HOT LAKE NEWS

Hardings Celebrate Wedding Anniversary At Hot Lake

Mrs. Maizie Harding, who is a recent patient from Baker in the Hot Lake Nursing Home, was surprised last week, when her husband, Jack Harding, arrived to celebrate their 41st wedding anniversary. He brought their daughter, Mrs. Merrick, and little granddaughter, Becky Merrick. The family group attended a picnic dinner on the lawn.

Mrs. Millard Smith entertained her daughter and family. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Howe and daughters, Mary Lou and Debbie from La Grande, Saturday evening. The birthday dinner was held in honor of Mrs. Howe.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roth and daughter, Terri, have returned to Oswego after a summer at Hot Lake. Mrs. Roth and baby left for a stay at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hanson, where she was later joined by her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith returned Saturday evening for a three day trip to Spokane.

Malo Hasselblad surprised his mother, Mrs. Josephine Hasselblad, Sunday evening when he arrived from Indiana for an unexpected visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Koopman of Joseph returned home Monday morning after a week-end.

Dr. and Mrs. George Woodbury from Moscow, Idaho, were dinner guests of the A. J. Rehs Sunday. Dr. Woodbury is head of the Horticulture Department at the University of Idaho, and was enroute to the U of I Experiment at Parma for a few days work.

A picnic dinner on the lawn Saturday evening culminated a week filled with special activities for the nursing home patients. Plans for the picnic were a complete surprise which added to the fun for everyone. Members of the nursing staff assisted with the serving of the hamburger "fry." Patients sat at one long table with places of honor being given to the oldest lady and man present. Mrs. Jennie Peck, 95 years old, and Frank Rynearson, who is 94 years old were elected King and Queen of the event.

On Thursday afternoon the Gray Ladies with their Motor Corps chauffeurs arrived with cars for a drive around the valley for all patients able to make the trip. Another day Rev. and Mrs. Obert from Tacoma furnished a very fine concert. Obert is a soloist and his wife a pianist.

Vern Bratt from Cove also appeared during the week to give one of his piano concerts the patients have come to look forward to, often.

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Roth attended the August meeting of Oregon Nursing Homes, Inc., which was held in Grants Pass. Several nursing homes in that area were visited. Enroute to the Grants Pass meeting, a stop-over was made in Ashland to attend one of the series of Shakespearean plays which have made the town famous. The Roths also visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Stone in Coos Bay. Stone will be remembered here as a former owner of Radio Station KLBK, and was a frequent visitor to the Grande Ronde Valley at that time. He has also sold his radio interests in Coos Bay, and has engaged in the florist business there and in North Bend.

The Rev. and M. S. Ernest Obert of Tacoma have been having a happy reunion with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Obert during the week. They left for home immediately after the farwell services given for his father at the First Christian Church of La Grande, Sunday morning. The L. E. Obert left for their home in Boise on Monday morning, after spending the past six months here during Obert's service as interim pastor.

Ralph G'kinson from Eugene-Newscomers to Hot Lake are Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts from Spokane. Mrs. Roberts will join the nursing staff as another registered nurse. Roberts will have charge of general maintenance at the sanatorium. A daughter, Mary Lou, will attend high school in La Grande in the senior class, and a son, John Jr., will attend Junior High.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Roth from Lowell, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Earl McKinney from Oak Park, Ill., have returned home after visiting relatives at Hot Lake.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann: My wife's mother lived with us for 12 years. She helped with the house work and cooking and was wonderful with the children. We never considered her a burden. The only time I became slightly annoyed with her was when she'd take the page with your column out of the paper and forget to put it back.

My wife has two sisters and a brother. They never offered to help with Grandma's expenses. We bought her clothes, paid her doctor bills and saw to it that she had a little money in her purse. The last year of her life was expensive. She was ill a great deal.

Grandma's will was probated last week. We didn't know she had anything. To our surprise she owned modest amounts of stocks and War Bonds from both World War I and II.

The estate is not large by some standards, but it's a lot of money to people like us.

Now the Big Question: Grandma left everything to us. The brother and sisters are closing in. They say Grandma was not "all there" and it's up to us to do the "right thing." So—Ann Landers, what is the right thing? Shall we let them share in Grandma's money?—B. and C.

Dear B and C: The money isn't Grandma's, it's yours. She left it to you—all of it. If you want to share your money with a swarm of locusts, go ahead.

Dear Ann: What do you do about friends who borrow books and forget to return them? (Sometimes, when they do come back, several pages are folded over, passages are underlined in ink and coffee-cup circles appear here and there.)

Do you suggest such friends buy you a new book?—The Simp.

Dear Simp: If this happens more than once with the same slob—I mean friend—then you deserve it.

People who forget to return

Many women refuse to roll with the years, the way a boxer rolls with a punch. Instead of finding a pleasing hairdo, selecting a daily beauty routine and having complimentary clothes, these women give up. And then they look enviously at women their age who make the most of their maturity.

books, or return them in poor condition are bores—and their name is legion. Don't ask for a new book. If they aren't decent enough to bring back the old one they'll never buy you a new one. Just inform them (when they want another book) gone out of business—and why.

Dear Ann: I came from a small town and grew up with a fine girl I'll call Molly. Before I left for the service I gave her a ring. She wrote to me every day and I wrote whenever I felt like it, which was about twice a month. When she began to describe the things she was buying for our home I felt like a dog because I'd already started to date Anita, who lived in the town where I was stationed.

I don't know how to explain this, but before I knew it, Anita and I were married. My mother and dad are no longer living but I have two brothers back in the home town and I haven't told them yet because of Molly.

I know if I don't tell them soon the news will leak. To make matters worse, I think I love Molly and not Anita. What shall I do?—G.I.J.

Dear G.I.J.: What do you mean "Before you know it you were married to Anita? Did you just look in the church—and there you were, getting married?"

Write Molly at once. And now that you're married, make the best of it. Personally I think Molly is lucky. You sound like a double-dealing, faithless heel. It's Anita who got stuck.
