New Fall Reading

By MRS. G. L. GREGORY Librarian

"Steps in Time," a self-portrait by Fred Astaire, which has recently been added to the book collection at the La Grande Public Library, is as charming and informative as one of his seemingly effortless flights of dancing. It makes highly enjoyable reading.

"My Heart Has Seventeen Rooms" by Carol Bartholomew, another new title, is an engaging account of the author's two and a half years in India. Almost all of Carol Bartholomew's days in India included eight hours of rigorous but rewarding work in the seventeen rooms of the crowded local hospital where she met and helped care for a cross-section of India's people, and where she acquired a growing understanding and appreciation of the Indian way of life.

An extremely timely new book is "Germany and the East-West Crisis" by William S. Schlam. The author seeks the answers to such questions as: What are we doing in Germany? What comes after Adenauer? What are the strategic goals of Communism in Europe? What kind of youth is growing up in Germany? Through the entire year of 1958, the author studies the strengths and weaknesses of West Germany, America's strongest ally on the Continent.

"And Four to Go On," by Frances Palmer, is a touching story of four adopted children who brought new meaning and love into the lives of a young couple. The author writes with warm understanding and tells of her personal philosophy which guided her and her husband through the trials and satisfactions of adoption.

Do you ever wonder if you are getting your money's worth when you make a purchase? If so, you will want to read "Kiplinger's Family Buying Guide" by the staff of Changing Times, the Kiplinger magazine. The book gives helpful hints on how to live better on your income, money-saving tips for wiser buying, and how you can increase your purchasing power 10 to 20 per cent.

Following are other recent acquisitions at the library: "Fast and Fancy Cookery" by John Phillips Cramwell; "Fire at Sea, the story of the Moro Castle" by Thomas Gallagher; "Kangaroo in the Kitchen—the story of Animal Talent Scouts" by Lorraine D'Sa; "The Southern Heritage" by James McBride Dabbs; "Richard Nixon" by Earl Mazo; "Day Before Yesterday" by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.; "For 2c Plain" by Harry Golden; and "Chilton's Auto Repair Manual for 1959."

New fiction titles include "Love and Money" by Noel Clad; "Advice and Consent" by Allen Drury; "The Town House" by Norah Lotis; "The Mills of Colne" by Robert Neil; "Hard Hearts Are for Cabages" by Vil Putnam; "Lorena" by Frank Slaughter; and "The Cave" by Robert Penn Warren.

Any of these books may be reserved by calling the library, WO 3-5621.

Some Designers Go To Police, Others 'Grin And Bear It'

NEW YORK (UPI)—French designers go to the police when their styles are stolen. American designers just "grin and bear it."

But on both sides of the Atlantic, fashion piracy takes on all the overtones of a cloak and dagger operation. Designers go to great pains to keep their ideas top secret until the new collections are in production. And the style thieves just as efficiently operate espionage rings specializing in the length of a hemline or the curve of a bosom.

The root of the whole evil is money, for what woman will pay $300 to $500 for a top designer label, when within days or weeks copies as low as $39.95 may be available? The difference will be in quality of fabric and workmanship.

Much Legal Copying Done

There is a lot of legal copying of Paris styles. Manufacturers or buyers for department stores and specialty shops are permitted to purchase a particular model or models and mass-produce it. But at least the designer got his money's worth.

It's the illegal copying which harasses the style leaders. The French have government protection.

Central PTA Reception Tea Honors Parents, Teachers

The Parent Teachers' Association of Central school met in the Multi-purpose room, Friday afternoon, with the double purpose of honoring the teachers with a reception and tea, and starting the program for the new year.

As the teachers and parents entered the room, they were met by the members of the Executive Board who escorted them to the refreshment table where they were served by hostesses, Mrs. Harry Smurthwaite and Mrs. Charles A. Reynolds. From there they were taken to special tables designated for each room teacher. Here the teacher acted as host or hostess, and the parents and teacher became acquainted. Having children in the same room gave the parents much in common so a period of time was allowed for visiting.

Mrs. Edwin Craig, president, called the meeting to order and turned the next part of the program over to Mrs. Norman Koopman and Mrs. Emerson Smock, program co-chairmen, who had prepared a telephone skit in which they named each teacher and gave some chatty information concerning each one. Following this breezy chatter, each teacher was identified by Mrs. Koopman and presented with a corsage or boutonniere.

Following this period of introduction, Mrs. Craig continued the business meeting with the reading of the minutes and the treasurer's report. As she introduced each of her officers and chairmen for the year, Mrs. Craig asked each to stand for recognition: Mrs. Don Scott, first vice-president and room representative chairman; Mrs. John Turner, second vice-president and membership; Mrs. Harry Smurthwaite, treasurer; Mrs. John DeWitt, secretary and publicity; Mrs. Norman Koopman and Mrs. Emerson Smock, program co-chairmen; Mrs. Eldon Lilly, and Mrs. Dock Baker, Ways and Means; Mrs. Charles A. Reynolds, health; Mrs. Ralph Jones, budget; Mrs. Ted Sidor, magazine and publications; Mrs. Robert Clark and Mrs. Ed Brog, hospitality; Mrs. Dan McKenny and Mrs. Howard Petersen, fun-night chairmen; Mrs. B. E. Wells, juvenile protection; Mrs. Rollie King, pre-school party; Mrs. Clint Smith, hospitality; Mrs. George Garoutte, nursery; and Ladd Laughon, legislation.

Correspondence was read concerning a County Council Workshop to be held at Greenwood School.

The budget was read by Mrs. Harry Smurthwaite, and the motion made and voted that it be accepted.

Questionnaires were circulated at each table by Mrs. Norman Koopman to determine the type of programs desired by the parents.

Mrs. Ted Sidor described the Parent Teachers' Magazine, calling attention to the subjects for the year and to the top-notch experts who will be the authors.

Wednesday evening, Oct. 7, was set for the "Back to School" night.

The room count prizes went to Mrs. Harvey Carter's second grade and Mrs. Will Brown's fourth grade.

Mrs. Craig expressed her thanks to the parents for a splendid turnout, and extended a cordial invitation for them to return and bring another parent.

The members of the executive board, with Mrs. Don Scott acting as chairman, Mrs. Scott hosting for this first meeting.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann: Now I know what the prisoner of Zenda felt like. I'm locked in my room — and I do mean locked.

I went steady with this boy for a month. Last week I met another fellow I liked so I told my steady we weren't going steady any more. He got nasty and called me a vulgar name. I lost my temper and slapped his face. His glasses fell off and broke on the cement sidewalk.

He went right to my house, handed the broken glasses to a maniac. My mother put the glasses in Daddy's dinner plate and boy did I ever catch it! My father has to pay $18 for any place but to church for a month.

You'd think my parents would be proud of me, but instead they're treating me like a criminal. Is this fair?—Behind Bars.

Dear Behind Bars: The only unfair part of the story is that you aren't paying the $18 out of your allowance or money earned.

You should not have slapped the boy's face. If you had turned on your heel and left the cad standing there, you'd have maintained your dignity and been a real lady. And a free one—instead of a cooped up chicken.

Dear Ann: In January, I started to go with a man who said he was divorced. Three weeks ago a woman phoned and said she was Neal's wife. I thought she was a crank so I hung up on her.

That evening I told Neal about the call thinking he'd laugh it off. Instead he told me he was still married but "working on a divorce."

Last night we were supposed to go to the ball game but he phoned at 6 p.m. to say he had to leave town on business. About 11 p.m. I got suspicious and phoned his apartment. A woman answered. I asked who it was and she said, "I'm Neal's wife. What's so odd about a woman living with a woman living with her husband?"

What kind of game are these two slobbs playing anyway?—See Wilders.

Dear B: Sounds like a game of cat and mouse. The mouse seems to be acting like a rat — and the cat doesn't object. Where'd you find this gem anyway?

Net time check more carefully on your prey.

ferred. None has passed.

"We have to just grin and bear it," said Norman Norell, veteran designer and winner of just about every fashion award around.

But most American designers have their own methods of preventing thievery, at least until a dress, coat or suit has gotten to the store.

Muslin For Models

Some screen all workroom personnel. Some keep all sketches padlocked and available only to the designer and his trusted associates. The Couturier Mainbois keeps muslin bags with drawing tops to drape over his live models when they're walking around the workroom.
