

'Run-Away' Cop To Face Wife, Kids

CHICAGO (UPI)—A New York policeman who faked his own suicide so he could run off with his blonde sweetheart said today he would go back to face the music—not to mention his wife and four children.

The now-unemployed policeman, Richard Supple, 28, and his girl friend, divorcee Jacqueline McErlan, 24, were believed to have flown back to New York after surrendering to Chicago police.

But a check of airline reservation lists failed to turn up the names of the couple, who disappeared again after telling newspapermen, "We still love each other, but we'll go back."

Supple Friday revealed he and Jacqueline had been in Chicago since July 29, nine days after he faked his own drowning on Rockaway Beach on Long Island.

Chicago Police Lt. Edward Culleney said Supple told him "he grew tired of his family and kids and became enraptured with the girl. But afterwards he grew tired of running around too. He told me, 'I've got to go back and face the music.'"

In New York, Supple's wife, Madeline, said she had begun to believe her husband was dead and was stunned by the news that he was not only alive but had run off with another woman.

Asked if she would take him back, she said, "I don't know. I don't want to do anything until I talk to him. I am only thinking now of my children."

Supple and Mrs. McErlan came to Chicago and took an apartment while she got a job as a receptionist.

She quit that job Sept. 1 and their savings gradually dwindled.

Movie Wife Of Douglas Relates Story

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"I cried out for the maid and then began breathing into Paul's mouth in an attempt to save him. I guess I must have kept it up for four or five minutes, but he did not move." In these words Jan Sterling told of her efforts to save the life of her husband, actor Paul Douglas.

Douglas, 32, died Friday morning in the arms of his platinum-blond wife at their Hollywood Hills home. The burly onetime professional football player-sports-caster-radio announcer-turned-actor was stricken by a heart seizure while he was getting out of bed at 8 a.m.

Despite the fact Miss Sterling thought her husband was dead she continued the mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and massaged the area around the actor's heart.

A fire department rescue squad, summoned to the New Orleans colonial-type home, was met by the distraught 36-year-old actress who said, "he's inside, please hurry."

Firemen Bob Hollis and Truet Sparkman went to Douglas' bedroom where they found his nude body on the floor, covered by a blanket. Hollis checked Douglas' heart and pulse, then told Miss Sterling he apparently was dead.

A short time later the family physician, Dr. Lee E. Siegel, arrived and pronounced the actor dead.

Douglas had no previous record of heart trouble.

Douglas, hospitalized for exhaustion last month, was released when doctors found no serious ailments. He returned to work despite advice that he take a long rest.

Elgin Girls Autograph Turtle Found Along Grande Ronde

The Grand Ronde River produces many interesting things. Nancy Cordell, Geraldine Fruits and Deanna Hollingsworth found a large turtle crawling to the bank last week. It was about the size of a small football. The girls took it home and fed it a few days. Tuesday they printed their names on its shell and turned it loose on the river bank again.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stringham were visiting relatives in Boise, Idaho, over the weekend.

Mrs. Lillas Townsend, who is attending a business college in Boise, Idaho, spent the weekend at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCole.

REDS PUBLISH SANDBURG
"MOSCOW (UPI)—The Moscow Foreign Languages Publishing House has brought out a book of Carl Sandburg's poems translated into Russian, the Soviet news agency Tass said today. The agency said the poems were translated by Ivan Kashkin, a student of American literature who previously has translated works by Walt Whitman and Ernest Hemingway.
