

Ron Boatman, our weed supervisor suggested that farmers would do well to spray their weed patches after grain harvest. This is a good suggestion and one of the best ways to control thistles and morning glory. On the thistles a spray of 8 pounds of ATZ per acre about 10 days after the weeds have been cut off with the combine is an ideal way to control them.

On morning glory we keep hearing about the results of T.C.B. and P.B.A. I'm sure most of you know the story of this chemical. Ten gallons of material per acre in at least 40 gallons of water has given 95 to 100 per cent kill.

The Tariff Commission hearing was quite an experience. We were given the best of treatment by all of our legislators, the Tariff Commission, their economists and members of the U.S.D.A. that we contacted. I might say that we were much better prepared than the opposition that consisted of the American Seed Trade, the Dutch and Canadian governments and several export-import dealers.

Some of the figures we used on our testimony contained some of the following information: In 1947, when our import duty on fine fescue was cut 50 per cent, our total imports were 88,000 pounds; last year it was over 12 million pounds. In 1956, we imported 619,000 pounds from Netherlands, while in 1958, we imported 1,576,000 pounds. Denmark in 1956 accounted for 877,000 pounds, but jumped to five and a half million pounds in 1958. Total imports were five and one half million in 1956, but

U.S. Exhibit Has New Books For Russians

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Pan American airliner left early today with 2,800 books rounded up in a fast one-day volunteer effort to permit the reopening of the bookmobile at the American exhibition in Moscow.

The books, which include 1,000 paperbacks and 1,800 hard cover volumes, will replace the volumes "borrowed" by Russian visitors that depleted the bookmobile supply to the extent it had to be closed. It was feared the impression would be created that the sparse stock remaining was representative of this nation's literary output.

An editorial in the New York Times on Wednesday calling for reopening of the bookmobile touched off the volunteer project designed to replenish the bookmobile stock.

John C. Bullett, Princeton, N. J., a lawyer, contacted Albert L. Hemley, assistant to the director of the combined book exhibit, sponsor of the bookmobile, after reading the editorial and suggested that they take steps to reopen the bookmobile. They in turn got in touch with Joseph Fox of Henry Holt & Co. publishers, who was able to obtain 1,000 paperbacks.

Meanwhile, approval of the project had been received from the State Department and the U.S. Information Agency.

California Boy Dies When Struck By Car

THE DALLES (UPI)—David Allen Davis, 16, Modesto, Calif., was fatally injured Friday when the bicycle he was riding collided with a car.

Davis, the son of Mrs. Roy K. Bamber of Modesto, was visiting relatives here. He and two other boys were riding bicycles on Chenoweth Road, about three miles west of here when he collided with a car driven by Tom Speck, The Dalles.

Neither of his companions was injured.

Phoenix Man Killed In One-Car Accident

KLAMATH FALLS (UPI)—Roland Albert Maurer, 33, Phoenix, Ore., was fatally injured Thursday in a one-car accident about 10 miles west of here on Highway 66 near Keno.

State police said Maurer apparently lost control of his car on a rain-slickened pavement and careened off a curve. He was thrown from the car and a large rock, dislodged by the car rolled on to his chest.

doubled by 1958 to be over 12 million.

Actually what is happening is that imports and, more or less dumping into the U.S., has just about destroyed our market. With the amount that came in last year we would have to cut our production at least in half to keep any kind of a market. Our production over the last 10 years has stayed about the same while imports have since 1947, when the ratio of imports to production was about two per cent jumped to 70 per cent in 1949, and at the present time is over 137 per cent.

It is quite a problem, however the fescue growers contended at the hearing that they were doing their share to keep domestic foreign relations intact by giving foreign countries a third of the U.S. market and they so requested the Tariff Commission. This would place an import quota of 5 million pounds on imports of fine fescue coming into our market.
