

Ike Is Unhappy Over Reception Given To Nikita

FEARS LACK OF COURTESY WILL HURT FUTURE TALKS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said today that President Eisenhower's desire for constructive talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is not being helped by "any personal discourtesy" shown the Russian leader on his cross-country tour.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty reminded newsmen that "the President's basic purpose and desire is to have Chairman Khrushchev see our country prior to the discussions of mutual interest that he will have with him at Camp David this weekend."

"The President is looking forward to these discussions and as he has said before, hopes that they can be constructive," Hagerty added.

"This purpose of constructive meetings at Camp David is not served by any personal discourtesy extended to the chairman during his visit throughout our country."

Incident In Los Angeles

Hagerty made the comment when asked whether the President felt any need for a new statement calling upon the American people to be courteous to the Soviet Premier.

He was asked whether such a statement was felt necessary in view of Khrushchev's blow-up over remarks made to him Saturday night by Los Angeles Mayor Norris Poulson and by some other incidents which have arisen since Khrushchev began his coast to coast swing.

When asked whether he was speaking for the President with respect to the courtesy matter, Hagerty said he was "speaking as press secretary answering questions." He also declined to go any further than he did in his statement.

President Back at Work

Poulson touched off a tirade by Khrushchev by questioning the "We will bury you" remark.

Hagerty also was asked whether the President, who returned to his desk this morning after a four-day weekend rest at his Gettysburg farm, was making special preparation for his forthcoming meeting with Khrushchev.

"He has for six and a half years," Hagerty tartly replied.

Eisenhower and Khrushchev will hold their crucial face-to-face conference next week end at the President's secluded Camp David, Md., retreat, 60 miles north of Washington.

The Chief Executive whizzed past the Catalina Mountain area Sunday night in a motorcade which brought him back to the White House at 8:10 p.m. e.d.t. after driving the 80 miles from his farm in an hour and 45 minutes.

Sunny, though sometimes bleak, weather enabled Eisenhower to get in 18 holes of golf each of his four days at Gettysburg. He played Sunday following an active morning which began with services at the United Presbyterian Church in Gettysburg.

At the church services, Eisenhower heard a special prayer for Americans to be "on guard against falsehood and guile" during Khrushchev's visit.

Russian Underwater Strength Is Revealed

Nikita Continues San Fran Tour

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev took a sightseeing trip around San Francisco Bay in a Coast Guard cutter today and told its skipper in a friendly conversation that the Russian navy is concentrating on submarines.

The Communist leader embarked on a whirlwind day of rubbernecking, inspection of an electronic brain at an IBM plant and a visit to headquarters of the International Longshoremen & Warehousemen's Union.

At the ILWU hall, a memorial to workers killed in the San Francisco 1934 general strike, Khrushchev met Harry Bridges whom the United States long sought to deport as a Communist.

The Soviet leader looked over the sparkling city early this morning from Nob Hill and pronounced it the most beautiful of any he had seen and the place where he had the warmest welcome.

His day started off with the boat tour and on the deck of the cutter Gresham Khrushchev got into a good-natured talk with Cmdr. B.P. Clark about navies.

"We are now concentrating on reconstructing our navy," Khrushchev told Clark. "We are largely growing to concentrate on submarines."

As they steamed close to the Golden Gate, Clark told Khrushchev about the hundreds of vessels that had passed below her during the war. One of the reporters nearby asked Khrushchev about the size of the Russian navy.

"It's a secret," Khrushchev replied.

Clark said he wasn't going to get into an argument about who has the bigger navy. Khrushchev said he couldn't tell unless someone told him how strong the American Navy is.

Asked about operations Soviet submarines are now engaged in, Khrushchev said: "We are now catching herring without submarines." Then he threw back his head and laughed heartily.

At another point, Khrushchev noted without comment the U.S. aircraft carrier Ranger getting up steam. Clark pointed out the Alcatraz Island prison and the Army Port of Embarkation.

After the boat trip, Khrushchev went to the ILWU hall.

Cancels Visit to Grocery

He had upset security officials by changing his schedule this morning. He had been scheduled to go to a supermarket but instead he insisted on the visit to the longshoremen's hall.

Bridges and other union officials greeted him outside the hall and Mrs. Bridges gave him a bouquet of pink roses.

With Eisenhower's representative, U. N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, beside him, Khrushchev went to a platform where a microphone had been installed and made a few remarks. Longshoremen pressed into shake his hand. "I will take back the greetings of American workers to the Soviet Union and I extend the greeting of the Soviet Union to the workers of America."

"Work and Good Wages"

"What is the main wish you want me to take back. Peace is not enough. I want there to be enough work and good wages."

The friendliness of the San Francisco reception, after the angry encounter with Mayor Norris Poulson in Los Angeles, was gratifying to Khrushchev's State Department escorts. The White House had issued a statement today that the Premier's forthcoming talks with President Eisenhower would not be helped by "personal discourtesy" on his coast to coast tour.

HALLECK STANDS READY FOR V-P

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck is available for the 1960 GOP vice presidential nomination.

The 59-year-old Indiana congressman noted Sunday that "you don't run for vice president" but said he would answer "yes" if the party's presidential candidate sought him for a running mate.

Halleck scored a near-miss in a bid for the vice presidential nomination in 1948. Although the choice must be ratified by the convention, the presidential nominee usually selects his running mate.

Cancel Local Hearing Over Train Speeds

A hearing before the Oregon Public Utility Commissioner concerning the speed of Union Pacific trains in this area has been cancelled pending further investigation.

The hearing, originally scheduled for Sept. 29 in Salem, will be held sometime in the future.

Hearings with respect to the establishment of speeds of trains in La Grande, Elgin, Enterprise, Imbler, Island City and Walla will also include the establishment of adequate crossing signalization facilities and the allocation of costs to promote safety and the practical operation of trains.

Union Cub Scout Unit Plans Potluck Dinner

UNION (Special)—Cub Scout Pack 85 will hold a potluck dinner and pack meeting at the Fellowship Center of the First Methodist Church at 6:30 p.m. Friday.

Boys interested in joining the group are especially invited to attend the dinner and meeting.

Russ U.N. Delegates Pressing For Debate On Disarmament Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Russia today asked the General Assembly for a full debate on Premier Nikita Khrushchev's outline for "general and complete disarmament."

Khrushchev, in the major speech of his U.S. tour, Friday proposed to the Assembly that all the world's armies, navies and air forces be abolished within four years, leaving forces only to maintain internal security.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, as chief of Russia's delegation to the Assembly, asked that the item "general and complete disarmament" be included in the agenda as "an important and urgent matter."

The Assembly's 21-nation Steering Committee, which must recommend any item included in the agenda, did not immediately schedule a meeting to take up the Russian request.

The Russian delegation circulated with Khrushchev's speech a bulky "declaration of the Soviet government on general and complete disarmament." This document, according to an explanatory memorandum filed by Gromyko, constitutes the backbone of Russia's argument for the Khrushchev plan.

"The armaments race not only constitutes a threat to peace and to the security of states," the explanatory memorandum said, "but it is already placing a heavy burden on the nations. The efforts of millions of people and vast material and financial resources are being diverted to the manufacture of weapons of war for the destruction of human beings..."

"The realization of the program of complete disarmament outlined in the declaration will help to create the necessary atmosphere of mutual confidence between states, eliminate all forms of the 'cold war' and preclude the settlement of controversial international issues by force. The destruction of the means of waging war would make the peaceful coexistence of states an inevitable reality, since any other trend in the relations among states would be entirely excluded."

India has proposed admission of Red China to the United Nations at most assembly sessions since 1950. In each case, the assembly has voted to take no action in the matter.

Khrushchev Blushes At Leggy Showgirls

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Nikita Khrushchev blushed when Shirley MacLaine led a leggy chorus in a spirited performance of the "Can Can" for the Soviet leader and his wife.

The pudgy Communist boss appeared indignant after the performance when attempts were made to photograph him in proximity with the scantily-clad dancers and other Hollywood glamor girls, among them Marilyn Monroe.

"People look better from the front than from the back," he said and added that he thought "Can Can" was "tasteless" and would not be shown in Russia.

The "Can Can" performance was one of the big events during Khrushchev's visit to the studios of Twentieth Century Fox in Hollywood. The girls, led by Miss MacLaine, skipped out onto the studio floor with skirts fluttering just as the visiting couple finished lunch.

Khrushchev and his wife, Nina, appeared embarrassed by the performance.

Although Khrushchev had little actual contact with the stars, he did meet briefly with co-star Frank Sinatra, Maurice Chevalier and Miss MacLaine.

When Sinatra asked the Soviet leader how a cabaret set compared with cabarets in Russia, Khrushchev replied that he knew nothing of cabarets in any country and could make no comparison.

The Soviet premier proved Sunday there is nothing wrong with him that a good night's sleep and some popular American enthusiasm can't fix.

As his car rolled into the courtyard of the Mark Hopkins Hotel on Nob Hill after a trip from Los Angeles — he made several stops to greet crowds on the way — he looked tired.

But when he got a hearty welcome from a crowd of 10,000 the Khrushchev spirits jumped right up again.

Crack Sleuth On Trail Of Girl Killer

BOSTON (UPI)—A crack homicide detective today started on a cold trail in search of a killer who bent a Chicago divorcee aboard a Dutch freighter and hurled her body into the Atlantic.

Capt. Joseph B. Fallon, head of Boston's homicide squad, admitted Sunday night that he was without a clue in the slaying of pretty Lynn Kauffman, 23, daughter of a wealthy Chicago industrialist.

Fallon was expected to travel to New York today to confer with detectives who questioned those aboard the Dutch freighter S.S. Utrecht when it docked in Brooklyn Saturday. He may also question some members of the crew himself, according to a spokesman.

The badly beaten, half nude body of the girl, described as "the life of the ship," was found Saturday in outer Boston Harbor. A medical examiner said it appeared she was knocked unconscious and thrown overboard to drown. There was no evidence of rape.

Miss Kauffman was a research assistant to Prof. Stanley Spector of Washington University in St. Louis, who is an expert on Far East affairs. She was returning from a year in Singapore along with Spector's wife, three young children and a Chinese boy the couple hoped to adopt. The professor had returned three weeks ago.

The Sectors came here Sunday to identify the body of the girl and to talk with police.

WEATHER

Few showers in mountains; patchy morning fog Tuesday; High Tuesday 60-65; low tonight 30-35; frost likely valley pockets.

Wayne Morse Says 'Mr. K' Here Because He Worries About War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) said today he thought Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev came to the United States "because he is worried about war."

Morse said he also felt Khrushchev might not be the "absolute dictator" which the free world pictures him as.

The Oregon Democrat made the statements in a copyrighted interview appearing in U. S. News & World Report.

He met Khrushchev when the Soviet leader held a closed meeting with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week. Morse is a member of the group.

The senator said he believed Khrushchev was "greatly concerned about war" and knew "that a nuclear war between the United States and Russia will mean — for decades and decades to come — the end of both countries."

"He's realistic about that and we must be realistic about that too," Morse said.

"My feeling is he wants to work out some basis for peace," the senator said, "and I think we ought to try to negotiate on an honorable basis."

Thief Ransacks Home But Leaves With Hands Empty

A thief ransacked the closets and dressers of the Norman Davis residence between 7 and 9 p.m. Saturday and then left without taking anything, local police said.

The unidentified prowler gained entrance to the Davis residence, 3108 Fourth St., by tearing a screen from a back window and then sliding the window open.

Police arrested two La Grande drivers for operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license yesterday.

Richard Hamilton Turley, 18, 602 M Ave., was arrested at Greenwood and Adams Avenues for not having an operator's license on his person at 3:20 p.m.

Turley posted $10 bail and was released.

A hearing is scheduled at 3 p.m. today. Claudia Viola Oelhafeu, 47, 1908 Adams Ave., was arrested on Adams at 6:19 this morning on the no license charge.

Morse said it should be done through the United Nations "because these problems can't be solved by agreements between the United States and Russia."

The senator said he listened to Khrushchev for an hour and a half and studied him carefully. He said the Russian leader stressed "peace, peace, peace, peace" throughout his whole talk.

At the same time, Morse noted that the way in which Khrushchev fielded "hot potato" questions showed he was an "adept" debator and "very tough and very difficult."

Production Slowdown Looms In Steel Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Labor leaders indicated today that production slowdowns may be staged in several major industries if the government invokes the Taft-Hartley Act and striking steelworkers are ordered back to work.

It was learned authoritatively by United Press International that a possible general slowdown across the nation was being planned, mainly by officials of the United Auto Workers.

However, labor officials declined to issue a formal statement because of the possibility of opening the way to legal action against the unions involved.

One high-ranking AFL-CIO leader, attending the union's convention here, said possible slowdowns were being considered in the aircraft and electrical industries, as well as in steel and autos. He said any industry which used large quantities of steel might be involved, if an injunction is issued and steel production resumes.

President Eisenhower can invoke the Taft-Hartley Act whenever he considers that the steel strike is creating a national emergency. Under an injunction, the steel workers would be ordered back to their jobs but would be free to go on strike again if no settlement had been reached after 90 days.

The only public statement concerning a possible slowdown was a hint last week by Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the UAW.

SOVIET BOSS SPILLS OUT WOES TO SYMPATHETIC U.S. NEWSMAN

EDITOR'S NOTE: Nikita Khrushchev chatted with UPI Moscow Bureau Manager Henry Shapiro for 10 minutes on the train coming from Los Angeles to San Francisco Sunday. Khrushchev already knew Shapiro well in Moscow. This is Shapiro's account of their conversation.

By HENRY SHAPIRO UPI Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—I was sitting at a table of the club car typing a story when Premier Khrushchev came through the train. He was escorted by Henry Cabot Lodge and accompanied by his interpreter Viktor Sukhodrev and several security officers.

Khrushchev knows me from Moscow and he headed over to my table. His tired face broke into a broad smile and he stretched out his hand and addressed me in Russian, "I am glad to see a familiar face," he said. "There are several Moscow correspondents here..."

I stood up and we chatted in Russian.

I asked him how he was bearing up.

"Not badly," he said, "although the diet and the mode of living is quite different than what I am accustomed to."

Having witnessed the frosty reception Khrushchev had been given in Los Angeles, I asked his reaction.

The smile vanished and Khrushchev told of riding in a car with the "deputy mayor of Los Angeles." Khrushchev said he was a swarthy man and the Soviet leader asked him if he was Armenian.

"The deputy mayor replied, 'No, I am a Russian-born Jew and I was born in Rostov.'"

"I said to him: 'You could not have lived in Rostov if you were Jewish because before the revolution Jews were not allowed to live in that Cossack area.'"

Khrushchev said the man then told him that his father was a manufacturer whom the Czars permitted to reside in Rostov on the Don River.

"And that's the kind of person appointed to welcome me," Khrushchev said. "He does not represent the real American people."

"But he is an American," I rejoined.

"Yes, he is an American," Khrushchev said, "but understand the psychology of the man. The Bolsheviks nationalized his father's factory and he is appointed to welcome me."

In Los Angeles, Khrushchev's automobile companion was identified as Victor Carter, president of Republic Studios and a member of the Los Angeles Fire Commission. The city has no deputy mayor. Mayor Norris Poulson said Carter was chosen because he was a leading member of the community and spoke Russian,
